An Immense Claim.

J. C. Berry, one of the best known citizens of Spencer, Mo., testifies that he cured himself of the worst kind of piles by using a few boxes of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He had been troubled with piles for over thirty years and had used many different kinds of so-called cures; but DeWitt's was the one that did the work and he will verify this statement if any one wishes te write him. The claimants are C. B. Holloway, of Holland, O., and A. Guno, of Momee, O. They are making an examination of the general land office records with a view to securing copies of certified paper, which, they assert, will establish their title to the lands claimed by the m. Their ancestor, through whom they claim title, was Jonathan Carver, an Englishman, a well-known explorer in the last century: Carver lived among the Indians of the Northwest, mostly in what is now Minnesota and Wiscousin, and for a time was adopted by some of the tribes, including the Nawdanissia, who made him chief, and for valuable services, so the heirs claim, presented him with the vast tract. Gunn claims he is a great-grandson of Carver, and Holloway's wife is the great-grand daughter.

Report says the heirs had a long interview with the land commissioner, in when a pretty modest-looking young fair, her eyes red and swollen with crease in the way of securing information.
