Glendale Items.

Several members of the Salvation Army have passed through this place lately.
A traveling photographer has located a tent gallery on the bank of Eliff creek near town.

Hotel Glendale, which is one of the most popular hotels on the coast, is doing a good business this summer in keeping summer boarders.

The saloon at this place was removed on the 1st of August.

Elmer Totten of Glenellen has just purchased a new improved Winchester gun, and to say that he prizes his newly acquired property is stating facts, and not fancies.

Mr. Philip Merriam, the original owner of the A. B. C. mine, spent some time in this locality visiting friends.

John Goodnow of the Goodnow mines was at Glendale Sunday. Mr. Goodnow brings very cheering news from their mine, also from their quartz ledge on Wolf creek, where his father, O. C. Goodnow, is superintending the work.

Miss Lila Albro of Canyonville, who has been at Glendale for some weeks, is a young lady and gentleman of this place who is expressing it mildly.

We acknowledge a pleasant call from Mr. J. P. Jones of the S. P. Co., and Messrs. James H. White and Fred Bledynder, who are making a tour of the Pacific coast, and Mr. Jones, as a representative of the S. P. Co., is acting as guide in showing these places in interest in Oregon.

It is with deep regret we chronicle the death of Mrs. Evalyn Cox, wife of J. E. Cox, section foreman at Glendale, which occurred at the family residence Friday August 1st at 2:30 o'clock, a. m.

She was buried at Maplewood cemetery on the 14th. Mrs. Cox was ill only a few days and her death was a shock to the community, and Mr. Cox and his family are thus bereft of a patient, loving wife, a tender devoted mother, who was the light and inspiration of the home that she wrapped in gloom by her loss.

She was a kind, sympathizing neighbor, and a good woman, which is our highest eulogy. And to those so sorely afflicted by her death we can only say that "When the Lord loveth, He chasteneth."

Looking Glass.

Threshing in the valley is nearly finished.

The cooler weather of this week is a gratified relief from the heat of last week.

Messrs. Marsh, who, with his family have been visiting Mrs. C. H. Cannon at Woodville, Jackson Co., is expected home Monday. He will be accompanied by Walter and Bernice Cannon of St. Paul, Minn.

This valley is being depopulated by the removal of a number of families. The McChes going to Washington, the Strongs going to Eastern Oregon and Prof. Rice going to California.

Mr. Albert Matton has taken a three years lease of the ranch recently occupied by Mrs. Strong.

Misses Eva Denning and Laura Williams and Chas. Morgan, Chas. Williams and Chas. Morgan, who will probably reach Haddon after a week or two fishing and hunting in the coast range.

Messrs. Madison, Al Strickland, Ben and Wiley Miller left Wednesday with a large band of cattle for grazing round in the coast range. They will be gone a couple of months.

Job Denning and Harry Spole leave in a few days on a prospecting tour. They expect to find a Klondike in the Cow Creek range.

An Opinion.

Ambrose Pierce, "Prattle" writer for the N. E. Examiner, has an opinion on the coal strike in the States. His criticism on the general makes up of the strikers is a sad commentary on our civilization. Hear him:

The coal digger, as we have the happiness to know him in this country, is an animal but little superior in intelligence, and distinctly inferior in morality to the domestic ox. He is a coal digger because having been born and brought up under ground, that is his natural environment, from which he has neither the ambition to escape nor the sensibility to endure. His notion of an improved condition is half enough to eat and too much to drink. What can be done for a man like that? Take him out of his hole and he will go back to it; keep him out and he will die, for underground he will somehow manage to be. There is an infinite pathos in all this, and persons having sensibility without sense may work it for all it is worth; but that will not affect the fortunes of the coal digger, which are the same today as they were yesterday and will be tomorrow. Their sameness is matched by the eternal uniformity of his hope of three quarters enough to eat and twice too much beer.

The most agreeable people in the world are those who mind their own business.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

It is estimated that the increase in the population of this country during the past year was a million and a half.

The desertion of the silver democrats by the populists will assist the gold democrats to recover the control of their party.

Mr. Bryan's Montana reception was noisy, but it sounded weak compared with the boom of prosperity all around the sky.

The people are utilizing the first fruits of McKinley prosperity in paying off Cleveland mortgages. Wise people—Gazette.

A report comes from Rhode Island that there are not ten men in the state who are looking for work unsuccessfully. This sort of prosperity stands at the top.

The London "Saturday Review" says the question of Hawaii is no longer important, which is equivalent to an admission that this country has a right to annex the islands.

