PUBLISHERS' ANNOUNCEMENT

In posting our books for the year 1894 we find there are a number of persons indebted to us in small amounts which aggregate several thousand dollars. Like almost every body else, we are sadly in need of money with which to pay our indebtedness—not for investment or speculation. Our creditors are in the same fix, and are crowding us. Consequently we are compelled to urge upon our friends the necessity of the payment of the small amounts due us. Therefore we will at the earliest possible moment render a statement of account, as appears from our books January 1, 1894, to every person indebted to us. Where there are so many small accounts it is next to impossible to keep all of them correctly, hence when you receive a statement and think it is incorrect, even if you have paid it and we failed to give you credit, don't "fly off the handle" and get mad, but write kindly and tell us about it—if you can't write kindly, write any way, for we want to have our books correct. If you can't pay the whole amount of your bill, a portion of it will be thankfully received, and if it is not convenient for you to pay any of it, let us know that fact also. We would be pleased to have every person receiving a statement of account to acknowledge its receipt at their earliest convenience. PLAINDEALER PUB. CO.

Hon. John L. Stevens, ex-minister to Hawaii, died at Augusta, Maine, last Friday.

Many democratic papers and politicians are sorely distressed because Senator Dolph has not been re-elected.

There is some consolation in the fact that the present legislature will retire Friday of next week. This is indeed fortunate.

According to the Oregonian the judgment of the people of Clatsop county is expressed by the principal newspaper of the county because it favors the re-election of Dolph. Here in Douglas it is quite different, because every newspaper in the county is opposed to Dolph.

There is still room for hundreds of intelligent fruit growers in Douglas county, such as will plant the right thing in the right place, take proper care of the trees when growing, prune properly, and when bearing thin properly, pick at the right stage of ripeness and pack nicely in clean boxes, fight all damaging insects and fungi with the best implements and insecticides to be had, and otherwise using all the intelligence they have in their business. Eternal vigilance is the price of good fruit in this or any other country, and for that reason we think there will always be a good price for good fruit. Concert of action and union of purpose among fruit growers, is all that is necessary to make fruit shipping profitable and maintain it so.

A dispatch from Washington reminiscently discusses the fact that during Harrison's administrarion the national debt was considered anything but a national blessing, for the then secretary of the treasury actually offered a premium to the holders of bonds to turn them in, so that the idle money in the government's vaults might be utilized. While the correspondent who telegraphed this observation may fancy that he has made a discovery, it is nevertheless the fact that the people have been well aware of it for many months, and that the general allusion of the knowledge of this particular circumstance, had a good deal to do with the Waterloo of the democratic party in November last. It might be added that nothing could contribute more to the success of the republicans in 1896 than to permit the orators of the party to point to the fact that during Harrison's administration the national debt was reduced $250,000,000, and the interest charge accordingly, while during the reign of Grover it was increased $600,000,000, as it will be if his recommendation is carried out.

Under the Harrison administration complete reciprocity was established with Germany by which the sugar of that country was admitted into this free of duty while the meat products of the United States were admitted without restriction into Germany. The result for this country was cheaper sugar and a better market for our meat products. But now under the policy which was to "capture the markets of the world for us" you know, all that has changed. In response to the demands of the sugar trust, the tariff upon that article was restored, and in retaliation Germany has laid an embargo upon American cattle and dressed meats of all kinds, thus closing to us a market that had grown to an amount of several millions annually. In like manner the great trade that had been built up between this country and Cuba, by virtue of reciprocity treaties with Spain, has been already almost as completely destroyed as if the island of Cuba had sunk into the sea. The democratic administration has succeeded almost as well in destroying foreign trade as it has in paralyzing domestic industry. But democracy is doomed, doomed to complete disintegration.

AMERICAN TIN PLATE.

This country is the greatest consumer of tin plate in the world. Tin plate, we need hardly explain, is a thin sheet of iron or steel coated with tin, the cover or envelope giving the name to the product instead of the base or foundation.

The history of tin plate has been written so often as to make repetition ridiculous. For years this country has drawn its supplies of tin plate from Wales, and it is to be noted that whenever the import duty on tin plate has been low the price of the article has been high, and that whenever there has been an attempt to encourage the manufacture of tin plate in the United States by a reasonable protective duty the Welsh manufactures have reduced the selling price of their product.

