Poetic Justice.

The shirt-waist girl, with the fire-iron curl and the straw hat, wanders and goes now walks the street with a smile that's sweet, and her necktie under her ear.

Mexico has lost its most popular poet in the person Guillermo Prieto recently, a very old man. He was one of the few survivors of the signers of Mexico's declaration of independence in 1824.

During the year 1896 the plumage of over 3,000,000 birds was used in New York for the decoration of women's hats. The disappearance of the warblers is not entirely due to the English sparrow.

The demands of Turkey have made an impression on the stock exchange in London. Prices have fallen in all departments, revealing the fear that complicated complications of a serious character may supervene.

California last year produced 47,181,562 in gold and $122,463 in silver. It also voted for the gold standard, though by a narrower margin than should be given by a state that has never recognized any other standard.

Before Mr. Bryan returns from his four-week tour he should visit Cuba to note the operations of an irremediable paper currency. Later on the populace may sound him on their favorite subject of unlimited greenbacks.—Globe Democrat.

A new epidemic has been added to the history of the bicycle. In France, the other day two ladies were stopped on the road by a bicycle, who demanded a revolver and forced them to surrender their valuables. This is the first authentic case on record of a bicycle highway-woman.

Domokos, the present headquarters of the Greek army, is a town about 16,000 inhabitants, a few miles north of the Ohrye Mountains, which are from 2000 to 3000 feet high and extremely difficult to cross. It is a position that should be held for some time by a comparatively small army.

Portland capitalists have secured a bond on the farm of E. B. Jennings near Table Rock and propose to sink a search of coal and petroleum, strong indications of which exist on the place. Mr. Jennings gets $1000 down and $19,000 additional if the company find what they want and conclude to take the property.—Mining Journal.

People who assumed last fall that the United States had not enough money will be interested to know that the money in circulation today in the United States is nearly 140 million dollars greater than a year ago. The treasury figures show the circulation April 1, 1897, to be $1,322,000,000, and that of April 1, 1896, $1,182,000,000.

A gentleman in from Philomath, Saturday, showed a section of wood from an oak tree that was cut down on the grounds where Philomath Odd Fellows are erecting a temple. A leather hinge was imbedded in the wood, and must have been there a long time. The growth of the leather was about four inches thick.—Corvallis Gazette.

Determined to thoroughly familiarize himself with the details of the Durrant case, Governor Budd of California, accompanied by Chief Lees, Sunday went over the route to the Emmanuel church traveled by Blanche Lamont on the day she met her tragic death. He also interviewed a number of witnesses in the case.

It is said that a young woman once asked Chief Joseph if he had ever scalped any one. When the question was translated to him, Joseph looked at the fair questioner intently, then walked around behind her and viewed the knot of hair only half hidden by her bonnet. "Tell her," he said to the interpreter, "that I have nothing in my collection as fine as that."

Several articles have appeared in Eastern papers and magazines telling "how to manage a husband." The inquiry was set on foot with the result that it was discovered that the woman who wrote the articles never had a husband to manage. People who are usually first to tell how to do a thing are the last to undertake to carry the theories into practice.—East Oregonian.

News has been received from Eldorado canyon in Southeastern Nevada to the effect that all the murders of the maniac Flute Indian, Alvore, have not yet been recorded. Three miners are still missing and several stray burros have been seen by the posse, indicating that others may have been attacked. Sheriff Roseborough, of Mojave county, A. T., is on the trail of Mouse, another Indian suspected of murder.

The fat-tailed sheep from Persia, brought to this country for the Columbian Exposition, are beginning to show up at the markets with their half-breed progeny. Alex. McQueen, of Silver Creek, Neb., went to Omaha last week with twelve head, which averaged 95 pounds, and sold for $5.25. D. C. Bacon, of Laramie City, Wyo., has four bucks, and lately sold some 10-months grade lambs at the same price.

A World special from Havana says: The Spanish officials at the palace are much concerned over the rumors of the forthcoming message from President McKinley. Orders have been issued, it is said, that all Americans be treated with the utmost "gentleness" hereafter, so there may be no fresh cause for complaint. It is said Americans confined in Havana prisons have been moved to new cells, and given more comforts.

Editor Kaiser, of the Ashland Record, has been read out of the populist party because he has been earnestly trying to get the populist officials of Jackson county to live up to the promises made before election, that they would reduce the salaries if elected. Kaiser took a great deal of pleasure in reading the gang of populist bribe-takers who held up the legislature, and this was not relished by the pop leaders.—Lakeview Examiner.

Thomas Jefferson, when president of the United States, issued an order suspending the coinage silver dollars, for the reason that the mint ratio of silver to gold did not correspond with the commercial ratio. No more silver dollars were struck for thirty years and in the eight years of Jackson's presidency only 1,000 were coined. Yet there are men at the present day who call themselves Jeffersonian democrats and Jacksonian democrats and who advocate lessening the value of the dollar by free coinage of silver.—Sound Money.

