RIOT AT LEADVILLE.
Threatened Assault by Striking Miners Has Begun.
LEADVILLE, Sept. 21.—At 1 o'clock this (Monday) morning, three heavy explosions aroused the sleepers in the eastern part of the city for blocks around the Coronado mine, which is the one that first resumed operations, and which was heavily barricaded, and well stocked with provisions and arms.
The explosions were followed by a fusillade of rifle shots, apparently from within the barricade, and rapid but irregular shots from the outside, apparently from a widely scattered attacking force, who were on hand to protect the retreat of the dynamiters.
The shooting lasted for ten minutes, and all was silent for about five minutes, when desultory firing was renewed, and had been kept up ever since.
At this writing, an explosion was heard sounding like dynamite.
Ten minutes after the first explosion, a telephone message from the Coronado stated that nobody inside the barricade had been injured. Since then, it has been impossible to reach the Coronado by telephone.
This office is now being watched by several bands of men grouped in dark corners and alleys, and this may mean they propose to prevent any communications with the telegraph office, the watchers not knowing that we have the leased wire and long-distance telephone.
The city is in a panic of fear. County and city officials are out looking 'after the work of the police and sheriffs. Ballet frequently whistle over this office, and altogether the situation is warlike.
At 1:50 a. m., a bright blaze was just broken out at the Coronado, or in the immediate vicinity, and shots are still being exchanged.
2 a. m.—The fire is believed to be the oil tanks inside the barricade at the Coronado shafthouse. A telephone message just received from the mine says that none of the defenders have been hurt as yet.
2:10 a. m.—The sights and sounds began description. All the whistles in the city are blowing, and two or three steam sirens add discord to the dark night's alarming chorus. The sharp cracks of rifles punctuate the tooting at irregular intervals.
Citizens have gone to the scene with whatever arms they can gather, and a militia company quartered across the street has just marched toward the Coronado under arms.
The whistle which calls out all citizens in case of emergency has just sounded, and the streets are full of rushing men, crying women and children.
2:15 a. m.—Another heavy explosion has just occurred. Five minutes ago, the Coronado telephone bore the message that the defenders were too busy to answer questions.
The watchers about this office have disappeared, sinking away into the alleys as crowds began to gather and the flames from the great fire at the Coronado lighted the streets and revealed their evil faces.
2:20 a. m.—As soon as the fire broke out, the fire department went to the scene and the flames seem to be dying down, indicating effective work by the firemen.
The shots are now growing less frequent, and it seems probable that something definite from the battle-field may soon be obtained.
It is said that a fireman named O'Keefe, when he started to turn on water at the fire, was shot. Shots are still heard at infrequent intervals.
An employe of the Herald-Democrat just back from a rather close inspection of the battle-field, says he saw the dead body of a striker on the sidewalk near the mine. He says most of the shots fired for the last half hour have been from inside the barricade.
2:45 A. M.—Everything is on fire at the Coronado, and the fire department is now working to save the houses, which are thickly clustered about the fated shafthouse. Women and children are rushing to the spot looking for relatives and mingling with those who are being driven from their homes by the flames, create a scene of pathos beyond description. The firemen hope to save the houses, and are helped by a heavy rain, which began falling a few minutes ago.
When the firemen went to turn on the water they were ordered to desist, which they did from one hydrant, but got others working.
2:55 A. M.—Another heavy explosion has just occurred. Forty or fifty shots have just been heard in the direction of the Emmet and Marian mines, located about a mile and a half from the city.
These mines were recently fenced and resumed by a small force of men, which was being augmented every day. It would seem from this that, having finished their work at the Coronado, where the buildings are now a mass of smoking embers, the mercenary gang has gone to wipe out the Emmet and Marian.
3:00 A. M.—The first Herald-Democrat reporter to return from the fire states that Fireman O'Keefe and two unknown men are dead. He cannot tell us yet how many have been wounded, and is not sure that this covers the list of dead.
