To The Unfortunate. CATARRH is a LOCAL DISEASE and the result of colds and sudden climatic changes. It can be cured by a pleasant remedy which is applied directly into the nostrils. Ely's Cream Balm is acknowledged to be the most thorough cure for Nasal Catarrh, Cold in Head and Hay Fever of all remedies. It opens and cleanses the nasal passages, always pain and inflammation, beats the mucus, promotes the membrane from colds, restores the senses of taste and smell. Price 50c. at Drugstores or by mail, ELY BROTHERS, 66 Warren Street, New York.

HINMAN vs. HUGGINS. On last Friday Wm. Huggins and Ed. Riley, who have been hunting for Bob Hinman, the jail-break, on Mt. Langel, back of the residence of W. H. Gearhart, Hinman's home, found him, but in a different direction from what they expected or desired. We visited Mr. Huggins Tuesday morning, saw Dr. Harris dress the wound, and Mr. Huggins told us the way the incident occurred, and we will give it in his own words as nearly as possible.

MR. HUGGINS' STORY. 'It was at about 11 o'clock, Friday morning and we saw Mrs. Cal Yokum sneaking out through the brush in the fog, down below us going toward Gearhart's house. I told Ed to look out for I knew Hinman was not far away, and told him that "he" was going to pop right away.' I told him that I was going to back-track Mrs. Yokum and I did. We were going along the edge of an opening and I had turned and was looking down the hill. Ed happened to be behind a tree. Just then Hinman, who was between 60 and 80 yards above us up the hill shot at me and missed. I turned at the report of his gun and he shot again and plugged it to me. I had my gun cocked as I turned, and when I fell it was in shooting position and I fired it at him as he ran, but did not have any aim on him. He was about 100 yards from the top of the hill and ran up over the top in plain view of Riley who would not even try to shoot. I told him to put in a shot for me if he could not do anything for himself, but he acted like he had gone crazy. I told him I was shot and to come and help me but he said, 'Come on, they're not shooting at us.' He went up toward the place where Hinman was when he fired and looked around and then came back to where I was. He could not be made to understand that I was wounded until he saw the blood all over me, and even then could not get him to help me. I crawled down the hill about 100 yards and was then able to help myself some. I finally got Ed to help me and with him on one side and using my gun for support on the other, walked down the mountain two miles, to Cal. Yokum's house and he brought me home in his hack. Just before we reached Yokum's house we met Gearhart and told him my condition and he said Hinman told him that he would fix me. Hinman knew that I was after him and that I intended to kill him if I could not take him alive. I had no official papers and was not a deputy sheriff.

Mr. Huggins is a large, strong man, and the wound he received is a severe one. The ball is said to be from a 40 Winchester and struck just back of the point of the lip bone, missing it by a narrow half-inch and ranging a little down, passing completely through the left hip and into the right, stopping about 3 inches from the surface, from where it was removed by Dr. P. A. Harris, of Canyonville, as soon as he could be summoned. The shooting occurred on the top of Mt. Langel, about 1 miles from Riddle, and Hinman was hid behind a log, from where he watched the approach of Huggins and Riley, and when he saw Huggins fall he ran as hard as he could; Hinman came down and had a conversation with W. H. Gearhart, in which he told him he intended to shoot any one who tried to take him. Gearhart was asked why he didn't take him, and he said he didn't want to try it. Hinman has several camping places around in the mountains and has a regular range he goes over. Everyone is harboring him and if all who are guilty of assisting a jail-break to escape were arrested and imprisoned it would be necessary to build a jail capable of accommodating half a hundred. Hinman went over to the residence of John Smith, on the head of Willis Creek, and slept in the smoke house Sunday night, with Smith's consent. At breakfast time, Hinman came out to the smokehouse and went in to the breakfast table. Dunning slipped in, drew a revolver on him and ordered him to throw up his hands. Hinman did so and Dunning said something about having some string in his pocket that he could tie his hands with, and happened to take his eyes off of him and looked down at his pocket, when Hinman, quick as a flash, drew his six-shooter and covered Dunning, and was then master of the situation. Smith knocked Hinman's revolver out of his hand, and Hinman then hopped onto Dunning before he knew it and then they had a regular set-to, hand to hand, over Dunning's revolver, which in the scuffle fell to the floor. Dunning threw Hinman three times, but every time he would get up with him. Dunning got a good hold on his shirt collar in front and he gave a big jerk backwards, tore his whole shirt front out, run out of the house and made good his escape, before he could be stopped. It seems that Smith did not assist Dunning much, only knocked Hinman's revolver out of his hand. This was heard from Myrtle Creek Tuesday and was not then known to be a fact, but this morning we are reliably informed that Fred Smith, a son of John Smith, substantiated the report. -Riddle Mite.

