ROSE vs. WOLLENBERG.

This case on trial Tuesday was ably contested by each party. The issue in this case is one growing out of the V. L. Arrington defalcation as treasurer of Douglas county.

The record shows that in 1892 Aaron Rose went on Arrington's bond for $10,000 and H. Wollenberg for $20,000. Arrington defaulted and his bondmen had to pay $22,990, the amount of embezzlement. Rose paid half the forfeit, $11,485. This settlement with the county stopped further costs against them as sureties at that time.

Rose now seeks to recover from Wollenberg about $4,003, the difference between one-third, which, as he claims by the tenor of the bond, to be the amount for which he was in justice liable and what he actually did pay; that is, he claims he should pay only one-third of that $22,990, the amount of the defalcation because he subscribed but one-third and Wollenberg two-thirds of the bond. In other words Rose subscribed $10,000, one-third of the amount of the bond, and Wollenberg subscribed $20,000, or two-thirds. The bond having been forfeited by Arrington's defalcation to the amount of $22,990 Rose claims he ought to pay only one-third of that money—$4,003, whereas he paid $11,485, and Rose has brought action to recover that difference, or $3,831.67.

The plaintiff Rose claims as the grounds of his action, that it was a mutual understanding at the time of signing the bond that he (Rose) would go on Arrington's bond for $10,000 only, and that Wollenberg was to take the balance, $20,000. Each subscribed and certified that they were respectively worth these amounts, and were willing to carry, each one, the amount he subscribed and that that arrangement was in law a bonafide agreement, Rose to pay one-third in case of defalcation and Wollenberg to pay two-thirds. On the other hand, as there was no written or special verbal agreement to that effect between them, Wollenberg refuses to repay Rose the amount he claims.

The jury returned a verdict for $4063.55 with interest at 8 per cent from April 4, 1893.

THE TRIAL OF NED SUTHERLIN.

The case of State of Oregon vs. Ned Sutherlin, indicted for killing Henry Bruson near Oakland last September, is now on trial before the following jury-men: Fred Allen, Dwight Reed, A. F. Duncan, J. L. Cole, L. Letson, James Overstreet, Fred Fisher, A. O. Ross, M. F. Callahan, J. J. McCoy, W. H. Gordon and W. J. Lander.

The nature of the testimony brought out by the prosecution up to Wednesday evening at time of adjournment failed to show conclusively that Bruson was killed by a blow from any one. Neither Mr. James Brown nor his wife at whose house the killing is supposed to have been done, and who witnessed a quarrel between Henry Bruson, Geo. Naita and the defendant, Ned Sutherlin, neither saw the blow or who struck it, if such a blow was struck. The only person who did see him strike the blow, if a blow was struck, is George Naita and he cannot now be produced. That Henry Bruson is dead and that he died from the effects of a blow on the head by a blunt instrument of some kind is conclusive.

Dr. W. H. Gilmore, who was called upon after the tragedy to attend the deceased, who at that time was still breathing, though unconscious, testifies that the death of the patient was caused by a severe blow upon the head by some blunt object that caused a contusion of the scalp, a fracture of the skull and a compression of the brain. He prepared the skull and removed a portion under the contused scalp and found clotted blood beneath the portion of skull removed. But from what source the contusion was received he could not tell; did not know. The doctor gave a very clear and lucid explanation, the cause of death so far as apparent, physical causes were discernable, but the cause of contusion of the scalp and fracture of the skull he knew not. His testimony was wholly circumstantial as the primary cause.

Mrs. Brown heard a sound as if a heavy blow or pistol shot, and saw the deceased fall with his face down upon the floor of her house, "with his feet just outside the door," but did not see any one strike him. Mr. Brown was standing within arms reach of Bruson when he fell down into the door beside him, but swears he did not see any one strike him.

Both Brown and his wife witnessed the quarrel between the men over some hop-picking matters. They say that a bottle of liquor was passed around but did not know whether any of the parties were intoxicated or not. Brown said "I refuse to drink" and that Bruson, the deceased, slapped Ned Sutherlin's face, and that his nose bled from its effect. Mrs. Brown said: Ned Sutherlin left the house after Bruson slapped his face; that the striking of Bruson as appeared by the sound she heard when Bruson fell at full length into the house "with his feet just outside the door," was not seen by her; she did not know of her own knowledge who or what struck him. She identified a stick of timber that was exhibited to her as one she found next morning after the killing in front of the house. She gave it next day to Mr. Medley the constable. She supposed it was the stick with which Bruson was struck—would not swear that it was. She said Bruson "never spoke a word after he was struck." She saw a dark object in Sutherlin's hand after Bruson fell into the house—she "could not tell what it was." She recognized her signature to a paper that was shown her. The defense objected to reading the paper presented bearing the witness' signature. The Court overruled the objection after a lengthy confab of the opposing counsel—and the witness answered the question based upon the matter in the paper signed by her. She said "I supposed he struck him with a club."

