

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Camilla Urso has sailed from New York for Rio Janeiro. Rose Wood will be Joe Jefferson's leading lady next season. Annie Pixley will spend the Summer at Fort Stanley, Ont. Mrs. Scott-Siddons has taken the Haymarket Theater, London. Jarrett's "Fun on the Bristol" party opened at the Baldwin on Monday. Tony Pastor is about erecting a new theater in Brooklyn, to seat 3,000 people. A concert singer who recently received a benefit in Cincinnati is named Miss Louise Rollwagen. Miss Jeffreys-Lewis is making preparations for a combination to support her in a starring tour next season. McCullough has been made an honorary member of the Garrick Club, London. Henry Irving was his proposer. Max Freeman's San Francisco benefit will take place at the Baldwin about the last of the month, after which he leaves for the East. Lytton Sothers, son of his father, is going to organize a company and star in "Fogarty's Fairy," the piece written by W. S. Gilbert for his lamented progenitor. Bishop's "Widow Bodott" party has been playing at the Standard Theater, San Francisco, during the past week. Jas. O. Barrows is a prominent member of the organization. The amazing story is told that Bernhardt made the thirteen members of her company a present of their return passage to Europe, and her share of the season's receipts was only $181.00. There is one way to tell a leading actress from one who isn't but wishes she was. The former promenades the streets like other women, while the latter will generally be seen pulling a string behind her, with a pug-nosed pup at the end of it. Manager Stechhan has engaged Mr. John Stetson, a vigorous actor of ability, for a short season in this city, and he will appear at New Market Theater on the 20th inst., playing for one week, during which time he will present a number of his favorite pieces, in one of which, "Karnatak," he achieved a great success at the California Theater recently. The London Globe says, in relation to the performance of "Otello" by Mr. Booth and Mr. Irving, that the latter's method is more imaginative and impulsive, and Booth's more finished and correct. There is scarcely a point of resemblance between them. Booth's Otello is more virile and conceivable, and Irving's more ideal and sympathetic. Booth's Iago is more human in his villainy, while Irving's has a grotesque, quasi-imaginative diabolism suggestive of an origin scarcely more human than Caliban's.

Quoted from Booth.

The following statement of William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., is so remarkable that we beg to ask for it the attention of our readers. He says: "In the Fall of 1878 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs, followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the Summer of 1877 I was admitted to the City Hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half dollar. I expended over $200 in doctor and medicines. I was so far gone at one time that a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable; but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have for the past three years. I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles, and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness. My cough has almost entirely disappeared, and I shall soon be able to go to work." Sold by druggists.
