GLENDALE.

We notice with pleasure that the visits of our candidates, viz: Judge Riddle, A. M. Crawford, Messrs. Shambrook and Shupe created a very good impression in this valley. While the speeches by the first two named gentlemen, who will each have a place in our next legislature, were very effective many incontrovertible points were plainly elucidated in their remarks. Especially so was the explanation made by Mr. Crawford in the Sam Brown case, which had been told and misrepresented in this valley and enlarged upon to the detriment of our favorite candidate for sheriff until "forbearance ceased to be a virtue," in hearing the story repeated. Mr. Crawford made the facts so plain to all, that it is now clearly understood who was to blame.

Judge Riddle's remarks were well received by a large audience.

Mr. Shupe, our next county clerk, whom we feel is a worthy successor to F. W. Benson, which in our opinion is all that we can desire, is a gentleman who will look after our interests just as if it were a personal matter. Douglas county's interests will be safe in his hands.

Mr. Shambrook, who seems to be the most formidable to the opposition is so popular and so well qualified for the position he is soon to occupy, he can well afford to regard with amusement the great effort being made to defeat him. Many persons who had not met him before will cast their vote for him in June. The visit of those candidates and the speeches referred to have created a decided impression in favor of our ticket.

Later on Hon. C. A. Sehlbrede spent one day at Glendale, having accompanied Hon. T. H. Tongue, our candidate for congress thus far on his campaign tour of Southern Oregon. Mr. S. did not address the people here publicly, but spent the day quietly discussing the various political issues with the people of this place and vicinity who had hoped to hear a public speech. Mr. S., in his scholarly and learned way, talked on all political points set forth in our party platform, and issues of the day in a way that might have been better than a speech from the platform. He made a good impression, and especially commended the excellent judgement of our county convention in giving the people of our party such a genuine array of talent and intrinsic worth in our candidate named.

Last, but by no means least, we were favored by a day's visit from Hon. J. T. Bridges and our next State Senator, Hon. A. W. Reed. Profound regret is felt here that they could not publicly address their constituents here. All who met them acknowledged their fitness for the position they aspire to. Mr. Reed, has so carefully managed his own extensive business. He is well qualified to assume a position which will enable him to look after our affairs of state. They will be entrusted to one who is in every way qualified to manage them. Hon. J. T. Bridges needs no further commendation then the grand record he made in our last legislature, where every matter he considered or discussed indicated his capability to fill the position he held as well as an interest in our state and in his constituency that was apparent to all. He will be his own successor. All the other candidates are gaining in favor in this valley. Republicans realize that they can gain nothing by leaving their own party for any small issue, such as has been brought into this campaign by the A. P. A. question. All republicans should bear in mind that our nominees advocate the grand principles of the republican party which advocates measures superior to those of the opposition. And which, if successful, which they are tax burdened at present, from an increase of such mismanagement. Do not exchange votes with anyone or be led away by misrepresentation in regard to side issue. Stand united and success will be your reward.

MOLLIE.

The pope has sent to his church in Connecticut a keg of "holy water." The customs officer was at a loss what duty to charge and wrote to Secretary Carlisle for instruction. The secretary could not find "holy water" in the Wilson bill, and after prayerful consideration he decided to charge 10 per cent ad valorem. What "holy water" is worth is now the next question.
