SPANISH BLUSTER.
Specimen of the War Talk Madrid Papers Indulge In.
To illustrate the sort of matter about Cuba and Cuban affairs on which the Spanish reading public is fed, the following translation from El Pais, of Madrid, may be of some interest. From a leading article, entitled "Blood and Gold," these extracts are taken, says a Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune:
"Two hundred and twenty thousand soldiers, thousands of legions from the mother country, in the mountains of the island of Cuba, on the borders of the harbor of Manila, rush on the same day to battle, and, storming the enemies' positions, cry 'Viva Espana!' so that the waves of the China sea and of the Caribbean sea will carry this cry to Japan and to the United States warning them that the Spanish nation does not shirk any sacrifice when it is a question of the defense of its sacred territory. The people that have this army at rest tranquil in the possession of a national home, and not fear the contingencies of the future nor the threats of the powerful, who believe that, because they have many inhabitants, much territory and much money, that makes them invincible.
"There are in prospect, perhaps, in the future days of battle and glory for our country. Perhaps the 200,000 Spanish young men who fight in the island of Cuba are to be called to a great battle, the equal of which does not exist in the military annals of the world. We recall in history that handful of Greeks who conquered Asia under Alexander; that hundred of Spaniards who, following Cortes, destroyed the Mexican empire.
"There still burns Spanish blood in the veins of the inhabitants of Florida, of Colorado, of California, of Texas, provinces infamously wrested from our brother Mexico by the United States, with our transatlantic steamers, can in a few days land 200,000 warriors, tried and veterans, on the coasts of North America. Money we do not want, because to keep this army in the wild bush costs us more than it would cost us in the rich and healthy meadows of Florida. We would obtain more glory fighting and humiliating the proud and civilized Yankees than the brutal and giant negroes of Mexico. We would not need any more valor to battle face to face on extensive plains than what we show in treacherous ambushes of the thickets.
"A greater profit for Spain will be to retain its power provinces on the continent, which will compensate Spain for the ruin of the island of Cuba. Let the United States know it. Spain has confidence in her army, navy and privateers; and, far from trembling when there reaches her ears the clamor of the vulgar threats of the Yankee, she feels a secret satisfaction, thinking that if she wishes, if she is obliged, if she is forced to it, she can show the Anglo-Saxons that before them we took possession of the American land, and that we can again return, burning the ships."

Bank Failures.
Many of our populist friends are chuckling with intense delight over the failures of several national banks during this month and referring to them as the result of McKinley's election. They do not stop to consider that those same banks would have failed all the same had Bryan been elected, just as all other failures occur, viz: Because the business of those banks had not been conducted on sound business principles.
Any bank just the same as a mercantile firm or any other business enterprise which conducts its business in a reckless unbusiness like way must sooner or later fail, it matters not what political party is in control of the government. Mc-Kinley's election had no more to do with those failures than the man in the moon.
Those banks had loaned out their deposits without sufficient security and when depositors began to call in their deposits they found their money was not there; just as such things have always been and will doubtless continue to do for all time, or as long as men will take their money to banks for safe keeping without adequate security. The way those failing banks had been managed, they were bound to fail, no matter who is at the head of the government.

CHANCEY DEPEW'S OBSERVATION.
Chauncey M. Depew, who, besides having perhaps the greatest reputation of any man in the United States, as an orator is a man of keen observation, and besides this he is a truthful man and not given up to the enthusiasm of reformers. This is what he narrates from his own personal observation:
"Twenty-five years ago I knew every man, woman and child in Peekskill. I was up there last fall and began to count them over. Some of them have become clerks, some merchants, some manufacturers; others have become lawyers and doctors. It is a remarkable fact that every one of these who drank is dead—not one is living. Every one who proved a wreck, ruined his family, did it because of rum. Every one who has been frugal, industrious and church going, without exception, owns the house in which he lives." Teeth extracted with the use of eucaine. No pain, no danger, it does not affect the heart. Dr. F. W. Haynes.

