Teeth extracted absolutely without pain by R. W. Benjamin, dentist, room 1, Marsters' block, Roseburg, Or. Parties desiring family sewing done would do well to call on Miss Fannie McKean, 421 Main street. Will sew for 75 cents per day. One extra large box stove for sale at H. M. Wead's Hardware Store. Suitable for dry house or large store room, price $15. Takes three foot wood. Good advice: Never leave home on a curfew without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. For sale by A. C. Marsters & Co. Go to M. F. Rice's Second Hand Store, Hendricks' block, for late improved Singer Sewing machines, needles, oil, etc. W. C. Monro, Agent.

The Kandy Kitchen keeps catching them and will eventually catch all it trade in their line, because they keep everything fresher and better and just as cheap as a little cheaper than stale stuff around town. When I walk Roseburg 'round, I'm a lookin' for dat Kandy Kitchen and it must be found, where they keep the best of everything. Fresh nuts, fresh gum and fresh candies made daily. The time of the year has come when people eat candy. You can tell one who has good taste. He buys his candy at Niece's Kandy Kitchen, the only place in town you can get candy that is fit to eat.

Two tracts of land for rent, containing one 10-acre and one 15-truck within 1 1/2 miles of town, fair orchards on each place. For further information call on I. F. Rice, Real Estate Dealer, Roseburg, Oregon. If you have hay, grain, bacon, beef cattle or a good buggy you wish to trade for lumber, or if you wish to buy a bill of first class floor or cedar lumber, you will save money to call on Otto A. Aslaway Conestock, Oregon. Good pasturage furnished at my pastures on Roberts creek. Charges reasonable. All stock at owner's risk. The best of care will be given to all stock entrusted to my charge. J. M. Schaffer.

T. K. Richardson has just received another car of lumber, including a lot of fencing, sidewalk lumber, and first class flooring, which will be offered to the public at greatly reduced prices. Call on or address, T. K. Richardson, Roseburg, Or. Bargains, bargains, at M. F. Rice's second hand, hardware and furniture store in Hendricks' block, opposite the depot. Second hand goods bought and sold. Call and examine my goods before purchasing elsewhere. Buy of me and save money. With two little children subject to croup we do not rest easy without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, for the most severe attacks quickly subside to a few doses of it—Morrison, Colo., Nov. For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by A. C. Marsters & Co. If your children are subject to croup watch for the first symptom of the disease—hoarseness. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse it will prevent the attack. Even after the croupy cough has appeared the attack can always be prevented by giving this remedy. It is also invaluable for colds and whooping cough. For sale by A. C. Marsters.

The wife of Mr. Leonard Wells, of East Brimfield, Mass., had been suffering from neuralgia for two days, not being able to sleep or hardly keep still, when Mr. Holden, the merchant there sent her a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and asked that she give it a thorough trial. On meeting Mr. Wells the next day he was told that she was all right, the pain had left her within two hours, and that the bottle of Pain Balm was worth $5.00 if it could not be had for less. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by A. C. Marsters & Co.

Competition never worries us, because we "buy right" hence "sell right". The facts are these; every move in our business is only made after the most careful consideration, nothing left to chance. Shoes have advanced in price but not with us. We sell you a good oil grain shoe for $1.25 and upwards, fine shoes in proportion. If you doubt us, come and see us, convince yourself that we have what we advertise. We don't care to do all the business in town, but want to get a share of it. We firmly believe that a concern that gives its customers exceptionally good values in every instance is bound to go ahead year by year. This idea prevails throughout our entire business. Every dollar's worth of goods must give the wearer satisfaction, even the all wood absolutely last color $5.00 suits. J. Abraham's Clothing House.

BRIEF MENTION.

Hon. J. T. Bridges is in the city today. Dr. Lowe, the oculist leaves Friday next. County claims and warrants bought by D. S. West. Katie Emmitt at the Opera House tomorrow night. R. A. Mattoon of Looking Glass is in the city today. See Dr. Lowe next Saturday at the Yoncalla Hotel. Dr. Lowe's glasses press the soft pedal of the eyes. E. T. Woodruff of Cleveland is a guest at the Van Houten.

Beautiful designs in gente silk handkerchiefs at the Novelty Store. Katie Emmitt and the Waifs of New York, at the Opera House tomorrow night. Keep our clothing in mind when making the boys a present. Novelty Store. Money to loan. Call at the office of I. F. Rice, real estate dealer, Roseburg, Oregon. The new White Granite Iron was selling fast at Churchill, Woolley & McKenzie's.

