Responsibility for the War.

When the historian of the future starts out to trace the responsibility for the Graco-Turkish war of 1877, he will have an easy task. At the close of the war of 1877-78, when Turkey lay prostrate at the feet of Russia, the treaty of San Stefano was entered into between the two countries, by which Turkey acknowledged the independence of Montenegro, Roumania and Servia, granted to Bulgaria a measure of home rule which practically amounted to independence, and gave Macedonia to Bulgaria. At the same time Turkey promised material reforms in other parts of its domain, including Crete, and Russia gained some territory.
England, however, then under the premiership of the Earl of Beaconsfield, and burning with its half a century old jealousy of Russia, protested against the San Stefano agreement, and the entire question was reopened and submitted to all the great powers at the congress of Berlin, in the summer of 1878.

Right here changes were made in the settlement of San Stefano which have had momentous consequences for Southeastern Europe. In the treaty of Berlin entered into by the great powers a few months after the Russo-Turkish agreement, Macedonia, at the instigation of England, was taken away from Bulgaria and given back to Turkey.
Bosnia and Herzegovina were annexed to Austria, Thessaly and a part of Epirus were ceded to Greece, and part of the territory allowed to Russia was restored to the Ottoman Empire. Important reforms were promised to Crete in the Berlin treaty, and the powers which signed that agreement, particularly England, which took the leading part in bringing it about, were solemnly pledged to compel Turkey to carry them out. Turkey, of course, did not perform its promise, and the powers, jealous of each other and each caring only for its own immediate interests, made no serious attempt to force Turkey to grant its promised reforms to the Cretans.

Thus England is primarily responsible for the conditions which brought on the present war, for the Cretan concessions, which would have amounted virtually to autonomy, would have prevented the recent uprising on the island and have preserved the peace of the Balkans. England, however, refused to do this, and too, of Macedonia to Turkey has prolonged the Turkish stay in Europe, and has given him, through this manifestation of England's friendship, a backing which has encouraged him to perpetrate the atrocities in Armenia. Crete and other parts of its domain which have shocked the world in the past few years.
But while England is ultimately responsible for the conditions which made the present conflict inevitable, Germany is accountable for the war, strictly speaking, by the backing which she has given Turkey through the military officers whom she sent to train the Turkish armies, and who are now directing them; in inducing Sultan Abdulhamid to attack Greece, and in instigating him to declare war on Greece. These two Christian nations, England and Germany, the former indirectly and remotely and the latter directly and immediately, will bear the heaviest burden of the bar of history for the conflict between the elements of civilization and savagery which is raging in Southeastern Europe, with the odds in favor of the latter.

Cuba, a Vast Prison Pen.

A letter from the "Globe-Democrat," special correspondent in Cuba, not only gives a graphic picture of the accumulating miseries of the Cuban non-combatants, but presents also an important estimate of greater woes soon to follow. It is not asserting too much to say that Cuba has already been converted into a prison-pen for its helpless rural population, chiefly women, children and old men. What is known as the "concentration order" of Gen. Weyler forces these unfortunates to leave their homes and gather at garrisoned towns or stations. Some of them are massed in warehouses, others in tents. Scarcely rations are issued, but the prisoners, for such they virtually are, and are strictly guarded, are expected to beg or forage for themselves as best they can. Disease and starvation are at work among them, and as the rainy season advances their condition must grow worse. Those who have a little money find the prices of food far higher than was ever known before on the island. A crisis of some universal distress among the rural inhabitants of Cuba cannot be far off.
Through this farming population have lived chiefly in huts, they have hitherto found abundance of food and all needful comforts. In these humble huts they have reared sturdy families, and the general climate and fertile soil made the daily tasks comparatively light. But now the pacifics, as they are called, are deprived of all opportunities to support themselves, and are huddled together according to the convenience of the military authorities. It is assumed by Gen.
Weyler that the able-bodied members of these families are with the insurgents, and as he failed to subdue them by force of arms he will make war upon their wives, mothers and children. Nothing can be more certain than that death runs riot among this class when they are held as prisoners, and the highest mortality of all will be among children of tender years. There will be annihilated, and the insurgents will know that their families are to be subjected to this infamous policy. But the rebellion cannot be stamped out by any device of cruelty.

Insurgents on the Aggressive.

New York, May 3.—A special to the Press from Key West says: Havana advices show that the insurgents are active in that province. Ta-paca was attacked last night by a force of 400 insurgents, and held for a entire day. The Spanish garrison in one of the blockhouses retired completely, while the other held their ground and did not fire at the insurgents or disturb them in any way. The Cubans took possession of the vacated blockhouse, looking it of all the arms and provisions they could find, and then set on fire.

