NOVEMBER 5, 1896.

"We have met the enemy and he is ours."

Major McKinley is elected president beyond doubt. He has 268 votes in the electoral college. This is glory enough for one day. The country is safe. The flag still waves over a country of law and order.

McKinley and Hobart are elected.

Bryan, Watson and Sewall are in the cold, cold soup.

Where is William Jennings Bryan? "Off the track."

The silver dollar will continue to be worth 100 cents.

The boast of the populists that they would get from 500 to 800 majority in the county did not materialize.

The solid South is busted. McKinley carried Maryland, West Virginia, Delaware and Kentucky, 25 electoral votes.

Just before going to press, we are in receipt of a telegram giving 259 electoral votes for McKinley. This insures McKinley's election.

Bryan has carried the following states: South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Montana, Idaho, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, Texas, Tennessee, Virginia, North Carolina, Nebraska, Missouri, Wyoming, and Kansas, a total vote of 169.

The county has gone popocart by a small majority, not to exceed 125. So considering the vote last June when the combined opposition was at least 300 against us, we have therefore gained over 100 votes since that election when the vote on supreme judge was 1773 republican. Had we gained 75 more votes we would have carried the county. So all things considered the populists have no cause for a big crow.

The following precincts gave pliarities for McKinley, Bryan: Deer Creek 19, Roseburg 40, West Roseburg 32, Umpqua 38, Wilbur 31, Pass Creek 77, Comstock 23, Glendale 35, Myrtle Creek 64, Oakland 67, Calapooia 82, Looking Glass 41, Canyonville 4, Civil Bend 73, Ten Mile 28, Milwood 2, Cox Creek 11, Yoncalla 14, Mt. Scott 11, East Umpqua 1, Camas Valley 1, Riddle 1, Colos Valley 8, Scottsburg 46, Elkton 63, Gardiner and Lake to hear from.

Election Day. Tuesday, November 3, was a memorable epoch in the history of the United States. The day in Oregon was auspicious. The weather was favorable for the voters to come out, stand up and be counted. They stood up and were counted. While Douglas county went populist by an unholy alliance with democracy, the state has maintained its proud position in the republican column. Elsewhere we give the latest returns available showing that the state is solid for protection, law and order.

Women in Politics. Women have in common with the sterner sex the same social sentiments; nor, do they stop here, they also enter into and entertain ideas, sentiments and interest in the general welfare of state as well. Though they are barred from the actual participation in the right of franchise they wield much influence in politics, disguise it as we may. As an indication of the interest they take in politics, the action of a few women Tuesday night in furnishing free lunch at the court house till after midnight, for the benefit of the public fully demonstrated. Coffee and sandwiches were served indiscriminately to all, whether republican, democrat or populist. For four long weary hours they were indefatigable in serving all with refreshments that had cost them much labor to prepare the day before, and all this out of patriotic motives. All honor to these ladies for their devotion to patriotic principles.

ENTERTAINMENT.

A grand entertainment was given at Odd Fellows Hall last Monday night by Reno Post, No. 29, G. A. R., to invited guests. Five hundred cards of invitation were issued, three hundred of whom responded, and Odd Fellows Hall was a scene of social hilarity for several hours. The old vets did themselves great credit for the entertainment to their many friends. John Hamlin, president of the Post, assisted by Mrs. O. L. Willis, president of the Womans' Relief Corps, No. 10, presided.

The following programme was observed: Singing by the choir, Mrs. S. C. Flint leading with organ accompaniment, America, the audience rising and joining in this patriotic song.

Mr. M. McCoy made the address of welcome to W. R. U. and other invited guests. The address was brief but abounded in reminiscences of camp life while "Tenting on the old camp ground," or facing shot and shell where rebels fired careless of where their missiles of death might fall, or perchance, in fatiguing marches the weary soldier dropped by the way side. His remarks were heartily applauded. He was inquired by Hon. Gov. M. Brown in quite a felicitous manner as well as in eloquent periods, paragonizing the nation's defenders for their self sacrifices for the flag they love so well; for their devotion to country and the institutions and principles symbolized by the stars and stripes. He referred to the American history, showing that its soldiers had occupied the highest positions in the nation's gift. The American army had given us a Washington, a Jackson, a Taylor, two Harrisons, a Grant, a Garfield, an Arthur and now another soldier was well on his way to the White House; Wm. McKinley.

