A LITTLE THING.

Such a little thing hides the sun, sweethcart Such a little thing hides the sun. A sudden cloud or a wall of mist, And we mean "The day is done!" Such a little thing hides the sun, sweethcart. The top of waving tree, A summer shower, of the sunshine born. A mist that dips in the sea.

Such a little thing hides the sun, sweetheart.
But isn't it joy to know
That the sun still shines behind the clouds:
That the soft, warm winds will blow
Till the wall of mist shall be blown aside
And the shadows fice away.
And the sun behind the western hills
Gives piedge of a brighter day!

KID GLOVES.

Interesting Facts About the Skins Whiel Barefooted boys and hens ferm a curious partnership in the making of a pair of fine gloves.

They work together in preparing the skins for the hands of the fashionable woman who rushes to the stores every time a new shade of glove is announced.

Thousands of dozens of hens' eggs are used in curing the hides, and thousands of boys are employed to work the skins in clear water by treading on them for several hours.

When a woman buys a pair of gloves, she speaks of her purchase as "kids." If the clerk who sold her the "kid" gloves knew the secrets of the glovemaking business, he might surprise his fair customer by telling her that those beautiful, soft, smooth fitting "kid" gloves came from the shoulders and belly of a 3-weeks-old colt whose neck was slit on the plains of Russia, and whose tender hide was shipped with huge bundles of other colts' hides to France, where they were made up into "kid" gloves, or he might with equal regard to the truth tell her that those gloves in the other compartment once darted from tree to tree in South America on the back of a ring tailed monkey. And if he made the rounds of the store and could distinguish one skin from another he could point out "kid" gloves made from the skins of kangaroos from Australia; lambs or sheep from Ohio or Spain or England; calves from oxen from China and other parts of Asia; rats, cats and Newfoundland pup-India, muskrats from anywhere, musk

But the little Russian colt, the four footed baby from the plains where the Cossacks live, the colt from the steppes of Siberia, where horses are raised by the thousand, supply the skins which are the favorites at present with the glovemakers. Experts say that the coltthan real kidskin, and as the colt is a little fellow only 3 weeks old when he is killed but a small amount of skin can Its Farm Features. be made into gloves, so that the price is

But, after all, the real kid, the lively infant of the goats which live in France, Switzerland, Spain and Italy, furnishes the best, finest and most expensive gloves, and nearly 10,000,000 kids are sacrificed every year in order that women and men may cramp their hands in wrinkleless, delicate hued gloves.-Chicago Record.

Under the title of "A Game We Might Play," the Marquis of Lorne in Good Words puts in a plea for an open air winter pastime in the low countries of northern Europe which has for centuries enjoyed a sort of national reputation. It is a rough sort of golf, played without clubs or holes, is inexpensive and can be played by two single opponents or with two on a side. The article contains a very picturesque description of a match between two villages in Friesland, at which the writer was present, and conveys a striking impression of the popularity of the game and of the spirited emulation which it awakens. It is pointed out that in England there are many districts, especially in the east of the island, which are peculiarly well adapted to the game, there being in these parts much flat land where winter makes the ground hard. Wherever these conditions exist, there, we are told, the "klotschiessen," or "clotshot" game can be played with advantage.—London

Figg-What kind of a writer is Dabster? Is he possessed of descriptive pow-

Fogg-Unfortunately, yes. Figg-Unfortunately?

Fogg-Yes. In his recent sketch of a western girl be spoke of her commercial traveler manner and her generous understanding. The Chicago people allowed that the "commercial traveler manner" was a compliment of which anybody except in the effete east might well be proud, but they suspected that the other characterization was a chesp fling at the size of women's shoes, and after that his writings were a drug in the western market—Boston Transcript.

At Delnicze, near Flume, on the Adriatic, 26 girls were carried off on horseback in one night recently by lovers to whom their parents had refused to give them. It is not uncommon for Croatian girls to force consent to their marriage by an elopement, but an organized raid like this is unprecedented and has made a sensation even in Crostia.—Cincinnati Enquirer.
