The White City On the Umpqua.

One of the few places on the coast that seems to have escaped the pinching times that afflicted the rest of the country is Gardiner, a little town of Douglas county, located on the Umpqua river, about ten miles from its mouth. The traveller approaching it is at once struck with the beauty of its location and the tidy appearance generally of the place. It's houses are all painted white. One intending builder is that the house, or

The houses are all filled and the men are all employed. The principle, in fact the only employers are the Gardiner Mill Company and the enterprises chief-ly owned and managed by A. W. Reed, namely the Gardiner Packing Co., the creamery and the tannery. The mill is now being operated eight hours per day and has been running steadily for some three months. A reduction was made recently in the wages of the men, but it is probable at that rate with steady employment they will earn more than formerly when they worked a while and played a while. It is to be hoped, however, that the improved conditions of for the output of the mill and enable the company to restore the old wages and run on full time as well. This mill is one of the best equipped in the country and has a capacity of 100,000 teet per day. F. W. Jewett is manager and Mr. Brownell the foreman. He has

Reed's creamery, located just below town in the midst of magnificent meadows on which several hundred catly chewing the cud, is a comparatively new concern, but is quite a help to the farmers of Smith river, which is the chief farming settlement. A gasolene launch goes up the river every evening and returns the next morning with the milk. The farmers are paid 60 cents per wreck. On arriving there he tapped the 100 pounds for milk testing four per cent wires and opened a telegraph station as the milk is richer or poorer. The creamery now is making about 300 pounds of butter per day. Nearly all of this goes to San Francisco. It is first class butter. The nutritious grasses of the adjacent sloughs is especially fitted for the production of butter. The merchandising of the town is done by the Mill Company and A. W. Reed, each having a large stock of well selected general merchandise, and each enjoys a lucrative business.

Young Furber's parents dogs up on the mountains to start out the the deer. No deer or dogs came and Mr. Richards, supposing none was to be found, went home, but neither the dogs nor Mr. Furber came. Tuesday morning one of the dogs came home and Mr. Richards followed it back to the other. When near it he heard it howl and thus found it and the dead body of Mr. Furber. The gun he was carrying became accidentally discharged, the ball entering the side, under the arm, resulting in his death. It is not known if death was instantaneous, nor how it occurred, but from indications it is thought the gun was discharged by brush and was so diected as to produce the fatal wound. Mr. John Barker brought the word to

Mrs. Hadley and son of Roseburg are visiting at the Palmer House Lon Henderson and Joe McCahey came up to town a day or two ago. J. Hedden has been having some additions to his store by the way of shelves and a counter. The smoke has settled down very densely, and makes the atmosphere too thick for a clear vision. Jimmic Sterling was interviewing the solid men of this place last week, as to how liberal and public spirited they were as regards a telephone line from Drain to Scottsburg. It is hoped it will be an assured fact some time, and the sooner the better for the convenience of people away from railroads and tele-graph lines. As the subject has been agitated before, we hope to see the matter go on.