According to recent statistics the volume of trade in Great Britain during the last twenty years increased 88 per cent. There is one country that expects so far to surpass that figure in the next twenty years.

The republicans of Iowa nominated L. M. Shaw for governor, Judge Waterman for supreme judge, C. L. Davidson for railroad controller, H. H. Barrett for superintendent of public instruction and J. C. Millman for lieutenant governor.

Only three countries in the world exceeded the United States in population: China with 400,000,000; British India 257,000,000; and the Russian empire with 120,000,000. At the present rate of increase this country will have 77,000,000 in 1900.

There have been 293 popes, only 11 of whom have reigned more than 17 years. The present pope, Leo XIII, has reigned 19 years. The longest reign was that of Pope Pius IX, who reigned 32 years, reposing the popular expectation that no pope would occupy the throne more than 25 years.

What must be the true estimate of a particular political phase of the country, when it is ascertained that it depends entirely upon a general depressed financial condition for its existence, in fact does not exist when prosperity prevails, yet that is just the situation of Bryanism in these United States.—Albany Herald.

Here is the way the Seattle Post-Intelligencer comes valiantly to the rescue of its attraction: "They are trying to fit up a counter boom for 1900 fields somewhere down near the tropics, in Nicaragua, Peru, California and other hot places. They cannot compete with Alaska, with its ice cool breezes, where ice cream soda almost runs down the cheeks, and ice cream can be dug out in chunks as the minor conspirators rant from shoveling nuggets into five gallon oil cans."

The price of aluminum has dropped from $5 a pound to 35 cents in ten years, and the production in this country has risen from nothing to over 1,000,000 pounds a year. A French firm promises a mine within a year as soon as their output reaches a certain figure. Such a price will bring this metal into as wide use as iron and steel at the present time. The requisite material, bauxite and clay, is widely distributed—much more widely than iron—and there is little doubt that the manufacture of aluminum will in a very few years become one of the most important industries of the country.

Railroad managers are bestirring themselves to provide a car supply for grain transportation, as well they may, in the presence of the enormous yield of Western sections of Oregon and Washington have a lively and somewhat disturbing recollection of what a car famine means, in the memory of the tons of wheat piled along the sidings in their last bountiful harvest year, to be overtaken by winter storms and rendered unmarketable before it could be handled by the railroads. It may well be hoped that no such blight will fall upon their prosperity this year.—Oregonian.

Having discovered that William J. Bryan traveled on a S. P. R. R. pass while he was denouncing the railroads in California, the San Francisco Call expresses eagerness to hear what the aggrieved person has to offer in his own defense. While there is not much likelihood of the editorial eagerness being relieved, Mr. Bryan might do it in a jiffy by quoting the famous defense of the late Senator Van Dyke, who was also of Nebraska and popular faith, when he was accused of a similar offense by an indignant constituent. "I travel on a pass issued to me by this soulless corporation," said the senator, "because I believe that to forgo on the enemy is good generalship."—Oregonian.

It is said that Tom Watson, the Georgia populist editor, recently pronounced the party, "the party of the matter with the populist party." Well, from all appearances it cannot stand prosperity, and dollar wheat and plenty of work for those who really want to work has given it the negroes. That is all, Thomas, and you will have to wait until a poor crop and low prices begin to bring the pinch of hard times again, before you can make any headway in making people believe that the republican party is responsible for every hard frost that comes, or that the populist party is responsible for every hard frost that comes, or that the populist party is responsible for every hard frost that comes, or that the populist party is responsible for every hard frost that comes.

A Mississippi man tells the "Globe-Democrat" that he does not understand how the advance in wheat, which only a tenth or a fifteenth of the people produce, but which all of the people have to buy in the shape of flour, is such a great benefit to the country as the papers say it is. It has been found by the experience of years that anything which helps the farmers, helps the country as a whole. The prospect that the advance in prices of agricultural products—which advance covers many articles besides wheat—brings to the farmers will quickly diffuse itself throughout the entire community, and directly or indirectly, benefit the majority of the people. The farmer has had hard times, harder even than the average wage-worker, in the past four or five years, and the whole country ought to rejoice in his present good fortune.

Obituary.

William L. Wilson, the subject of this sketch, was born in the state of Missouri on May 3, 1832, and died at his home near the town of Hildie, Douglas county, Oregon, on Saturday August 21, 1897, having lived to the ripe old age of 65 years, 3 months and 18 days.