The secretay of the Association of Iron and Steel Manufacturers of the United States has announced very recently that the tin-plate manufacturing industry of the United States is to be increased at once. The present output of tin plate in this country is about 230,000 tons per year, and the new plants will bring it up to 290,000 tons, which will nearly meet the requirements of the country.

This increase in out-put is the direct and obvious result of the protective tariff. The tariff act of 1883 made the duty on tin plate 1 4-10 cents per pound; the McKinley bill raised it to 2 2-10 cents after July 1, 1891; the Wilson bill reduced it to 1 1-5 cents after October 1, 1894, but the Wilson rate, taking into consideration the cheapness of the component materials of tin plate at the present time, is quite as much protection as the McKinley bill, and hence the remarkable increase in the number and output of tin-plate manufactories in the United States.

Wales has learned the difference between free trade and protection, so far as tin plate is concerned, and it has been declared publicly by English trade journals that hereafter Wales could not find a market for her tin plate in this country. We can make tin plate to just as good advantage as Wales can, unless the product be put on the free list, and even the democratic party will be shy at taking such a step as that.

Saturday the president sent a message to congress announcing that, after "cautious preparations" had been pending for several days, arrangements had been concluded with parties abundantly able to fulfill their undertaking, whereby bonds of the United States, authorized under the act of July 14, 1875, payable in coin 30 years after their date, with interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum, to amount to little less than $62,400,000, are to be issued for the purchase of gold coin amounting to a sum slightly in excess of $65,000,000 to be delivered at the treasury of the United States; which sum, added to the gold now held in our reserve, will so rest in such reserve as to make it amount to something more than $100,000,000. Such premium is to be allowed to the government upon the bonds as will fix the rate of interest upon the amount of gold realized at 3¾ per cent per annum.

In Memorian.

A fond and loving son and brother has passed away under circumstances most harrowing to affectionate friends and relatives at home in Roseburg. One hundred and fifty miles north of Moscow on Salmon river, and amid bleak winds and heavy drifts of snow, far away from kindred and loved ones, W. Edward Ruckle met the grim monster, Death, was stricken with his icy darts, laid low with the earth, and passed to that realm from which no traveler returns. He was born July 2, 1862, and surrendered his spirit to the God that gave it, February 1, 1895. Edward Ruckle is remembered here as a happy-hearted youth, one who was always greeted by his associates with a pleasing smile and a hearty grasp of the hand, signifying a warm and lasting friendship. But that smile will no more be seen on this earth, and no more can we grasp that generous hand now icy cold beyond the portals of the grave. But we can cherish in our hearts his kindly acts, his devotion to kindred, and the serene and cheerful disposition characteristic of his life. Yet, we have one consolation, for no more will the tumultuous waves of life's giddy sea again cause pain or anguish to his immortal spirit which is now at peace and rest with his God. We drop a tear to his memory, and extend a heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved parents and relatives.

Take roses in both hands and strew
The graves of those to honor known,
But, oh! one tender thought is due
To him who died alone, far from kindred and friends. A FRIEND.

Lower Olalla Items.

Died, at his residence in Ten Mile, Feb. 6th, Wm. N. McCullock, aged 86 years. "One more has joined the innumerable caravan that moves to that mysterious realm, where each shall take His chamber in the silent halls of death."

Miss Lettie Cooper is again staying in the Lower valley.

Mr. Beno has established himself at W. R. Wells' as "chief cook and bottle washer."

There is some talk of a dance in the Olalla school house the 22d of this month.

Some of the young people of this place say they are going to Camas Feb. 14, to attend the mask ball. Perhaps they are only "talking through their hats."

It looks now as though there would be a lively competition for the Olalla spring term of school. We sincerely hope there will be no hair pulling.

SILVER GAINING GROUND.

A Majority in the U. S. Senate Favor Free Coinage.

It is admitted that the voice of the Eastern States, especially as heard through bankers, boards of trade and commercial associations, is generally against the free coinage of silver. These classes have lately been keeping the wires warm with appeals to members of congress to stand by the president, or to help out the administration bill—to do anything to maintain gold monometalism and defeat, if only temporarily, all plans for the remonetization of silver.

