THE PLAINEALER

SEPTEMBER 5, 1895. U. S. Department of Agriculture Weather Bureau. ROSEBURG, Ore., September 4, 1895.

At bedrock prices. We think we are dealing as square as our neighbors, and certainly don't want but one price for our goods. Call on H. C. Stanton.

John N. Roberts of Myrtle Point is in the city. J. B. McGee of Cottage Grove is at the Van Houten.

From Tuesday's Daily. John N. Roberts of Myrtle Point is in the city. J. B. McGee of Cottage Grove is at the Van Houten.

Sunday there was quite a shower of rain, but now it is about as dry and the smoke is about as thick as ever.

Dr. Parrish of Monmouth was in town last week. He had been on Sixes river attending to his mining interests.

Mrs. A. J. Richardson of Tacoma is in the city on a visit to her son, T. K., and will probably stay several months.

Two blower-clad young ladies on horseback, riding on the streets of Eugene, after man's fashion, have caused considerable comment.

The city council and the water company had another round at the city hall last night but no conclusion was arrived at regarding the water business.

"Say, Chimmie, come down—go in" to have a bully lot of fun. "What?" "We've fed the goat six sedilla powders, and now we're going to let 'im drink."

Rev. Gilman Parker of Portland will preach in the Baptist church next Sunday night at 7:30. Mr. Parker is one of Portland's ablest preachers. All are cordially invited.

"No," said the girl to the wrong young man, "my new dress won't be finished in time, and mamma doesn't want me to go, anyway. I'm so sorry. Besides, I'm going with Mr. Jones."—New York Record.

The entertainment at the Roseburg theater last night for the benefit of the band was highly successful from a musical and dramatic point of view, but the attendance was light and the net receipts ditto. Better luck next time.

In the case of State of Oregon vs. Albert Poole, a motion for change of venue was argued before Judge Fullerton yesterday. The motion was denied. On filing bond of $1000, with Willis Kramer and F. M. Tipton as sureties, the prisoner was released.

Mr. J. Walker of Polk county passed through town today. He reports hope are all the talk down there at this time. The hope of Polk he says promises a large yield, but the prospect of much money being made from them is not very flattering.

Assessor Sterling reports that there must be from 300 to 500 more people in Roseburg now than there was when the census was taken several months ago.

John Tipton's son, near Looking Glass, had the forefinger of his right hand amputated last Saturday. It was first chopped off by his little sister with an ax.

Cassfield & Cassfield have constructed a new side walk in front of their feed and supply store on Cass street. It is a little elevated, but keep sober and you'll not stumble on nor off it.

Owen Roberts and Walter Cockle of Independence, who have been on Sixes river for two months, came into Roseburg last Sunday, and returned to Independence on the overland.

C. L. Hadley will open torsorial parlors at 209 Oak street between the marble shop west of the Abrahams' building. Charley is a good artist. Give him a call for a clean shave.

Dropping a nickel in the slot of the machine at the Roseburg is a popular pastime just now. From two to a hundred cigars can be obtained for a nickel, if you strike the right combination.

A man may say, And a man may puff and blow; But he can't get trade By sitting in the shade Waiting for business to grow. If he's wise He'll advertise.

At a special meeting of Rescue Hook & Ladder Company held Monday night, the company decided to give a grand uniform ball on the night of September 19th, for the purpose of raising funds to complete the payment on their new uniforms just received. The boys look stunning in their new clothes.

The PLAINEALER is not giving much attention nowadays to politics. It is not the season for it. But just wait until the watermelon season and potato harvest is over, then look out. In the meantime keep your eye on Wm. McKinley, of Ohio, for president and Benzer Hermann of Oregon, for congress.

Salem Statesman: The Oregon City Enterprise is advocating a vehicle tax to keep the roads in repair. It suggests a dollar a year for bicycles, a dollar and a half for single buggies, and so on up to large farm wagons. This might be well and the most equitable way if we had any roads to keep in repair.

Probably the readers of the PLAINEALER may still have some interest in the sketches of travel we had traced, and will continue with us until the end. We propose to continue these sketches, including our return to Oregon in the fall of 1894. The reader will remember we left him on the bank of the Sacramento opposite Benica, where a temporary laundry was set up, to remove the stains of travel from our scanty wardrobes.