3:10—It is now reported that John Mahoney, who works at the Big Four, while on his way home from the mine, and near to the Emmet mine, was shot through the stomach and is believed to be dead. Another man had all his clothing torn from his body, but escaped with his life.

The miners' strike, of which tonight's lawlessness is the outcome, began three months ago yesterday, when at 11 o'clock at night the men in two or three of the leading mines walked out. The union scale of wages in Leadville was $3 for everybody, but in 1895, when the price of silver dropped below 60 cents, an ounce, an agreement was made that $2.50 should be accepted for some classes of work until silver should return to 83 cents. This agreement the miners afterward declared was unfair, as many of the mines paid large dividends.
It was to enforce the original scale of $3 that the men struck. About 3000 men were involved. Within the last two weeks several mines have resumed work, and this week the output has been 1900 tons daily, against 2000 tons before the strike.
A DALLES WOOLEN MILL.
There is more wool stored in The Dalles today, belonging to original owners, than at any other point in the United States. In fact this is one of the largest wool centers on the continent, but all the wool is for shipment, not a pound for home consumption, or at least there is no means for consuming a pound This is all wrong. Instead of shipping seven or eight million pounds of wool each year we should be shipping to or adopted by the United States, three million pounds of manufactured woollen.
Start one woolen mill this year and within ten years The Dalles will have a milling capacity sufficient to work up all the raw material that comes to this market.—Times-Mountaineer.
This is a very sad, yet untimely confession from a democratic paper. A paper which advocates free trade, or practically so, for manufactured woollen goods, and absolute free trade for the raw material, should make no comment when its own city is reaping the rewards of the doctrine that journal so nobly defends.
There are tons of wool unsold in The Dalles. All along the line of the railroad, extending as far east as Honting-ton, there is wool enough to keep a large sized mill running for a long time at The Dalles. There is a warehouse full of it in Baker City, which cannot be sold for the freight charges to The Dalles. If there were mills enough in the home city of the Times-Mountaineer to manufacture all the wool in this country into articles of various uses, they would be as silent as a graveyard under the present condition of our tariff laws on wool and woolen goods.
Has the Times-Mountaineer a record of the silent woolen spindles in the United States, the ones that have been silenced since the passage of the Wilson bill? If it has them not we are prepared to furnish the statistics.
The Dalles, with its unnumbered water power, should be a good manufacturing town, and especially for woollen goods. But it never will be under the existing condition of the tariff on wool and woollen goods.
But there is another feature that the Times-Mountaineer will do well to consider. That paper is urging the election of Bryan and advocating the inflation of our currency to that extent that even Bryan himself admits would bring about a financial crash. Does the paper at The Dalles presume that capitalists, at home or abroad, will invest in a woolen mill under such an admitted condition of money matters if Bryan is elected?
If McKinley is elected The Dalles press and all the papers in this country could make a good showing to capitalists why a woolen mill should be built in that town, but if Bryan is our next president, such a project would be about as feasible as lifting Mt. Hood with a corkscrew.—Baker City Republican.

Daniel Webster on Money and Wage Eamers.
The very man, of all others, who has the deepest interest in a sound currency and who suffers most by mischievous legislation in money matters is the man who earns his daily bread by his daily toil. * * * His property is in his hands.
His reliance, his fund, his productive freehold, his all, is his labor. Whether he work on his own small capital or another's, his living is still earned by his industry, and when the money of the country becomes depreciated and de-based, whether it be adulterated coin or paper without credit, that industry is robbed of its reward. He then labors for a country whose laws cheat him out of his bread. I would say to every owner of every quarter section of land in the west, I would say to every man in the east who follows his own plow and to every mechanic, artisan and laborer of every city in the country—I would say to every man, everywhere, who wishes by honest means to gain an honest living, "beware of wolves in sheep's clothing." Whoever attempts, under whatever popular cry, to shake the stability of the public currency * * * stabs your interests and your happiness to the heart.