CROSS EXAMINATION.

"Bruson struck Ned Sutherlin on the side of his face and knocked his hat off and made his nose bleed!" My husband told them all to go out doors, he would have no fuss in his house, there was more room out doors if they wanted to fight."

Mr. Brown also testified that when he ordered Sutherlin, Bruson and Naita out of the house when they were disputing, Bruson caught hold of Naita and dragged him to the door and while Bruson was standing on the steps six or eight inches down from the door floor he was struck. Sutherlin went out at the kitchen door.

The witness described from a diagram of the house given him, the several positions of each party, a few minutes before and a part of them at the time of the striking of Bruson by whom or whatever struck him—no witness saw a blow struck—Brown said "My wife gave the club to Bob Medley of Oakland after the trouble. I did not see any club at the time of the trouble."

The prosecution rested the case this forenoon with the testimony of W. T. Turner, the justice of the peace before whom the preliminary trial was had, whereupon the counsel for the defense gave notice that they would move the court for an acquittal on the grounds of insufficient evidence to convict.

ELKS MERRY CHRISTMAS DANCE XMAS NIGHT

GRAND MARCH AT 7.30. TICKETS $1 EACH. Ball tickets will admit bearer to Christmas tree exercises at 7 p. m. December 23th.

ELKTON.

Profuse showers during the past few days and the ground is getting soft. There has been considerable plowing done in this vicinity this fall but the fall sown grain looks sickly.

Mr. J. M. Robinson, "mine host" of the Elkton hotel, has been having a splendid run of business and has proved himself to be well qualified for the business.

Hon. A. W. Reed of Gardiner passed through here last week on his way to San Francisco. But we predict he will return in time to take his seat when the Legislature meets.

Prof. Wright's class which he has in training in literary and legal attainments, seems to be progressing nicely.

Mrs. Sarah Weatherly, who has been seriously ill for several months, still remains in a critical condition. It is to be hoped that she may be restored to health again.

Mr. John Fryer of Scottsburg has hauled several loads of sturgeon through here to Drain, which are being shipped to the Portland market.

Dr. Ransom of Portland, who was formerly located at this place, made a professional visit here last week, remaining several days.

There evidently was quite a storm at sea last Saturday night as the roaring of the surf could be distinctly heard in this vicinity.

Mr. Chas. McGuire, who has been confined to his room for many weeks, is again able to sit by the fire in his "old arm chair," although yet quite feeble.

Little Alta Young appears to be improving, who was so severely burned some two months since, by her clothes catching on fire. The skin being entirely destroyed on half the surface of her right arm and also on nearly half the body. The little sufferer bears her terrible affliction with great fortitude.

Several parties here are making extensive preparations for catching salmon in the river at this place, and shipping them to the markets of the Willamette valley. Should they succeed as well as they expect, the circulating medium of this valley will be considerably increased. OBSERVER.

Cuban Demonstration Planned.

New York, Dec. 16.—Three thousand members of the organization known as the American Friends of Cuba will march next Monday evening in a body to Cooper Union to participate in the demonstration in sympathy with the Cuban patriot. A Clothes Line Raided.

Last Monday night some sons of sea cooks—there must have been several—took from the Soldiers' Home clothes lines, 17 pairs of mens drawers and 11 blue overshirts. No clue to the robbers yet. It is supposed, however, that it was done by some hoboes.

The Contrast.

While thousands suffer in the Dakota blizzards the people of Oregon are enjoying mild weather, laboring men working in their shirt sleeves and flowers are blooming in their door yards. That is the difference.

Competition never worries us, because we "buy right" hence "sell right." The facts are these; every move in our business is only made after the most careful consideration, nothing left to chance. Shoes have advanced in price but not with us. We sell you a good oil grain shoe for $1.25 and upwards, fine shoes in proportion. If you doubt us, come and see us, convince yourself that we have what we advertise. We don't care to do all the business in town, but want to get a share of it. We firmly believe that a concern that gives its customers exceptionally good values in every instance is bound to go ahead year by year. This idea prevails throughout our entire business. Every dollar's worth of goods must give the wearer satisfaction, even the all wool absolutely fast color $5.00 suits. J. ABRAHAM'S Clothing House.
