

BRYAN'S RIDE.

(With apologies.)
 Out from Chicago this later day,
 Bringing to citizens fresh dismay,
 The affrighted Press with a shudder bore—
 Like a youth who had never heard it far—
 The terrible jumble and mumble galore,
 Stating that silver was up once more—
 Stating that honor had had its day—
 And Bryan was only five miles away.
 But a protest came from the eastern
 gates,
 Two good, old-fashioned and sturdy
 states,
 Unheeding the ignis fatuus light;
 Cast ballots as thick as the stars of
 night,
 Hill rose and fell and was heard to say
 He was sorry, indeed, he could not stay,
 But Bryan was then ten miles away.
 Then out from Watson issued a shriek
 That blighted the smile on each popocrat's cheek:
 And the heart of the people beat ever
 faster,
 Foreboding a terrible scene of disaster.
 The thought of Watson as possible master,
 Sufficed to steady all wavering eyes.
 They had looked enough at the light
 that lies;
 They longed for that great November
 day,
 And Bryan was fifteen miles away.
 Under their spurning scorn the road,
 Sapped to be paved from a silver lode,
 Grew dark and tarnished, nor longer
 glowed.
 The rear-car platform that traveled o'er
 The continent's breadth from shore to shore
 Appealed to the sensitive folk no more;
 It sped along in the silence gray,
 And Bryan was twenty miles away.
 Then at last the public caught a sight
 Of a vanishing place at a platform's height;
 And November came with its chilling
 blight.
 The people emerged with a mental growth
 And, polling their votes with a solemn oath,
 They swore that the right should still succeed.
 They stood by their country in time of need.
 They rose en masse in their awful might,
 And William Jennings was out of sight.
 —Chicago Post.

Tyran Is a Free Man.

BEOLOGNE, Oct. 16.—P. J. P. TYRAN is a free man. His release was unconditional. There is no question of expulsion from French territory or surveillance. He will go to Paris at once and will sail for New York from Cherbourg by the next steamer. Your correspondent saw him as he came out of the prison door, looking healthy. His face was rosy and he was wearing a light suit of clothes. He was apparently none the worse for his 33 days' detention, in fact, he said that he had had a fairly good time, the officials having treated him with every consideration. Tyran sent two cablegrams, one to his wife at Audubon Park, telling her of his release; the other to William Lyman, treasurer of the Irish National League of America. In an interview he said:
 "Whatever the nature of my mission to Europe was, it has been more than successful. I look forward to the establishment in the near future of an independent Irish republic. The object of my visit was not that attributed to it by the press. There never was any idea of a plot against the czar, and there never was any idea of doing any injury to the queen of Great Britain. That is an absurd idea. We Irishmen have nothing to do with things of that kind. We are honorable in our warfare. As for the czar, I would myself stand between him and danger, as I would between danger and my own son.
 "Exactly what the nature of my mission was I cannot say. But I may tell you this; I am no believer in the anarchistic ideas of the destruction of persons and property. If you are the father of a family, as I am, you can rest easy; no harm could ever come to anyone of your children from any act of mine. I would not hurt a hair of a dog in the street.
 "I believe in dynamite as a weapon of war, and we Irish nationalists are at war with Great Britain. The Irish people in America proved their union in Chicago last October when I was a delegate to the convention there, by establishing an Irish National Alliance, a public organization for the establishment of an Irish republic. The object of the alliance is plainly stated, and it means to attain that object, it is equally plainly stated, by force. I include dynamite and every other method of warfare in force, just as the United States government includes the Zolinski gun.
 "Talking of dynamite, the first use of it known in history was the blowing up by the British of the Basulo Chief Ssochichin in a cave when 10,000 men, women and babies were blown to atoms.
 "I will say that I visited Gibraltar and possibly other places where, if the British government knew anything of my movements, I should not be at liberty now. That shows how absurd the statement is that I was shadowed by British detectives ever since I left New York. The night before my arrest I saw that my valise had been tampered with. I think one of the most important matters for the cause of Ireland is a proper propaganda to let the European nation know that while the British flag covers one inch of Irish soil Irishmen will never cease latent or active hostility against the rule of the alien government, which is cunningly and maliciously depopulating Ireland. I think that my arrest has done some good in that way by making the people of France take an interest in seven centuries of the struggle of the Irish for freedom."