The other blockhouse, with a garrison of 300 troops in and around it, kept quiet, no offensive operations being attempted by the Spanish officer in command. The Cubans camped within half a mile of the Spanish force, and plundered the stores of the town without opposition.

La Hicba was attacked by a force from Rodriguez's army, the first of the week, and the Spanish garrison driven out.
There is a small earth fort there and two blockhouses. They attacked the earthworks early in the morning, and carried them by a dashing charge, the Spanish retreating into their blockhouses at the other end of town. One of these was attacked by the Cubans, and three bombs exploded under its walls, shattering it and killing several inmates.
The Spanish surrendered, and were permitted by the Cubans. Some firing took place between the insurgents and the other two blockhouses, but no attack was made on them, the Cubans apparently being content with the victories they had gained. They entered the stores, took what they pleased, and loaded their plunder in ox teams in plain view of the Spanish. The Spanish loss is said to have been about 75 killed and wounded.

Work reached the palace yesterday that a garrison of 200 men at a small place in the southwestern portion of the province deserted to the insurgents last week, carrying all their arms and ammunition and a field piece.

The insurgent captains, Rafael Mendoza, Sotomayor and Ricardo Halder, who voluntarily surrendered a fortnight ago in Pinar del Rio and were liberated under Captain-General Weyler's amnesty decree, have been arrested. They are to be deported in irons to Ceuta for confinement.

Advices from Sancti Spiritus report that the Spanish volunteers in the garrison there are becoming mutinous, owing to the government's failure to provide adequate monetary supplies.
From 30 to 40 are deserting daily.

Dr. Zertucha in Trouble.

New York, May 3.—A dispatch to the Journal from Havana says:
"Dr. Maximo Zertucha, Antonio Macco's physician, who is alleged to have betrayed the Cuban general to the Spaniards, was arrested at his home near Guines yesterday and brought to Havana under close guard. It is understood at the palace that Weyler has ordered his deportation to Chafarinas island, a Spanish penal station, off the African coast."

Odd Cycling Novelty.

A new and unique cycling sensation in the new quadracycle. It is a combination of the old and nearly forgotten tricycle with the modern bicycle, and the result is a curious-looking affair, which is now attracting widespread attention from wheelmen and women throughout the country.

Nothing like it in appearance or design ever before appeared on the horizon of the cycling world.

This new quadracycle is essentially a family affair. It is built for four riders, with an additional seat for a steersman or governor. The construction of the machine is of the simplest.
There are no complicated joints, gearing or combination of levers and clamps to confine one to make an ordinary breakdown serious matter. Also the fact that no previous experience is necessary in order for one to ride with all the speed and skill of an expert tends to make the new quadracycle a popular means of diversion for parties of four or even for two persons, who, while wishing to enjoy the exhilaration of cycling, dare not trust themselves to the uncertain balancing qualities of the ordinary lander.

The new quadracycle is a four-wheeled affair, as its name implies.
The rear set of wheels are slightly larger in circumference than the forward or guiding wheels.

Motion is given the machine by the weight of the riders, who sit upon seats differing very considerably from the ordinary bicycle seat.

These seats, of which there are four, two in front and two in the rear, are fixed at the ends of long levers which are not unlike the walking-beam of the ordinary side wheel steamboat. The end of each lever not occupied by the seats for the riders is connected by an upright driving-rod with a large sprocket wheel in the center of the machine.

The tilting, or swaying, levers at either end of the machine are supported over the axles by upright supports or standards, strongly braced and working on five roller bearings.

The seats for the riders at the two extreme ends of these levers are comfortably upholstered affairs, and below them are adjustable foot rests, which allow riders of different heights to secure at all times a comfortable and restful brace.
The frame-work of the machine, which is oblong, is made of cold drawn reamless tubing, exactly like that used in the construction of the ordinary bicycle.
The rear wheels are thirty inches in diameter while the front ones are two inches smaller.

Menagerie Food Bill.

When papa takes the children to see the animals he has likely thrown off business cares for the time and it does not occur to him what the circus proprietor has to spend to keep those animals alive and interesting. The cost of the establishment of a prominent animal collector in Germany includes some astonishing figures.

The food bill is the main item, of course, costing probably $500 a month.
An elephant consumes 200 pounds of rice, biscuits, clover, etc., every day.
Add to the food bill the wages of the enormous staff of feeders and workmen whose services are in constant demand and you will have some vague idea of the bill that are presented for payment.
They amount to thousands of dollars every year.

The annual food bill at the London Zoo comes to $25,000, and the items last year included 40,000 pounds of whiting, 850 quarts of sirrups, 100 bushels of apples, 15,000 oranges and 20 baskets of luxuries. Even wild beasts have their chicuries.
