Mr. Mi chell is sound on all the other principles of the republican party, especially that of protection, the parathount question before the people of the United States. ROCKEFELLER'S GIFT.

Mr. Reckefeller's gift of land valued at $630,000, to the city of Cleveland, for park purposes, has elicited a great va- Estate Office, or on riety of comment. Sa highly meral a paper as the Philadelphia Public Ledger has been betrayed into glossing over Mr. Rockefellar's methods of acquiring wealth, which, it seems to think, are abundantly atoned for by his benefactions, and it attributes the popular antipathy to "goldbug," "monopoly," the Ledger is obviously weak here, in ignoring the protest of American morality against the unscrupulous methods that have made Mr. Rockefeller the rich man page of Phondelphia, calls the League o eccount in this manner; "A Million or two dropped now and then as n rogarbered together by consplorously and outrageously nefarious methods will not I want some main shed any odor of sancity over those worm'ly unclean, or we are all worfully musiakes and become incapable of simple moral discriment." And even the present in and a New York World, whose much atmost like the art you at phere appears to have been wonderfully posite, and then the clarified by the money question, says it ment is ned in recomy would be better in every way for the secure the period city of Cleveland to purchase its new park with its own funds, pay the full market vidue for it, and give it an independent name, than to accept the park as a gift from Mr. Rockefeller with the obligation of giving his name to it. "No public benefaction made by Mr. Rockefeller now," remarks the World, "canreconcile public sentiment to the origin of the fortune and to the methods by which it has been so greatly increased, and the sentiment on this subject is apparently growing stronger instead of weaker." There is a great trulth in this, and that it is not more generally recognized accounts for much loses and pernicious doctrine on social topics.

Jes' So.

Usury is the sting-the sharp dagger point, of the power of money to oppress. It is the impelling force in all the conquests of the purse, and in all the misuses of money. It is the power behind the missile in the throat of the great financial gon that operates at a distance. It is the carbine and the sword's edge of the financial cavairs engagements, and the merciless buyonet charge which router poor men from their homes, turning them and their families lorse on society as burdensome and dangerous tramps. No reformation on our money system can be complete and permanent while usury is not destroyed. This theory is not new. It is old as fristory and true as holy writ; verified by the experiences of mankind and the deductions of logic.-John Davis.

Correct you are, John, but what are you going to do mout it? How are you. going to prevent it? It would be a hard bearred man, indeed, who would refuse to lost money, when he has it to spare, to those in distress, provided the security is good and rate of interest offered is table liking. The only way to prevent nemer is as follows: First, find a man who has some money; second, make your application, offering the legal rate of interest; then if the money is not forthermisz have him arrested, condemned and hange-t. He is a u-user.