Dr. Fallin of Myrtle Creek was in the city today on business at the county clerk's office. Dr. Lowe will be at Yoncalla Saturday, the 28th. See him that day. Free tests for glasses. Ginger ale, Arista Water, sodas, and other soft drinks at Slow Jerry's drink emporium, now on draft. Our $3.00, hand sewed Gents' Shoes are the best in the market. Call and see them at the Novelty Store. Daniel Murphy, United States district attorney for Oregon was visiting friends in Roseburg last Saturday.

Dr. Lowe says spectacles are like an egg—they must be good in every way. Who wants a "tolerably good" egg? Gentlemen's ties, handsew, large assortment all prices, our 25 cent line the most attractive. Novelty Store. Get your cowboy rope at Wead's Hardware. The special four ply manilla stands twice as much as sisal rope. We have just got the capogoods you want, stylish, best quality and cheap, when the width is considered. Novelty Store. Dr. Lowe went back for six months. Do you think you should wait that long to see him about your eyes. Don't take chances. Buy your shoes at the Novelty Store and if they contain shoddy insoles, etc. they will tell you. Our aim is to sell you a good shoe.

The good people of Yoncalla should not fail to see Dr. Lowe next Saturday. He will be there only the one day. Eyes tested free. A large invoice of Bibles and Testaments just received at H. C. Stanton's. Bibles, from 20 cents to $4; Testaments, 5 and 10 cents each. Boston coach oil is the best buggy or carriage grease in the world. Try a can at H. M. Wead's Hardware and you will never use anything else. Fabio Romani was produced at the Opera House Saturday night, and was fully up to the expectation of the audience in point of excellence. Skating rink, Wednesday night for boy beginners only. Friday night for ladies only. Tuesday and Saturday nights are open for all comers.

You can get knives for 5 and 10 cents and from that price up to $5. Each knife well worth the price asked at Churchill, Woolley & McKenzie's. E. Du Gas, Physician and Surgeon, office in Marsters' building. Calls in town and country promptly answered night or day. Residence, 911 Mill street. Any parties in the City of Roseburg thinking of putting in electric lights will do well to see the manager of the Electric Light company at once, as special inducements will be offered until December 1st, 1896. You can't get five or ten-cent knives at H. M. Wead's Hardware. He don't keep worthless goods of any kind. But when you find you need a good knife come in and get the best made and have it guaranteed to stay sharp.

Last Thursday, in mentioning the gambling episode in which a prominent citizen played a part, having given his notes for money to gamble on, the PLAINDEALER reporter was, it appears, misinformed as to the borrowing money from the bar. Mr. Minard, the saloon keeper, informs us he did not loan the money, but that one of the gamblers loaned money to the other, taking his notes therefor. Dr. Matchette's Indian Tobacco Antidote will cure any one of the tobacco habit in 72 hours. It is compounded by a celebrated physician, and is the result of a life-time study. Guaranteed harmless. Price, only 50 cents for a big box—enough to cure any ordinary case. All druggists, or by mail, postpaid. Circulars free. DR. MATCHETTE, Chicago, Ill.

Katie Emmitt has scored an unequalled hit in her "The Waifs of New York," and her tour the country has been one succession of triumphs, full houses greeting her everywhere, and the entertainment is said to be well worthy the patronage. Allan Dale, of the New York Evening World, says: "Katie Emmitt is a charming little lady, an accomplished actress, and altogether an agreeable surprise. There is an air of refinement about her work that is not usually found. Miss Emmitt has to do the attire of a boy, and nothing can be more graceful and dainty than the way she does it. She dances well and sings charmingly. Her songs are both new and original." She will be seen at the Roseburg Opera House, Tuesday, November 24th.

GETTING OUT OF RUSSIA.

At least 50 per cent of the hordes of emigrants who leave Russia for the New World do so without the permission of their government, says the New York Tribune. Every subject of the czar is under strict legal obligation to obtain a passport before being allowed to quit the country, and this is invariably declined by the authorities in cases where the emigrants are either youths in their teens or men under the age of 40 who have not completed their term of compulsory military service. Consequently, when a family in Russia decides upon abandoning its native land for the purpose of bettering its fortunes in the Western hemisphere it has to choose between leaving the father and brothers behind and smuggling them out of the empire without government permission.