The fact is that in the East, as has been much the case until lately in Oregon, the people have heard but little excepting on one side of the question. They have been deceived by an ignorant or a subsidized press. The same pet phrases that are familiar to readers of the Oregonian, such as "honest money," "sound principles," "natural laws," "debased currency," "50-cent dollars," etc., etc., have been kept before them until they generally suppose they and the fallacies and sophistries based upon them are irrefutable financial truths. Yet the light is spreading, even in darkest New York and Boston, and the silver sentiment is growing.

It is undoubtedly growing faster among the people than is indicated as yet by their representation in congress, but even there the silver cause has made substantial and practical gains within two years. That it has done so while during the same time the republican party won its most complete victory since the war, and the most phenominal victory of its history, is of itself sufficient refutation of the assertion that the republican party is and always will be indissolubly wedded to gold monometalism.

No accurate and trustworthy canvass of the next house of representatives has been made, though since bimetalist republicans are coming to the front everywhere and confounding the goldoliters, it may be asumed that quite a number of the new congressmen who are relied upon by the monometalists will disappoint them when the test comes, just as they have in the legislature of Oregon this winter. But in the senate the position of senators has been pretty accurately ascertained. The vote taken on the repeal of the Sherman law, on October 20, 1893, showed that 20 democratic and 23 republican senators voted for it, and 19 republicans, 9 democrats and 4 populists against it, the total being 43 for and 32 against.

But the conditions have since then changed in favor of the free-silver cause. Last week press dispatches announced that several senators had made a careful canvass, with the result that forty-seven senators were in favor of free silver coinage and thirty-nine were opposed. This left Clark of Wyoming and Wilson of Washington out of the calculation, but there is little doubt that one, if not both, of them will vote for silver remonetization and coinage. It also counted Dolph on the side of the goldoliters, but from present appearances he will not have a vote or voice in the next congress. The poll as then made up stands as follows:

For free silver—Messrs. Allen, Bate, Berry, Blackburn, Blanchard, Butler, Call, Cameron, Cockrell, Coke, Daniel, Dubois, Faulkner, George, Gordon, Hansbrough, Harris, Hunton, Irby, Jones (Ark.), Jones (Nev.), Kyle, McLaurin, Mantle, Martin, Mills, Mitchell (Or.), Morgan, Pasco, Peffer, Perkins, Pettigrew, Power, Pritchard, Pugh, Ransom, Roach, Shoup, Squire, Stewart, Teller, Turpie, Vest, Voorhees, Walsh, White and Wolcott. Total—47.

Against free coinage—Messrs. Aldrich, Allison, Brice, Barrows, Caffery, Camden, Carey, Chandler, Cullom, Davis, Dixon, Dolph, Frye, Gallinger, Gibson, Gorman, Gray, Hale, Hawley, Higgins, Hill, Hoar, Lindsay, Lodge, McMillan, McPherson, Manderson, Mitchell (Wis.), Morrill, Murphy, Palmer, Platt, Proctor, Quay, Sherman, Smith, Vilas, Washburn, Wilson. Total—39.

Again referring to the claim that the republican party is bound to stand for the single gold standard, and that it should so stand unitedly, here in Oregon, it should be noticed that in the first list above quoted are the names of ten republicans—not populists, but men who are still republicans, such as Cameron of Pennsylvania, Dubois of Idaho, Perkins of California, Hansbrough of Dakota and Squire of Washington. Also that a number of democrats, like Gray, Brice and Gorman, are counted with the opposition. Hill's name is also placed there, though it is supposed he may come over to the free coinage side. Notice, also, the fact, one that should have significance and weight with the Oregon legislature, that every far-Western senator, every one not only from the Pacific coast but west of the Mississippi (except Carey, retired), is for free coinage. Is Oregon to be alone among all this great western half of the continent?

The list as above printed is not as favorable to silver as it should be made, for Nelson will soon succeed Washburn, from Minnesota, Clark will succeed Carey from Wyoming, and Dolph will be retired from Oregon. Then the free coinage strength in the senate will be greater than ever before, and irresistible.

Of course, this does not carry the cause through. The house it yet doubtful, and the president stands as an impassable barrier to the restoration of the people's money—for it is not presumed that two-thirds can be obtained in both houses for free silver; but these facts are sufficient to show that the people's money cause is gaining ground, that it has done so concurrently with republican success, and that the West is unanimous for it—save only Dolph and his supporters in Oregon. —Sun.