The mine of Henry Hutchins on Rogue river, about four miles below the mouth of Galice creek, is out of the usual. Apparently, wind and rain operating throughout countless ages carried off the soil on each side of the ledge until the latter stood ultimately several hundred feet above the hill-side; then it fell in the direction of the pitch covering the hillside for 700 feet with ledge water two feet deep. This ledge matter has for several years been the property of Mr. Hutchins who has found it profitable to work in an area on the ground. Efforts have been made from time to time to discover the original ledge, but it is only until recently that it has been discovered. The mine is under bond to California parties.—Mining Journal.

It is reported from Washington that Secretary Gage intends to perform an act of poetic justice by replacing in the Philadelphia Mint some thirty veterans of the war who were distinguished in their positions by the Cleveland administration. An investigation has shown that the veterans were removed on Decoration day four years ago, and Mr. Gage will replace them on the coming Decoration day. The justice of their reinstatement will therefore have the element of poetic retribution by taking place on what will be, not only the anniversary of their removal, but the day set apart as a solemn festival for the commemoration of the services to the Republic of that grand army of which they are members.

The reinstatement of these veterans will be gratifying to all patriots throughout the country. No feature of the Cleveland administration gave more offense to public sentiment than did those acts which disclosed a hostility to the veterans of the war simply because they were veterans. The country noted with profound indignation the removal of competent officials from office by the democratic administration, against whom no charge of misconduct or inefficiency could be brought.

Had these removals been made frankly, under the spoils system of turning out republicans to make way for democrats, the people would have regarded it with less hostility. Cleveland, however, made such loud claims as a civil servant, and so ostentatiously posed as an opponent of the spoils system, that no conclusion was possible except that these removals were made simply because the men were grand army veterans and had taken the patriot's part in the war to which Cleveland had sent a substitute.

The people of the United States recognize the full value of the debt which they owe to the grand army of the Republic. They take pride in showing their gratitude and loyalty to the brave men who defended the Union in its hour of danger and preserved it from those who sought to destroy it. They gladly avail themselves of every opportunity to do honor to the veterans. They favor liberal pensions to all who need them, and are glad when the government can give employment in its service during times of peace to those who did not shrink from that service in times of war.

The McKinley administration is strengthening itself with the country when it restores to office the veterans whom Cleveland turned out. The people can appreciate the patriotic significance of the action of Secretary Gage in reinstating on the coming Decoration day the soldiers whom Cleveland dismissed from office on Decoration day four years ago, and will applaud it with a genuine enthusiasm.—Call.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

The best thing about some men is—their wives tell.

No man of good character wants to thoroughly understand two women.

The only people that know much they don't tell are editors and milkmen.

The longer a man is married the less room he finds for his clothes in any of the closets.

The people who pray hardest for the millennium wouldn't know what to do with themselves if it really came.

A woman knows just about as much about politics as a man does about when to leave off his winter underclothes.

When it's himself, a man says he has accepted a position; when it's about another man, he says he's found a job.

After a woman has heard hard stories about a man she always wonders how he can go around so without a look of shame on his face.

As soon as a woman gets an idea that she is the intellectual equal of man her husband begins to get along with picked up dinners.

The man who kicks the hardest about the way the city cleans the streets is the same small boy that always used to walk in the gutter.

There are two kinds of women—those that think it is nicer to kiss a lot of men once, and those that think it is nicer to kiss one man lots of times.

When a woman tells a story to company about a man whose hand trembled and he began to cry, she generally says it quivered like an aspen leaf, and his eyes grew moist.—N. Y. Press.

For Files on Cattle.

Take coal tar two parts and coal oil and grease one part each, and mix with a small amount of carbolio. Apply with a cloth by moistening the hair and horns of the animals with the liquid. In the applications include feet and legs, and it will drive every fly away, and an application will last ten days or more in dry weather. Apply as often as necessary, and your cows will be entirely secure from flies of all kinds. Any kind of old lard or grease can be used. Coal tar is the base of this remedy, and when too thick to spread well use more coal oil when too thin to adhere well use more coal tar. Carbolic acid will cost about 50c or 60c in crystals by the pound, and every farmer should always keep it on hand, as it, in its many uses, is indispensable.—Wisconsin Agriculturist.

Fault Finding and Grumbling.

How is it that we don't hear so much fault finding and grumbling about the hard times as heretofore? Is it because the people haven't time to find fault—because they are hard at work getting crops in that they may turn them off this fall—because they are sure of good times about then? What has become of the sore-headed calamity howler, anyway? Of course, you hear him yell his agonizing howl occasionally—but he isn't so numerous as the once was. But is a question whether or not his conscience—that is if he has any—wont hurt him a little, when he gets the benefit of the better times along with the faithful McKinleyites.—Observer.

L. E. Turner of Compton, Mo., writes us that after suffering from piles for seventeen years, he completely cured them by using Dr. Williams' "Little Early Risers" and Dr. Williams' "Pink Pills for Pale People" and "Hazel Salve." He cured eczema and very sore skin diseases. Marsters' Drug Store.