The western frontier of Russia is an exceedingly long one, extending about 900 miles, a considerable portion of it being formed by rivers of varying size, some of them being mere brooks, while the others have channels of such breadth that it requires an hour to get ferried across. The boundary line is watched on the western side by Austrian lancers and dragoons; on the south, and by German cavalry of the same class in the north, while on the east or Muscovite side of the line it is the Cossacks who are entrusted with the duty of patrolling the entire stretch, the watch there kept being of a far closer and more severe character, since the frontier guards have not only to prevent the ingress of smugglers and unauthorized strangers, but also to prevent the egress from the empire of all subjects of the czar who are not furnished with official permits to travel abroad.

The result of this state of affairs has been the creation of an extensive enterprise for smuggling emigrants out of the country. The business is for the most part in the hands of low-class liquor-dealers and saloon-keepers on the Russian side of the frontier, and is concentrated in great measure at those points where broad rivers constitute the boundary, since there the watch there is less strict than where it consists of mere rivulets or brooks. The affair is managed by ferrying the fugitive across the river from the Russian to the German shore, and inasmuch as the banks of the Dniestr and the Pronea, as well as of the Szaspenka, are low and lined with low reeds, low trees and marsh, the matter is not after all so difficult on a dark and moonless night, especially when the Cossack guard happens to have been pissed with a larger amount of vodka than usual.

The smugglers are men of the most lawless class, who before they undertake the smuggling of their countrymen out of the country, were engaged in smuggling dutiable goods into Russia; and the charge which they make for assisting a would-be emigrant to escape is heavy enough to make the business one of great profit to them. The rates vary from 10 to 50 and even 100 rubles a head. In fact, the fugitive is squeezed to the limit, the only check upon the extortion being the keen competition which prevails among the smugglers to secure the trade. Were it not for this rivalry the emigrant would be entirely at their mercy, seeing that he finds himself as a stranger in the border provinces, with no power to proceed further on his journey, except with the assistance of these rascals, who reap a small reward from the government in the event of their denouncing any man fleeing from the country without permission and without having fulfilled his military obligations. Capture by the unauthorized emigrant means imprisonment with a long term of penal servitude and subsequent military service in the wilds of Siberia.

The majority of these emigrants are possessed of relatively large sums of money. It is only natural that before leaving their homes in Russia they should have converted into cash all their possessions, so as to enable them to make a good start in the New World. Some of them have $1000, or even $2000 or $3000, in their wallets. This fact has naturally excited the cupidity of the smugglers engaged in helping fugitives out of the country, and the result has been that 30 or 40 per cent of those who trusted the smugglers to ferry them across from the Russian to the German shore have never reached the latter alive. It is difficult to say with any degree of certainty how long this trade of wholesale murder on the frontier has been in progress; but according to the revelations of three smugglers who have recently been lodged in the jail of Lomzha, not merely hundreds, but thousands of emigrants have been done away with while crossing the river. A blow on the head with a punt pole or a stab in the back was sufficient, as a rule, to render the unfortunate emigrant powerless, and then the boatman, after ridding his pockets of every thing he possessed, would tie a stone to his feet and pitch him into the river, or else sink him in the swamps with which the streams are lined on either side. There was little risk or danger of discovery, since, owing to the secrecy with which the police do everything in Russia, the relatives of the murdered man could never be sure that their missing kinsman had not been arrested by the authorities and consigned to penal servitude for attempting to leave the country without a permit. The police itself, of course, had no idea of the murders that were being committed, owing to the secrecy with which the smuggling of the emigrant out of the country was planned and devised, while there was naturally an indefinitely bigger profit in securing the fugitive's entire stock of cash instead of the mere fee for ferriage across the river.

It was only through a drunken quarrel in which the three smugglers now imprisoned took a prominent part that this wholesale trade of slaughter was brought to light, and there are doubtless many

Hard Work for Weyler.
HAVANA, Nov. 19.—Little news regarding Captain-General Weyler's operations against the insurgents in Pinar del Rio was allowed to leak out from the palace today. Major Bazan, of the Spanish commander's staff, however, arrived here today from the front. He says the operations are most difficult, and adds that the captain-general slept two rainy nights on the ground without blankets, and has been several times without meals. The major further says the captain-general yesterday was between Zorosa and Candelaria. In spite of the fact that weather is greatly improved in Pinar del Rio, and the authorities assert that the health of troops in the field shows an improvement, 700 sick men have already arrived here, and 300 more are expected to reach the city during the day. Local newspapers are raising popular subscriptions to provide funds to make Christmas presents to the troops. Each newspaper with this object in view will publish a special edition on Christmas night.

This Is Your Opportunity.

