

PROTECTION THE THING.

The occasion of popular elections often incite bad feelings. To men of calm judgment these ebullitions of ill feelings are distasteful. The better class of men condemn all these personal aspersions as unbecoming a good citizen.

The PLAINDALKER, while admitting that the men on both the opposite tickets are good men, claims that those on the republican ticket are equally as good as any named by our opponents.

We believe in American protection to all American institutions, as against foreign goods, foreign labor and foreign products. We believe in a system of currency so adjusted that every dollar, whether gold silver or paper, shall be on a parity—that is, each dollar of these different sorts of money shall possess the same purchasing and debt paying power.

The republican party came into power in 1861, and, notwithstanding the democratic party whose head and shoulders, the slave power, revolted and waged war upon republicanism for four long years, the party put down that rebel.

With such a proud history of the republican party we appeal to every member of it to stand firm and unwavering. The financial difficulty now on is the result of measures antagonistic to republicanism.

GOLD, SILVER AND PAPER MONEY.

The free-silverites seem to think that the unlimited coinage of silver will be the nation's salvation. They regard that as the main problem demanding solution. If gold were at a premium, or if silver and paper were not at a parity with gold, then their reasoning would be logical.

The free coinage of silver advocates claim that the government stamp upon silver or paper gives the substance so stamped its money value. In other words fiat money is money. If that be so, why do they so strenuously contend for the ratio of 16 to 1? Why not stamp the silver dollar sixteen dollars instead of only one dollar?

The coinage of silver in limited quantities may be circulated at the present ratio, just as nickels and pennies are. No one, not even the populists, have the audacity to advocate the unlimited coinage of nickels and pennies, and yet those are government stamped coins. Their use only fixes the demand for them.

No with silver, its use as a circulating medium is undesirable. If we had billions of silver coined the people would, in their business transactions, prefer paper to either silver or gold.

BRIEF MENTION.

From Friday's Daily. L. G. Dumbleton is a guest at the McClallen.

H. L. Engles of Peet is at the McClallen.

J. H. Whitsett of Deer Creek is in the city today.

W. G. Sainstrom of Portland is at the McClallen.

J. M. Zallee of San Francisco is at the McClallen.

D. A. Applegate of Portland is at the Van Houten.

W. W. Carroll of San Francisco is stopping at the McClallen.

D. C. Churchill of the poor farm is in the city today. He has only five boarders now.

S. D. Stephens of Edenbower is in the city today. He thinks the late frosts have injured the peach crop in his locality.

Hon. J. T. Hayne, editor and proprietor of the Portlander, made a pleasant call at this office today. We found Mr. Hayne a very intelligent journalist, with whom it was pleasant to converse.

L. S. Shipley of Yoncalla has been in the city for several days, looking, we opine, after political game. He has been observed buttonholing some of the prominent democrats of this city.

Ship is up to snuff and can smell the odor of political game afar, and track it equal to a bloodhound.

The trial of Pilkington and Wallace today before the city recorder is attracting considerable interest. Messrs. Seibred and Stratford on the part of the prosecution and W. W. Cardwell for the defense are the attorneys in the case.

It is hoped by all law-abiding people that such hoodlumism should get a check to its lawlessness.

Mr. W. E. Yates, of Coryallis, republican nominee for district attorney for the 2d judicial district, was in Eugene Thursday and Friday and made this office a pleasant call. He is a good sound man and is amply able to discharge the duties of that office and is the man for that place. We predict a rousing majority for him over the fusion candidate.—State Journal.

From Saturday's Daily. F. Ward of Warrenton is in the city today.

Rev. W. G. Miller of Dillard is in the city today.

L. L. Hard of Deer Creek is in the city today.

R. Cannon of Oak Creek is in the city today.

D. R. Shambrook returned last night from a visit to his parents at Umpqua Ferry.

Zack Vanornum of Chico, Cal., who has been visiting friends in Coles Valley is in the city today.

Samuel Case, a native born son of Polk county has been in town the past week looking out a business location.

In the matter of the estate of D. W. Applegate, Mrs. Virginia Applegate has been appointed executrix of said estate. Bonds fixed at $4000.

In the matter of the estate D. C. McClallen, Mrs. Electa McClallen has been appointed administratrix of said estate. Bonds fixed at $9000.

Simon Caro of the Boss Store has returned from his trip to San Francisco. He has had a good time since leaving Roseburg, but is glad to get back to the "Italy of Oregon."

