WAGES AND PRICES.
Governor J. P. Altgeld of Illinois in his great speech at Chicago, Sept. 19, 1890, covering thirteen columns of a seven-column newspaper in reply to Carl Schurz's speech a week before, said: "Silver has not fallen in comparison with other property. By taking the average price of all commodities known to the market, it is found that a pound of silver will buy as great an amount of commodities as ever." Here Altgeld declares as explicitly as language can make it, that silver has not fallen in price when compared with the average price of commodities.

And in the same column from which we quote above, when he came to speak of wages, he said: "Wages and prices must go hand in hand. Labor creates property; if property must be sold for low prices then labor cannot be paid high wages for creating it. This is axiomatic." Here we have it by an apostle of free and unlimited coinage of silver that a pound of silver will buy as great an amount of commodities as ever, and that when the prices of commodities, the creations of labor, "must be sold for low prices, then labor cannot be paid high wages."

Therefore, since silver has not fallen - it "will buy as great an amount of commodities as ever" - logically speaking silver will buy as much now as a pound of silver would buy before 1873. It then follows that the price of commodities have not fallen and if commodities have not fallen in price, labor which creates commodities is still as high now as before 1873, the date of "striking down silver" which wages, he declares, had about doubled since 1860 up to 1873.

Here now we have it in a nutshell. Wages have about doubled since 1860, the price of silver has not fallen neither have the prices of commodities, the creations of labor. And if the prices of commodities have not fallen it follows as a logical sequence that labor, the creator of commodities, has not fallen, for, until the prices of commodities fall, the prices of labor will not fall.

In view of the fact that according to the governor's logic silver has not fallen; and per consequence labor has not fallen. What, in the name of goodness, has the governor and his followers got to complain of? Silver will purchase as much commodities as ever, as much labor as ever - what is the matter with silver? Gold will purchase more of the commodities now than silver or paper. Nay, verily, it is the supreme court and state rights doctrine that is worrying those fellows. Free silver is only a blind to deceive the unwary and catch their votes. And when they get into power they will recognize the courts and induce the president, Bryan, should be elected, to keep his hands off the military power when anarchy lifts its revolutionary head and sets the laws at defiance as they did at Chicago.

The Late Disastrous Fire in Our Metropolis.
The chief paper of our state has made great mean (and rightly so) over the incapacity of the new officials of the Portland Fire Department, succeeding, as they have, tried, experienced men, who had fulfilled their duties heroically and successfully, the present incumbents or rather encumbers of the office, not understanding their work as well as the horses do theirs. The owners of the business block, destroyed just lately by the disastrous flames were all uninsured. And had it been otherwise, it is said that the insurance companies would, in all probability, have contested the validity of their claims for insurance.

Major McKinley's Campaign.
When Benjamin Harrison, in 1888, made speeches to visiting delegations day after day without saying anything that a watchful and unscrupulous political enemy could twist into a different meaning, the country said Mr. Harrison had accomplished a great political and oratorical feat.

A SILLY PRETENSE.
In the parade of the Bryanites at Chicago on Friday night, we are told that a number of men marched with their faces masked, for fear that they would be discharged if they were recognized by their employers. A sillier freak than this has never been known in the history of American politics. It could have originated only in the mind of a man utterly ignorant of the courage and self-respecting manhood of the American people. It would have been an insult to workingmen if it had not been too silly to be taken seriously.

It has been a common cry with the democrats that the people were bribed and bought by rich corporations, and that cry was foolish enough, as all the world knows. The new cry of coercion carries folly to the verge of lunacy. There is no intimidation in any state north of Mason and Dixon's line. Even in the Southern states it is practiced only to a comparatively small extent, and exercised only over negroes, who are too poor, too ignorant and too much subject yet to the influences of slavery to know how to assert their rights and to maintain them.

In the North and West there is a free ballot and a fair count. No American employer coerces his labor, tries to coerce it or even desires to coerce it. It is safe to challenge the orators and organs of the fusion party to name one single employer who has made or shown signs of making the slightest attempt to intimidate his employes in any manner whatever.

The Bryan campaign is, in fact, rapidly degenerating into a farcical and almost fraudulent affair. Deserted by the able and more self-respecting leaders of the democratic party the fusion managers have sunk from low to lower levels at every stage of the canvass. Incapable of argument, incapable of an effective management of the affairs of the party, they have come at last to resort in National affairs to styles of electioneering that would be a jest and a byword in ward politics. The charge of bribing American workingmen was bad enough. The charge of coercion is idiocy. - S. F. Call.

BRYAN ON PENSIONS.
"The next session of Congress will have to wrestle with one deficiency of $36,000,000. This is on account of pensions. The appropriation for pensions for the next year must not be less than $15,000,000. It is therefore easy arithmetic to perceive that the appropriation that Congress must make for pensions next season must aggregate not less than $186,000,000.

"This tremendous sum would in itself be enough to have a reasonable government. One would not complain if it were an honest debt, because it was not earned by any act of patriotism or heroic service. The government is held up and despoiled of no mean portion of this, and it seems helpless to defend itself. One cannot help being curious to know how many more years it will take to exhaust the generation which feels itself injured by the war. It is safe to say that never did a generation display such remarkable longevity. - From the Omaha World-Herald (Mr. Bryan's paper), Nov. 18, 1892."

The above remarks of Pop Bryan shows the class he has been trained with and the feeling on pensions; branding the pension system as a dishonest debt, he would help to pay it with a dishonest dollar. He is the pensioners' and soldiers' enemy, as shown by the above, and soldiers who see fit to vote for him will be met in time with a powerful hand. You now have a chance to nip such work in the bud, and every pensioner will read the above with an open knowledge what he may expect from Mr. Bryan.

Truth About Money.
It is "more money" the Bryanites want.
We have already shown that Bryan's policy of free silver would at first contract the currency of the United States to about one-third what it is at present. Now, which nation has the most money, those with the gold standard or those with the silver standard?
The silverites are fond of talking about per capita circulation. The per capita circulation of the world is about $5.15. The per capita of the gold standard countries is $18. The per capita of the silver standard countries is nearly $1.30.

The gold standard countries have a per capita of silver alone of $5.49. The silver standard countries have a per capita of silver of $2.32, the rest of their small circulation being mainly depreciated paper.

Under free coinage of gold and silver the United States had a per capita circulation in 1890 of $4,907; in 1896 we have one of $21.10. The gold standard countries, with less than one-third of the world's population, have very nearly two-thirds of the world's currency circulation. And yet Mr. Bryan would take the United States from the gold standard and place it upon the silver standard. - Courier Journal.