NEEDED LEGISLATION.
After a careful inquiry into the causes of circuit court expense it is ascertained that many criminal cases are sent up from justice's courts. But when they come into court, conviction cannot be had for the want of sufficient evidence.
It is also found that many times the cases are instigated for spite work. One neighbor gets into some difficulty with another relating to the ownership of stock, such as a hog, a calf, a horse, a cow, or some other cause of a like nature; the offended man goes before a justice or the grand jury and makes a complaint of larceny, burglary or a threat to kill, or do some bodily harm, and then by plausible expert testimony the accused is bound over or indicted as the case may be, and a crowd of witnesses are summoned to appear at court. And when the case comes on and the witnesses are put on the stand they know nothing, under the rules of practice, that is sufficient to convict and the accused is turned loose, but the expense to the taxpayer has run up often into thousands of dollars, instances of which are fresh in the minds of our taxpayers. And what is more, as a rule those who make complaints are those who pay little or no taxes. They get a fee from the county as a prosecuting witness at no expense for an attorney—the district attorney attends to his case.
This practice ought to be stopped if possible. This can be done by making it obligatory upon every person who institutes criminal actions, other than for killing a person, to give bonds for the cost in case of a failure to convict as charged in the complaint. If that was law no one would make complaint till he got sufficient evidence to fasten conviction upon the person charged. A very large portion of the county's expense grows out of just such as referred to above.
Much of it is spite work and should be discontinued by requiring such persons who make charges to pay the cost in case of failure to convict.

CLEARER THAN IT WAS.
Vice-President Hammond, who is known as the man who wrecked the Illinois National bank, is a 16-to-1 free-silver man and the only free-silver man of any conspicuity among the bankers of Chicago.
Mr. Dreyer, whose concern had $900-000 of the dead bank's money, and Mr.
Carl Moll, cashier of the wrecked institution, have been in high favor with Governor Aligeld and have been his appointees on park boards and his advisers in the disposal of public funds.
It is much more easy to understand than it was a short time ago why Hammond has been a free-silver advocate.
He has not been deceived in the least by the assertion that free coinage would make 16 ounces of silver worth as much as one ounce of gold. He knows better than that. He knows that free coinage would give us a dollar worth only about half as much as the present dollar.
That is why he has been an advocate of free-silver coinage. He has sought to double the nominal value of certain assets by having the actual value of the dollar. He has been a free-silver man for the same reason that dishonest debtors everywhere have been free-silver men—Chicago Chronicle (dem.) If the free-silverites can get any consolation out of the bursting of national banks they will find it in the fact that a 16 to 1 free coinage advocate, was one of the managers of the biggest bank in the country, viz., Illinois National bank of Chicago.

What Spaniards Think of Us.
Views of leading Spaniards concerning Americans and their opinions on the Cuban affairs.
Proceeding to compare America with wealthy banks, Senor Pidal argues that she will think twice before attacking the poor Hidalgo whose only defense is his ancestral word.
"Spain must not display bravado," Senor Pidal continues, "but a calm determination to preserve her colonies, confiding in the justice of her cause and leaving the result to Providence. Those who once shouted 'On to Berlin!' established later the horrors of the commune.
Spain is not invincible, but she is not a despicable enemy, and history shows that in many instances a small, desperate army has routed superior forces." General Pando writes that he knows thoroughly the offensive and defensive power of the United States, and he knows the Americans themselves, and is convinced that they are inferior to the Spaniards. Therefore, America would be the greatest sufferer at first.
"Though this is my opinion as a military man, said General Pando, "as a citizen I do not desire war. Who knows where the conflict would end?" General Pando urges the importance of immediate diplomatic efforts in Madrid and Washington to settle the difficulty, and, if possible, to terminate the rebellion without fighting to the bitter end.
"Let America have a chance," General Pando is quoted as saying, "to show by her acts whether her friendship is sincere. Nothing is so dangerous as delay. But whatever comes, the Spanish army is ready to repeat the deeds of our forefathers in America in defense of country and honor."
