

AMERICAN LABOR THE CHEAPEST.

There is an old saying that the best is the cheapest, and in its accepted significance it means that the highest-priced is the cheapest.

This is an attractive contention, and one that we should all like to believe in thoroughly, and an argument in its support in the January Engineering Magazine, by A. E. Outerbridge, is worth considering.

The high-priced mechanic perfects labor-saving machinery in a way that the cheap-labor workers can never be expected to do.

We can enjoy Mr. Outerbridge's tribute to American skill without following him to all his conclusions.

While it ought not to be necessary to prohibit, by ordinance, the wearing of big hats by women at public theaters, it is a matter in which the council may take a hand with perfect propriety.

It is of an American idea that a woman should be permitted to dress as she pleases, and that any infringement upon this prerogative is a form of petty tyranny.

easy for a woman to remove her hat as for a man. She can cause more annoyance than a man by keeping it on.

There would be nothing cruel or arbitrary or brutal about an ordinance to prohibit women from wearing big hats at public entertainments.
