Simon S. Hartman of Tunnelton, West Va., has been subject to attacks of colic about once a year, and would have to call a doctor and then suffer for about twelve hours as much as some do when they die. He was taken recently just the same as at other times, and concluded to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy. He says: "I took one dose of it and it gave me relief in five minutes. That is more than anything else has ever done for me."

The little daughter of Mr. Fred Webber, Holland, Mass., had a very bad cold and cough which he had not been able to cure with anything. I gave him a 25 cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, says W. P. Holden, merchant and postmaster at West Brimfield, and the next time I saw him he said it worked like a charm. This remedy is intended especially for acute throat and lung diseases such as colds, croup and whooping cough, and it is famous for its cures. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains nothing injurious. For sale by A. C. Marsters & Co.

Mrs. Clara C. Hoffman is one of the best lecturers among the brilliant coterie that the National Union has drawn together. To a clear brain, ready wit, great originality and a thorough command of language, she adds a heart on fire with her theme and an ardent longing to save human lives and souls from a slavery of drink. With a wonderful adaptability she suits her discourse to the audience before her and holds their undivided attention. Mrs. Hoffman is well known and honored in many states besides her own, and gladly she responds to the call for help whenever it is possible. At Roseburg, Feb. 12th.

From Dr. J. W. Strange, who has just returned from Cottage Grove, we learn of the sudden death of Editor E. P. Thorp of that place yesterday morning. He lived about half a mile from town, and started for his office, as usual, with dinner basket on one arm and umbrella under the other. About half way to town he sat down on the sidewalk, and half an hour later was found by some school children—dead, with his head resting against the fence. Apoplexy or heart failure was the probable cause. He had been ailing for several months, but his sudden death was a great shock to the community. He leaves a grown up daughter in Indianapolis, but had no relatives on this coast.

THE SALEM MUDDLE.

The Senate Still Refuses to Recognize the Benson House.

Salem, Or., Feb. 3, 1897. The first interesting session of the senate was held yesterday and the interest centered around the resolution introduced by Senator Brownell to the effect that "the senate do now proceed to cast a ballot for one person to serve as United States senator for the full term beginning March 4, 1897."

The discussion of the resolution hinged upon the recognition of the Benson House as an organized body. The chief supporters of the resolution on the floor of the senate were Senators Brownell of Clackamas, and Driver of Lane. Both are good speakers and handled their side of the question with consummate skill.

They endeavored to avoid, as far as possible, the question of recognition, contending that to all appearances, the house was organized and that was all the senate cared for. It and it was the duty of the senate to take notice and proceed as the law requires to the election of a United States senator.

The chair, I should have stated, ruled the resolution out of order, and Brownell appealed from the chair's decision, so that, strictly speaking, the discussion was on the question: "Shall the decision of the chair be sustained," but the scope of the succeeding debate covered the whole ground of the resolution.

The side of the chair was supported by Senators Selling of Multnomah, Michell of Wasco, and others, while the chair also interposed an objection on here and there. Selling occasionally referred to the house as a "disorganized" body, and Driver took him up by saying it must have been "organized" before it could be "disorganized."

But that was merely a quibble, everyone easily understood that the senator from Multnomah regarded the house as unorganized. At the conclusion of the discussion the roll was called and the chair sustained by the following vote: Ayes—Bates, Calbraith, Dawson, Green, Hobson, Holt, King, Mackay, McCung, Michell, Mulkey, Patterson of Washington, Reed, Selling, Smith, Wade—16.

Noes—Brownell, Daly, Driver, Dofar, Gowen, Hamon, Haseltine, Hughes, Johnson, Patterson of Marion, Price, Taylor—12. Carter was absent, who it is said would have voted with the "ayes." This with the president makes a total of 15 votes against recognition of the house as at present organized, for that is what the vote meant and nothing else.

After the disposition of the Brownell resolution a protest and vote was sent up as follows: "And we do at this time, the senate being in session and a quorum being present, each of us severally for himself and openly by this viva voce vote now name John H. Mitchell for senator in congress from the state of Oregon for the full term commencing March 4, 1897, and we demand that these, our several votes and this protest be now, on this 2d day of February, 1897, recorded on the journal of the senate."

Witness our several signatures severally this 2d day of February, 1897. S. Hughes, J. E. Haseltine, C. E. Harmon, Geo. C. Brownell, A. W. Gowan, A. R. Price, I. L. Patterson, T. C. Taylor, A. J. Johnson, I. D. Driver."

During the discussion excitement was intense. Every inch of available space within hearing distance of the senate chamber was occupied by a dense crowd of surging humanity and the points made by the speakers were roundly applauded. The gavel of the president was powerless to preserve order, and so the incident was over and the sentiment of the senate as to the Benson organization was definitely ascertained, and the forces withdrew to renew the battle for the joint convention at noon today, and many are the guesses as to whether the necessary 46 can be gathered together to vote for United States senator.