We left this point in good spirits, thinking our travel for a time would be ended. One evening we camped near the residence of a wealthy Spaniard and we were in want of some fresh meat. While we were dickering with him trying to make known our wants by signs and incomprehensible language to him, John Bidwell rode up and saluted us in a most friendly manner, and inquired, "What are you doing here? The last time I saw you was on the other side of the Rocky mountains."

Sure enough, five years prior to our meeting in California, he had been teaching the young idea how to shoot in Platte county, Missouri, to some of the party there and then ascended. This John Bidwell was the distinguished candidate for the presidency on the prohibition ticket at our last national election. He was very fluent in the Spanish language, and soon gave the Spaniard to understand who we were and what we wanted.

That evening we had a feast exceeding anything we had taken of since leaving the eastern states, and while at feasting, Bidwell entertained us with the most lavish description of California's beauties, its adaptation to the wants of man, and the prospective position it must attain to as one of the states of the federal union. To one of our party whom Bidwell highly esteemed, and whose children he had under his care when a teacher, he offered a league square of land on the Feather river if he would go and settle on it and make it his future home. But the generous offer was declined, as the one to whom the proposition was made had a poor opinion of that part of California, and could not come to the conclusion to settle down permanently until by observation and experience he found what he sought for when he undertook the hazardous trip from Oregon to California.

On leaving the camp above referred to, Bidwell accompanied us a few miles, giving advice and directions how to proceed on to Santa Clara, and also gave us a short note in introduction to the English consul then residing there, and which we afterwards found to be of much value to us in obtaining work and receiving kind treatment from the Spaniards, then highly excited on the consequences of the war just then terminated between the United States and Mexico. We arrived at Santa Clara the 1st of July and camped near the Mission building, built of adobe by the Indians under the superintendency of Catholic priests, and which building had a cemetery of about two acres adjoining, in which good Catholics had been interred for 40 or 50 years, and in digging a new grave, we have upon more than one occasion, seen the bones of one long since consigned to mother earth, thrown to the surface, and then again shoveled in with the body just deceased into the new made pit. We were tendered the privilege of having our mortal remains interred there if we would pay due observance to the dignitaries of the church and become a willing member of the same. We had no earnest desires for burial just at that time, and concluded we would prefer a more tempting place for the repose of our bodies when our earthly career was ended. We camped as before remarked near this holiest of spots, the rocky faithful, purchased a small allowance of food with which to make a fire and cook our supper.

We got some news of the mission orland near by, secured a supply of good fat beef, some watermelons and four dozen eggs, we came near having another feast. We were camped on the boulevard, the road running from Santa Clara to San Jose, both sides of the road being lined with willow trees, the whole distance between the points, and while we were feasting our eyes were regaled by the sight of lovely Spanish women riding up and down the road with their swarthy colored beaus, male and female both mounted on the same horse, handsomely caparioned, the woman in the saddle sideways, the man astraddle behind her, one arm over her shoulder, reins in hand guiding the evolutions of their spirited steeds. 'Twas a sight that won our admiration.

Speaking of the pears, they were the only fruit raised in California at that time, with the exception of a few inferior apples that were reserved especially for the priests in charge of the mission, and who to him who dare partake of the "forbidden fruit." It was cause for deep penance on the part of the offender and for seeking absolution from him whose laws had been violated.

This morning, August 20th, we saw for the first time in five years, who was of the party at the time of which we write. It was Mrs. Mary Richards of Stephens, who was carried in the arms of her mother from the Willamette valley to Santa Clara, crossing dangerous streams and ascending and descending mountainous heights that would strike with terror the hearts of many of our fair daughters of the present day. On crossing the Klamath river the water was up half way the sides of the horses, and the horse bearing the precious burden allowed to, swerved from the straight course, and was beating down the stream caused by the rider bearing her weight too much that way, when an old mountaineer by the name of Saxon, spurred his mule, sprang from the bank, guided him below the drifting horse, led him to the opposite bank, and then possibly saved the two from a watery grave. S.