Red, White and Blue was sung by the choir. Miss Queenie Kilder then recited a patriotic poem with excellent elocutionary effect.

Marching through Georgia was sung by the choir with audience joining in the chorus.

Hon. C. H. Dodd of Portland being present was pressed into service and acquitted himself to the full appreciation of his auditors. Judge G. W. Riddle was present and made a few brief remarks appropriate to the occasion. Judge Fullerton was also present. He was mobilized into service and made a few remarks judiciously calling to mind that the audience would better appreciate what was being prepared in the banquet room at the other end of the hall than to what he might say after so many excellent things had been said by those who had preceded him and yielded the floor.

The choir now sang in a spirited manner, Rally Round the Flag Boys. Hon. Binger Hermann, who had come into the hall late in the evening, was called on for a speech. To this call Mr. Hermann responded in his usual words of good cheer and sympathy for our nation's defenders, the vets who wear the blue and who in the dark hours of the nation's life gave their services for the cause of liberty and human rights regulated by law.

The literary exercises closed at 10 p. m., the choir singing. Tenting on the Old Camp Ground.

The master of ceremonies then announced that the lunch was spread in the banquet hall. And now for two hours the chief cook and kitchen manager, W. A. Frater and his compatriots had sandwiches, coffee, cakes, pickles and other good things, not much more than a ton spread out before the astonished gaze of 300 who had been formed in platoons and marched into the banquet hall. Here joy without allow welled up from hungry throats while delicious edibles went down them.

The entertainment from a to z was one of the very enjoyable episodes in Roseburg's social life, and will long be remembered by all who participated in it.

Lee's Protest is Heeded.

HAVANA, Nov. 2.—Owing to a notice of protest from Consul-General Lee, taking exception to the new cartmartial of the Competitor's crew, begun in Fort-zen Cabana recently, the proceedings in the case have been temporarily suspended. A summons has, however, been published in the local papers requiring various witnesses to appear and file written evidence against the prisoners.

One member of the expedition, George Ferran, who after landing surrendered to the Spanish authorities and was pardoned under General Weyler's amnesty decree, has just been arrested to await the trial as a witness.

James Brown, a British subject, and prominent in Havana business circles, has been imprisoned upon a political charge.

Captured a Spanish Vessel. KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 2.—Colonel Gus Pierre, formerly of the French army, and Colonel Ortega, formerly of the Venezuelan army, with Lieutenant Maximilian's Granddaughter.

TOLEDO, O., October 28.—Mrs. Wm. Diamond, more generally known here as Pauline Fernandez, "the Spanish woman with a history," is being tried in the Police Court, this city, before a jury for the second time, the first jury having failed to agree, on a charge of keeping an immoral house. The woman has lived here for some time, and it has been understood that she was a descendant of the nobility of Spain, but she has always been decidedly reticent about herself. Prosecuting Attorney W. T. S. O'Hara, however, has been hunting up her history. Enough has been learned to warrant the statement that she is a granddaughter of the deposed and late Emperor Maximilian. This she refuses to confirm or deny, but breaks down every time the subject is broached. She is known, however, to have confided this fact to a friend, and subsequent investigation bears out the assertion.

She speaks forty-four dialects and writes in Hebrew, English, Spanish, Portuguese and Italian. Expert linguists here have listened her in three as well as in Indian, Norwegian, French, German, Greek, Arabic, Moorish, Mooson, nine dialects of the West African coast, seven of the Brazilian Empire, and she has been able to speak fluently in several of the oriental dialects.

Her mother died in Madrid when she was born. Her father was assassinated in his house in Spain, for political reasons, when she was 10 years old. She was stabbed in the face at the time, and still carries the scar at the corner of the eye. This caused her to lose her eyesight until she was treated by some of the celebrated oculists of Great Britain, by whom her sight was restored.

Her godparents, with whom she traveled all over the world, managed to gather about $100,000 of the old estate, which was turned over to her at the time she married Capt. Henry B. Benker, at Olympia, Wash., when she was barely 16 years of age. They separated after three years and four months, when he had secured and squandered much of her fortune. She gave birth in that time to three pairs of twins, and five of those children are still living, two in Cuba and the others in Madrid, with friends. Benker has died since she secured a divorce from him. Then she went to Cuba, but soon returned to America again after having visited Honolulu a few weeks.

