WHERE WAGES WERE AD-VANCED.

At last a genuine, undeniable and important advance in wages has been announced. It is an advance of from 10 per cent to 221 per cent over the former rates, and its benefits are enjoyed by a very large number of workmen. Moreover, there is explicit testimony-the first of the kind on record-that this increase was due directly to the enactment of the Gorman-Wilson tariff. Having said this much, it is, of course, scarcely necessary to add that the increase has taken place on the other side of the ocean, and that foreign and not American workmen are its benefici-
