NOTABLE OBJECT LESSON.

Six years ago no tin-plate was made in the United States. The McKinley act placed a duty on tin-plate that enabled domestic manufacturers to start. The first year of the duty the industry gave a product of 6092 tons. During the year 1895, though the duty had been partly withdrawn, it produced 86,518 tons. The foreign product, since reduction of the duty, is pressing heavily individual saved the nation.