W. S. Moon of Eugene made the PLAINDALKER a pleasant call today. Mr. Moon has rented the old Flood building on Main Street and is fitting it up for a bowling alley, which he proposes to open the first of May.

The free-silverites are pressing the issue and will not yield till they are either severely squelched by an overwhelming vote, or get free coinage and get on with it an object lesson very like the free trade of 1892.

The latest development in politics of Roseburg is the tete a tete of C. H. Fisher, the tool of democracy, and A. C. Marsters, the "Joe Simon of the opposition." They have it is claimed, a telephone line between their offices and exchange nightly their notes of the day. Chas. takes it all in and gets upon his high horse twice a week and dishes out his salacious political morsels to his 44,444 subscribers, who swallow it and lick their chops like a hungry dog after swallowing a hunk of beef, and Marsters smiles a smile.

From all parts of the county we get encouraging news with regard to our ticket. It is growing in favor every day. The methods of the democrat party in its management is disgusting many who have uniformly supported it in the past. They have got their fill of Cleveland free trade, and sale of bonds, and are looking to the republican party to restore confidence in business and start money to circulate.

The populists of this county are doubtless highly elated over the compliments paid them by the Review of Thursday. That is a squelcher. Populists will not dare raise their heads any more. They are bowing low in their obeisance to Charles the great of "the greatest." Hide your heads, ye imbeciles, ye "secret oath-bound treasonable" sons of sea cooks.

The truth is, the most popular tax of all is that of duties laid upon foreign imports. It was the first tax ever levied by an American congress, one that has been sustained on varying schedules ever since, and one which the people in the recent elections have declared most emphatically shall be the principal source of revenue for the federal government.

The senate of the United States has adopted Senator Cockrell's amendment to the resolution that after July 1st, 1898, no more money shall be appropriated for sectarian schools. Such a course is silly. If it be wrong to make such use of money—and surely it is—why not shut down on it immediately? That is the question.

Cleveland has vetoed the pension bills. This action will endeavor him to the boys in blue. When pension bills run the gamut of both houses of congress where the merits of the case are fully considered in the committee, it seems a stretch of power in the president to interpose his objection to such acts.

There will be no better times in the business world till this pestiferous agitation of the money question ceases. This everlasting stirring up of the subject of currency will keep capital idle.

Three states, Tennessee, Maryland and Connecticut have declared for sound money, says the Oregonian.

How Much Corn?

EDITOR PLAINDALKER: Apropos of the democratic primary in this (Civil Bend) precinct a little episode has come to light that will no doubt be of interest to your many readers.

As I am informed, a certain citizen who has heretofore claimed to be a republican, but who was seen to cast a ballot at the above primary, explained the matter in this wise.

Said he: "I came to my house with a box of cigars and wanted me to go and vote at the primary; and as he promised to bring me a bushel of corn I complied, but when I got there, there was no corn in sight. If he had brought the corn as he agreed I might have voted; but d—n 'em, I fooled 'em by voting a blank."

Problem: If a bushel of corn on the cob will induce a man to vote at a democratic primary, how much shelled corn will it require to induce him to vote the democratic ticket?

Fined for Disturbing Meetings.

Fred Pilkington, who was tried before the city recorder, F. M. Zigler, Friday, for disturbing the meetings of Gods Regular Army the 17th, was fined twenty dollars and costs. This was regarded by many who heard the trial as a very light punishment for the offense. These disturbances of meetings by the hoodlum element of Roseburg are becoming intolerable. We often witness at the churches, boys, and girls too, exhibiting a want of good manners by their continual half audible whispering and stamping on the floor while occupying back seats, to the no small annoyance of the congregation. Such conduct is highly unbecoming any one, and no young man or young woman of respectability will indulge in such practices. Our advice is either behave yourselves or stay away from public meetings.

Died.

Messrs. Frederick and Lee Minard of this city, received a telegram yesterday evening, announcing that their brother, John H., died at 6 p. m. Friday, at his home near Dora, Coos county. This sad news came only two days after following their lamented father to the grave. This is truly a double affliction and elicits for them the sympathy of this entire community. Messrs. Minard left this morning to attend the funeral of their late departed brother, John Harvey.

At the Senate.

Yes, Sam's the man to greet you all, Both old and young, both short and tall. He greets you with a pleasing smile, He bows his head, and tips his tile. He asks you then to take a tip Of something pleasing to the lip. Now when you want a happy time, Just call on Sam, and spend a dime, AT THE SENATE. Now is the time to subscribe.