As the hour of noon approached, the interest in the situation became intense. Senator Mitchell for the first time during the session, appeared in the corridors and he and his friends were busy rounding up his supporters. The Senator looked anxious, the result was, to say the least, problematical, and every available man would be needed. The first roll call soon after noon showed 37 present and subsequently two more came in making 39 in all. Forty-six were needed and this was even short of the necessary number that should be present and voting. The crowd hung on waiting for developments. It was circulated that the others would come in presently and the multitude patiently waited. The noon hour had passed then 12:15, 12:30, and 39 only present. Then one left, Senator Hazeltine gave notice that after the discussion on yesterday he was satisfied the proceeding was not lawful and would take no further part in it. Others remained out, not because they desired the defeat of Senator Mitchell, but they wanted the manner of his election to be regular and lawful.

Senator Reed then left the assembly and that reduced the number to 37. Hazeltine was in the senate chamber and Senator Mitchell went over and personally requested his return; then W. T. Hume took a hand, and then Charley Fulton. Senator Harmon went into convention bringing the number to 38. Much interest was manifested in the interview in the senate chamber between United States Senator Mitchell and State Senator Hazeltine. Would he go back under such persuasive pleading? He didn't. He and Senator Reed both said they were ready to vote for Senator Mitchell if the opportunity to do so came about properly, they would even strain a point so to do, but if it involved recognition of the Benson house then they couldn't do it. One o'clock came and 1:15 and then an adjournment was taken to 7:30 p. m., and the impression was that Mitchell was beaten, but you can't always tell.

At 2 o'clock the senate met and promptly adjourned till tomorrow.

Salem, Feb. 4.—At noon today at roll call, 10 senators and 29 representatives were present. Adjourned. J. B. E.

Married.

Wednesday evening of this week, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Bond, James A. Perry of LaGrande and Miss Florence M. Bond of this city were united in marriage, Rev. J. L. Jones, officiating. The ceremony took place in the presence of the relatives and a few intimate friends of the contracting parties and was a most joyous occasion. The happy pair were the recipients of many handsome and useful presents and hearty congratulations from all present, and then refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Perry will leave Saturday morning for LaGrande, their future home. May they prosper and live long is the prayer of their many friends. Following is the list of presents received:

The Coming Migration. There are accumulating evidences of a brisk migratory movement toward Oregon in the spring. Within the space of three days we have seen as many letters addressed to different persons asking for information about the country. They all intimate something like an epidemic of Oregon fever in the localities whence they come, and as they are all from different states, the presumption is that the movement is general. Persons who recently visited Tacoma and Seattle informed us that the same feeling exists there and many signified their intention to come to Oregon. There are many reasons for this, among them might be mentioned the carrying of Oregon for McKinley and sound money, the conservative business methods of our people, the superior natural advantages of Oregon over her sister states, and many others. The bank clearings of Portland are greater than that of all the sound cities combined.—Oregon City Enterprise.

Cities: Roseburg, 5 mills. B. P. O. Elks. Roseburg contains an Elks lodge of 55 members, and a more enthusiastic set of boys are no where to be found, who are linked together by the mystic chain of charity, justice, brotherly love and fidelity. As an evidence of their appreciation of the order of the window of A. Salzman, the acquire of the lodge, contain a magnificent display of elks charms, the foundation being the elks' tooth. The designs originated by Mr. Salzman are neat and beautiful fully exemplifying the mottoes of the order. There is a kind of friendly rivalry between the members as to who shall wear the prettiest emblem, and "Sol" has to keep his thinking cap on to please the boys. Take a look at the pretty display in the window.

Something to Know. It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at A. GLENDALE.

Dr. P. A. Harris of Canyonville was called to Glendale last Sunday to attend Mrs. W. H. Redfield, whose case was very serious, and complicated, and at this time, she is not much better. After attending Mrs. Redfield the doctor was called to the section house on account of the illness of Mrs. Cox, and later was called to see Mr. L. Jones, who is suffering with a severe attack of yellow jaundice. The doctor made a second visit to his patients here today, and we hope soon to be able to chronicle their recovery.

Mrs. Lulu Shea arrived at Glendale from Portland this morning and left soon after for the Cedars where her mother is quite sick.

Mrs. J. L. Dewey was called by telegram to Lucky Queen where her aunt, Mrs. Carrie Sexton, is lying dangerously ill, with little hope of her recovery. The many friends of Mrs. Sexton will hear of her illness with deep regret and we ardently hope this venerable pioneer lady may recover from her illness.

The numerous friends of the PLAINDEALER in this valley were somewhat surprised at the change that has occurred at the office; and while we feel a natural regret at the loss of our late genial editor, we are sure our paper is yet in capable and efficient hands, and we make our best bow to the new editor, and extend our cordial good wishes for his success.