What Will the Harvest Be? The above is an important question, and one the solution of which involves the well or woe of the Oregon farmer. Another question of equal importance is, where shall we go to lay in our supplies of clothing and dry goods? The answer to the latter question might be readily answered by saying, "Go to the Square Deal store of Wollenberg & Ah. Rapp, where are kept large supplies suitable for the wants of all, and which they will dispose of for greenbacks, gold or silver, at very reasonable rates."

There will be a dance in Griddle's hop house on the evening of the 6th, with an oyster supper. Catarrh. K. W. JOY COMPANY—Gentlemen: I have completed the second bottle of your Vegetable Sarsaparilla. I have had Catarrh for several months, my eyes, hearing and stomach. Frequently would have died, had it not been for your medicine. I have taken your medicine for days at a time, since taking your remedy I have felt no disagreeable symptoms. Trusting you will publish this as I want my own sufferer from any of the above symptoms to be benefited. Kindly send me two more bottles to return express. Sincerely yours, MR. FREDERICK DE RICHMOND, Seattle, Wash. Every mail brings a new batch of testimonials for Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Freight Traffic is Heavy. Perhaps about the best criterion of the approach of good times again is offered by the Great Northern in the enormous increase of its freight business. The amount of merchandise which is being shipped West over the road is unprecedented at this time of year, according to the statements of the officials. The company is calling in all its available rolling stock and is apprehensive that the supply of cars will fall short of the demand. "It is nothing new," said W. J. Evans, assistant general freight agent, last week in St. Paul, "to have a shortage of cars for grain shipment, east, but merchandise west never had such a run as it has now. Look at the outlook," he continued, pointing to the long line of waiting trains. "We will have the very best fall we have had for years, not excepting the 'boom' years. It's a pity a little of that could not have been distributed through the dull seasons we have passed through; but just now we have an avalanche of merchandise transportation to the West that I cannot recall the equal of. The times are not only improving; they have got beyond our most sanguine expectations. Inquiry at the freight house elicited the information that the shipment's West were staple merchandise, groceries, dry goods, etc., and the master freight man, who has been there for 20 years, says that he hasn't seen the like of it in his experience. Other roads, also, report excellent business.

The Firm's Contest. VANCOUVER, Wash., Sept. 1.—This forenoon the dry-test contest was won by the Oregon City team, though it made the slowest time, 49 seconds, the other three teams being thrown out for not having the required number of threads on the nozzle, otherwise the Astoria team would have been the winner in a close second, with the Dalles team a close second, by two fifths of a second. The hub-and-bulb contest was won by Astoria, time 23 4/5 seconds, the Dalles second, time 24 1/5 seconds. The attendance was small, owing to threatening weather. In a leading article the London Globe expresses the opinion that the German celebration endangers the peace of Europe. The tone of the Berlin papers has been offensive and such as to necessarily wound the feelings of the French people. The emperor has allowed himself to use language which is at least capable of being misunderstood. While the Globe does not believe that the emperor desires war, his utterances, it is said, are assuredly not such as to further peace. Many farmers, while the price was 46 cents for quantities of their wheat, The Benton Mills have already purchased about $30,000 bushels, the Corvallis mills as much or more, W. A. Wells 10,000, James A. Cantham 3,000 and Thomas Samuels several thousand. In consequence a large amount of money is in circulation.—Times. Mr. Anderson, of Forest Grove, has been offered $2000 for his crop of prunes and plums, to be delivered at the depot, the buyer to pick and dry the crop. It is estimated his grapes will bring him $1000. Labor day was observed by the bankers and capitalists and some of the wholesale merchants and most of the high-salaried public officials. The hard-handled workmen had neither time nor money for it.—Oregonian. The democracy of Pennsylvania has split square in two on the free silver coinage question.