He crossed the plains to the Pacific coast in 1845, settling first in the Willamette valley. He was then a young man, hearty, brave and venturesome. In 1854 he removed to Douglas county and became a resident of Cow Creek valley, securing as a home the beautiful farm upon which he has since lived. In 1855 he was married to Miss Hilda Mynatt, a sister of Watson R. Mynatt, now deceased, who was an old time settler of this valley. Mrs. Wilson lived only a few years, dying in 1900. In 1861 Mr. Wilson was married the second time to Miss Hattie Hankins who survives him. The issue of this marriage was seven children, six of whom are living.

Mr. Wilson was an earnest Christian, having been a member of the Baptist church for many years. Previous to his death he requested that the Old Fellows, of which he was a member, should bury him, and that Rev. W. G. Miller preach his funeral, which will be done at Hildie on the first Sunday in September. He was elected county commissioner in June, 1894, for the term of four years.

Mr. Wilson was a man highly esteemed by his neighbors as a man of sterling worth, honest, industrious, and a good neighbor. He was a firm believer in the principles of Old-Fellows-ism and his life was an example of the doctrine of that order. When the final call came, it was that order which stood at his bedside; it was their hands that laid out the inanimate form and laid the body in the silent tomb.

Slowly but surely the old pioneers are passing away.

The President on the Situation.

President McKinley stated to a New York Journal representative that it should be a source of pleasure to every American citizen to know that there was a return of prosperity to the country.

"The cause of the present boom in the West," he said, "is undoubtedly due in a great measure to the large crops and high prices caused by the failure of crops in other countries. But the fact that prosperity has set in in the East cannot be accounted for in any other way than by the wise policy of the republican party in restoring a protective tariff."

"The present boom is not spasmodic; it will continue to increase, and not only the manufacturers, but dealers generally will soon recognize that with a protective tariff and sound principles the country will be prosperous and remain in that condition. With the restoration of prosperity will come a restoration of confidence."

What does Senator Teller mean in saying that the McKinley administration wants to retire the greenbacks and make all debts payable in gold? Does he not know that all debts have been virtually payable in gold ever since 1879? Stewart, Aitgold, Penneyer and other silver leaders found this out a long while ago, as is shown by the care which these individuals took to stipulate that all their mortgages should be payable in gold. If Bryan has any money due him it is safe to say it is made payable in gold or its equivalent. In fact there is a pretty close correspondence between the shrillness of the poperaic leaders' shriek for 120 dollars for other people and their precautions to export 100c dollars for themselves. As a man of intelligence and observation senator Teller ought to have noticed this phenomenon. Undoubtedly he has noticed it.—Globe Democrat.

The number of democratic papers which are saying "the democracy was never a free trade party" is ominously large. The Louisiana and Texas democrats who voted for the tangle law, and the democrats from other states who supported certain of its highly protective features, are not as lonesome as they would have been for a few years after Cleveland's message of 1887.

The new governor of Alaska, John Green Brady, never knew his parents. He was one of the lots of street Arabs shipped to Indians in 1890 and was taken and reared by Judge John Green.

A sickly, fretful baby is a distressful burden to both of the parents. After passing worried and sleepless nights the mother for her part is unfitted for business and the father for his part is unfitted for his duties. If a woman will take proper care of herself during pregnancy she will bear the burdens of maternity as they should be, and see to it that the child is born in a healthy condition. The best medicine for keeping these delicate and important organs in a healthy condition is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Thousands of women have testified to the unexcelled action of this remedy. More of it is sold than of all other medicines for the same purpose combined. It acts directly upon the organs involved. It restores the blood and vigor. It prepares a woman for the duties of motherhood. It insures the health of baby. It makes its advent easy and almost free from pain. Women who use it do not experience the usual discomforts of the period of gestation. It is the most marvelous medicine ever known for women and children. It is the preparation of an eminent and skillful specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce, who has been for thirty years chief consulting physician to the Jewett Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. Women who wish to know more about it should write him.

About six years ago my wife became afflicted with female weakness," writes the Rev. T. T. Coppedge of Elmo, Kaufman County, Texas. "She could not stand on her feet or get to any position in which she did not suffer great pain. She was naturally a strong woman, and had general physicians to treat her without any permanent relief. She despaired of ever again being well. She saw an advertisement of your 'Favorite Prescription' and spoke to me about it. I got her a bottle of the medicine which she soon found was helping her. She kept on until she had taken six bottles. Since taking the last one she has not suffered a moment with the pain which she has been well nearly twelve months. The 'Favorite Prescription' was all the medicine she took. She is in good health and we are happy."