When she drifted back to the States she lived in Boston for some time, and then in New York, from thence coming to Toledo, where she met and married William M. Diamond, who she says received and hypothesized many of her jewels. It is known that a casket worth $10,000 is in one of the pawnshops of this city today. Diamond was arrested on the charge of theft, and was accused of attempting to poison his wife.

She has been engaged for some time in teaching oriental embroideries and the languages. She was very much frightened a short time ago when two well-dressed, refined young Spaniards came to Toledo, and remained in hiding until they were gone. It is believed that a powerful influence is back of the prosecution in this case. Her father's name was Fernandez, and her mother was Maximilian's legitimate daughter. The family, which was originally of Moorish Spanish lineage, were banished for political reasons. She is now 28 years old.

Forgot His Own Identity.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—In a letter to a member of the clergy in the East, Rev. George H. Davis, rector of St. John's Protestant Episcopal church, in Manhattan, Minn., tells of the strange case of a man who so completely lost all sense of his own identity as to make it wholly impossible for him to give his name, birthplace or other facts concerning his personal history. Mr. Davis has written the letter in the hope that the mystery may be unraveled. His account is as follows: "On October 16, a well-dressed, gentlemanly-looking man called upon the undersigned, announced himself a churchman, and asked to be introduced to some physician with whom he might confer as to his mental condition. He said he lost all knowledge as to his personal identity, of which fact he had become conscious within a few days. The stranger was taken to one of the leading physicians, and after careful examination, placed in the city hospital, where he still remains. Nothing about him gives any clue to his identity. "Some of his linen is marked 'J. H.', and he registered at a hotel as J. Harrison, of St. Paul, but he thinks that is not his name or home. He is an Englishman by birth, about 50 years old, well educated, and thinks he has traveled extensively in this country and abroad. He also thinks he was at some time a law reader."

ARTIST DRAKE'S MODEL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—She was as beautiful as a houri, with a figure whose ravishing grace would put a egypt's to shame. She knew it, too, and that is the reason she stole away from her elegant home last week and hastened over to the studio of C. B. Drake, at 42 West Thirtieth street, in the heart of the Tenderloin. She had come in answer to the advertisement for a model to pose in the altogether. When he saw her the artist gasped with delight. Such a model he never hoped to get for the figure of "Butterfly Globe," his latest ambitious effort. He told her his terms and she readily accepted. Money did not seem to be a consideration.

"By the way, I forgot to get your name," he called to her. She was going out the door and shouted back "Adelie Reviere."

The "Butterfly Catcher" was nearly finished. One more pose would do it.

"Adelie Reviere" was standing for the last on the pedestal in the altogether. Suddenly there came a loud knock on the door.

"Adelie Reviere" dashed behind the screen. Drake opened the door, palette in hand, and there stood a tall, well-dressed young fellow, evidently a swell. "I've come for my wife," he said angrily.

"What? Who are you?" asked Drake, astounded.

The man told his name. Of course it was not Reviere, Drake was about to tell him his wife was not there, when the stranger pushed into the room and strode toward the screen. The artist quickly dropped his palette and grappled with the intruder, but not before the man had given the screen a vicious kick, pushing a hole through it and sending it over on the model. There was a scream. Drake lifted the stranger by sheer strength and threw him out in the hall, closing and barring the door behind him. The man battered on the oak and tried in vain to break it down. Drake ran to the screen, where he found "Adelie Reviere" still in the altogether, in tears on the floor.

The Price Will Rise.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 2.—The Mark Lane Express today counsels farmers to hold their grain, saying: "The price in England may reach to 28s, but it should rise again in December. The new wheat crop of Argentina is now offered for spring shipment. It is now below 20s. This gives a glimpse of the future, as Argentine wheat should always be cheaper than English."

Telegrams from India Saturday give the rainfall for October as very small at all the chief stations. The best was in Amalgaol and it was practically nil on the east coast. Wheat accordingly has risen to 20s a quarter at Calcutta, and there is considerable distress among the poor."