The greatest known remedy for Indigestion. Try it. For sale at M. F. Rapp's drug store, Roseburg, Oregon. N Society woman often feel the effect of too much gayety—bills, theatres, and leads in rapid succession find them worn out or "run-down" by the end of the season. They suffer from nervousness, sleeplessness and irregularities. The smile and good spirits take flight. It is time to accept the help offered by Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a medicine which was discovered and used by a prominent physician for many years in all cases of "female complaint" and the nervous disorders which arise from it. The "Prescription" is a powerful uterine tonic and nerve, especially adapted to women's delicate wants for it regulates and promotes all the natural functions, builds up invigorates and cures. Many women suffer from nervous prostration or exhaustion, owing to congestion or to disorder of the special functions. The waste products should be quickly got rid of the local source of irritation relieved and the system invigorated with the "Prescription." Do not take the so-called celery compounds, and nervines which only put the nerves to sleep, but get a lasting cure with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. "FEMALE WEAKNESS." Mrs. WILLIAM HOOVER, of Del Norte, Del Norte Co., Ore. writes: "I had been a great sufferer from 'female weakness.' I tried three doctors; they did me no good. I was in a rapid succession of invalids. I was an invalid for ever. But I heard of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and then I wrote to him and he told me just how to take it. I took eight bottles, and now I feel as well as I ever did. I could stand on my feet only a short time, and now I do all my work for my family and give."

I have had Catarrh for several months, my eyes, hearing and stomach. Frequently would have died, had it not been for your medicine. I have taken your medicine for days at a time, since taking your remedy I have felt no disagreeable symptoms. Trusting you will publish this as I want my own sufferer from any of the above symptoms to be benefited. Kindly send me two more bottles to return express. Sincerely yours, MR. FREDERICK DE RICHMOND, Seattle, Wash. Every mail brings a new batch of testimonials for Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Freight Traffic is Heavy. Perhaps about the best criterion of the approach of good times again is offered by the Great Northern in the enormous increase of its freight business. The amount of merchandise which is being shipped West over the road is unprecedented at this time of year, according to the statements of the officials. The company is calling in all its available rolling stock and is apprehensive that the supply of cars will fall short of the demand. "It is nothing new," said W. J. Evans, assistant general freight agent, last week in St. Paul, "to have a shortage of cars for grain shipment, east, but merchandise west never had such a run as it has now. Look at the outlook," he continued, pointing to the long line of waiting trains. "We will have the very best fall we have had for years, not excepting the 'boom' years. It's a pity a little of that could not have been distributed through the dull seasons we have passed through; but just now we have an avalanche of merchandise transportation to the West that I cannot recall the equal of. The times are not only improving; they have got beyond our most sanguine expectations. Inquiry at the freight house elicited the information that the shipment's West were staple merchandise, groceries, dry goods, etc., and the master freight man, who has been there for 20 years, says that he hasn't seen the like of it in his experience. Other roads, also, report excellent business.

The Firm's Contest. VANCOUVER, Wash., Sept. 1.—This forenoon the dry-test contest was won by the Oregon City team, though it made the slowest time, 49 seconds, the other three teams being thrown out for not having the required number of threads on the nozzle, otherwise the Astoria team would have been the winner in a close second, with the Dalles team a close second, by two fifths of a second. The hub-and-bulb contest was won by Astoria, time 23 4/5 seconds, the Dalles second, time 24 1/5 seconds. The attendance was small, owing to threatening weather. In a leading article the London Globe expresses the opinion that the German celebration endangers the peace of Europe. The tone of the Berlin papers has been offensive and such as to necessarily wound the feelings of the French people. The emperor has allowed himself to use language which is at least capable of being misunderstood. While the Globe does not believe that the emperor desires war, his utterances, it is said, are assuredly not such as to further peace. Many farmers, while the price was 46 cents for quantities of their wheat, The Benton Mills have already purchased about $30,000 bushels, the Corvallis mills as much or more, W. A. Wells 10,000, James A. Cantham 3,000 and Thomas Samuels several thousand. In consequence a large amount of money is in circulation.—Times. Mr. Anderson, of Forest Grove, has been offered $2000 for his crop of prunes and plums, to be delivered at the depot, the buyer to pick and dry the crop. It is estimated his grapes will bring him $1000. Labor day was observed by the bankers and capitalists and some of the wholesale merchants and most of the high-salaried public officials. The hard-handled workmen had neither time nor money for it.—Oregonian. The democracy of Pennsylvania has split square in two on the free silver coinage question.