COINCIDENTS. Thousands of assumed facts have been proven veritable realities to the minds of the credulous by coincidences which to the ignorant or untutored have accepted as proof positive that the assumed facts did take place as claimed. Thus, for over 3000 years, the wise men of Egypt accepted the apparent cause of the rise and overflow of the Nile, to the appearance of the star Sirius just before and during the rise in that river. The Egyptian astronomers noticed that when this star appeared the Nile began to rise and that that phenomenon was uniformly preceded by the appearance of that particular star. Hence in their ignorance they worshipped this star as the god of a plentiful harvest. But it is now well known that that phenomenon is only a coincident and not a cause. The rise of the Nile no more depends upon the appearance of Sirius than its appearance depends upon the rise in the Nile. So is this airship hallucination in California. It is a well known fact that generally in the month of November the appearance of meteors are the most common. Seizing upon this fact some clever newspaper scribbler has invented the airship story for the purpose of having something of a sensational character for his facile pen. Scarcely a night in a clear atmosphere like that of California, but what many of these meteors can be seen scudding through the air; so that a story that reads like the Aladdin's Lamp stories coupled with the highly imaginative wonders of a possible airship, and the fact of those often appearing meteors in November, these sensational writers are keeping the public mind on a strain with the story of this airship being slightly seen in those places named by them and those in the secret, similar to the story of the burning up of the world that went the rounds of the press about 20 years ago or the sea serpent story about 15 years ago.

Advocates were plenty to the effect that bodies of water had been set on fire and consumed and that the sea serpent had been seen by scores of eye witnesses. So it is not strange that this hatched up story of an air ship has been launched upon the public and for the same purpose, viz. to make money off a credulous people. Not that we believe an air ship cannot be constructed do we make these strictures, for it is highly probable that the air will some day be navigated; but when the means of navigating the air shall be discovered it will not be wrapped in a mystery, as to who the discoverer is and his place of abode. That ship too will sail in daylight instead of at midnight. No great discovery or invention has come down to us thus far in this century shrouded in mystery. We pronounce this whole airship story a clever fake.

YONCALLA. This fine sunshining weather is quite pleasing after the storm. Eld. J. H. Moore has returned from Elktion where he had been holding a series of meetings. Eugene Ambrose was taken suddenly ill on last Tuesday evening, with apoplexy, having several fits before assistance arrived. Dr. King was called and soon gave him relief, and is now out of danger for the present. Thanksgiving passed very quietly here, the only ripple of excitement during the day was Ed Hebard, the only staunch democrat of this precinct, giving Mr. Robt. Stone a ride up Main street in a wheelbarrow as the result of a wager on the election. The evening however, was spent differently, the Women's Relief Corps of this place gave an entertainment in Yatt's hall which was highly appreciated by the audience. The programme was well rendered, especially the flag drill, composed of sixteen boys and girls with banners in place of flags, representing the business of Yoncalla. Great credit is due to Miss May Rose for the success of the drill, as she had only a short time to instruct the drill. After the drill a farce was played by Leonard Daugherty and Sister Blanche, entitled Spoonydyke and His Bathing Suit. We were favored during the evening with select music by the Yoncalla orchestra and choir. The ladies served oysters, cake and coffee and roast turkey. After the programme was rendered the Relief Corps quilt was sold at auction to the highest bidder for cash, Mr. A. F. Finster being the lucky man. This quilt contained over one hundred and fifty names that were worked into it by members of the Relief Corps and was a prize well worth the price.

Lisbon Applegate, brother of John and George Applegate, who has been an invalid for the last thirty years, died on the 23rd inst. and was buried on the 24th. He was the last one of the family of Chas. Applegate that crossed the plains in 1847 and was severely injured while coming to the coast at that time and has been an invalid ever since. Everyone in this neck o' woods are looking for better times since the election, (even the pops).

ROSEBURG'S OPPORTUNITY To Secure The Encyclopedic Dictionary. The Pacific Coast Newspaper Syndicate extends to the people of Roseburg and vicinity an opportunity to secure a limited number of sets of the great Encyclopedic Dictionary, upon the same easy terms as were recently offered in Portland and at the low introductory prices. This offer will hold good, at most, for a few days only, as the purpose of the Syndicate at the present is confined to distributing a limited number of sets at various points in the state for the purpose of comparison with other works of reference. This distribution is rapidly approaching its end, after which it will be impossible to obtain the work except at the advanced price. As far as Roseburg and vicinity is concerned this is the final opportunity. The payment of $1 secures the delivery of the entire set, four massive volumes, (5375 pages, 250,000 words, of which 50,000 are treated encyclopedically) at your home or office. The balance due to be paid in twelve monthly payments of $1.25 each. You will never again have such a chance. Send your name and address at once to the Pacific Newspaper Syndicate in care of THE PLAINDEALER and you will be supplied with sample sheets for examination, free of charge. See advertisement in another column.

How to Prevent Croup. Some reading that will prove interesting to young mothers. How to guard against the disease. Croup is a terror to young mothers and to post them concerning the cause, first symptoms and treatment is the object of this item. The origin of croup is a common cold. Children who are subject to it take cold very easily and croup is almost sure to follow. The first symptom is hoarseness; this is soon followed by a peculiar rough cough, which is easily recognized and will never be forgotten by one who has heard it. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is freely given will tend to cure croup will soon disappear. Even after the croupy cough has developed it will prevent the attack. There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contains nothing injurious. For sale by A. C. Marsters & Co.