Colored Preaching.

Mrs. Mary Dennis, an Afro-American preacher, discoursed last Thursday night to a fair sized congregation. Her text was from Exodus where the Lord called Moses at the time when he cast his rod upon the ground and it became a serpent and then taking it by the tail it became a rod again. She used this text to show that the Lord calls us all at some time, but that we too often follow the other fellow. God calls us but the devil often leads us astray. She narrated two or three anecdotes to illustrate her subject. She said: "On a certain occasion where I went to preach, a little girl thought that I had got badly fanned and recommended me to do like her aunt, wash my face with buttermilk to remove the tan." She said too, "My people have so far progressed in evolution that we find we are not colored people now—we are Afro-American. The word colored implied that they had been without color but by some means had been colored. This idea of colored people she considered as a libel on the race. She likened the term Afro-American better.

She gave her hearers one grand thought which they seldom hear from the pulpit. It is this: "We need a religion to live by. If we will live right we will die right, for we die as we live." The anecdote of the family of Ransomes caused much amusement as it illustrated ignorance, self conceit and an independent spirit that will not tamely submit to a personal insult, in or out of church. This colored lady is doubtless sincere and believes she has been called of God to preach his gospel, but she has been mistaken in the voice.

Katie Emmett, whose name has become famous for her impersonation of boy characters, returns this season for her favorite line of business. Her play, "The Waifs of New York," abounds with startling climaxes and sensational effects. Miss Emmett's characterization of the street gamin is devoid of all roughness and any hint of vulgarity. She has what all successful stars must be possessed of, personal magnetism. It is rather hard to define what that is, so, for lack of a better name, we term it personal magnetism. It really means that you are delighted to see the possessor of it come on the stage and are sorry to see her leave it. For the star it is said that she is the same delightful and active little body as ever, playing with freedom, but never out of good taste. There is a great deal of fun in the piece, and if applause and enthusiasm are any criterion, the production was in every way a success. The scenery in New York, and the settings and mechanical arrangements are excellent. There are several sensational climaxes in the play, and the interest of the audience is raised to an unusual pitch. "The Waifs of New York" are billed at Roseburg Opera House, Tuesday, November 24th.

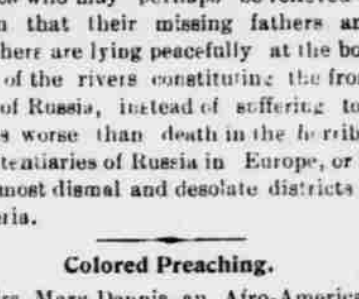

Ruckles' and Houston's Bet.
It is said history repeats itself, and so it appears. Eight years ago, Morris Caro and Ed Sheridan made an agreement that if Harrison should be elected Sheridan was to take Caro in a wheelbarrow and wheel him down Jackson street from Washington to Douglas streets, and that if Cleveland should be elected Caro would wheel Sheridan over the same ground. Caro got the ride while a large number of people looked on and enjoyed the fun. Mr. Sheridan performed his part of the contract like a man. Eight long years have rolled by since that friendly episode in politics; and now next Thursday, Mr. Bert Houston, as per agreement before the election of Major McKinley, is to wheel Mat Ruckles from Mrs. Boyd's grocery store down Jackson to Washington street in a wheelbarrow at high noon. It was the understanding also that the defeated party was to have the band play the Star Spangled Banner or Hail Columbia during the performance of the terms of the contract.

Social.
At the McCallen Friday evening on the occasion of Mr. Ed Thorn's visit, who by the way is a musical genius, a large number of his acquaintances gathered in the McCallen parlors where social pleasures abounded till a late hour in songs, recitations and social converse. Mr. Thorn, the celebrated whistler and guitarist, was the honored guest. There under the social regime of the hostess, Mrs. McClallen, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Bracket, they were entertained right royally.

B. P. O. Elks.
Will hold their regular meeting and social session Thursday evening, Nov. 26th, instead of specially on Wednesday, as previously announced. All brothers should be present.
FRED PAGE-TUSTIN, Exalted Ruler.

Six weeks ago I suffered with a very severe cold; was almost unable to speak. My friends all advised me to consult a physician. Noticing Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised in the St. Paul Volks Zeitung I procured a bottle, and after taking it a short while was entirely well. I now most heartily recommend this remedy to anyone suffering with a cold. Wm. Kent, 678 Selby Ave., St. Paul, Minn. For sale by A. C. Marsters & Co.

Electric Bitters.
Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the material poisons—Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottles at A.
