The Society Girl.

She sighed a little nervous sigh.
She said, "I'll rest me by and by,"
And then she girded up her stays
And sought again those devious ways
That mark to such a large extent
The hours that lead us on to Lent.

She went to luncheon at the B's,
She played at euchre at the C's,
She sipped the "tea" at Mrs. A's,
She dined in state at Mrs. J's,
She joined the "box" of Mrs. I.,
And then she lunched with Mrs. Y.
And when the dainty least was o'er
She stayed and danced till after four.

"Another day," she gasped, "is blent
With these that down the highway went—
I hope I will survive till Lent!"

The Censure of Senator Murphy.

[N. Y. Sun.]

Senator Murphy is a candidate for reelection. He voted for the Teller resolution in the full knowledge that its author had stated that it was in the nature of a declaration for the free coinage of silver. Mr. Murphy has steadily refused to explain his vote In the assembly at Albany yesterday the democratic minority spoke for him, voting against the Weekes resolution of censure. Seligberg (nat. dem.) was the only democrat on the floor with the moral courage to stand up and be counted for sound money. The Weekes resolution was mild considering the direction with which Senator Murphy stood charged. It was as follows: "Resolved, by the assembly of the state of New York (the senate concurring), That, in view of the betrayal by said Senator Edward Murphy, Jr., of the trusts imposed in him by the people of this state by voting as aforesaid to debase our currency and impair the credit of our country, we do hereby censure him for his course, and do hereby condemn him for his course, and do hereby condemn his action in voting for said resolution." If Edward Murphy, Jr., was elected to represent the state of New York in the United States senate by a free silver legislature, then he did not betray his trust in voting for the Teller resolution, but, as everybody knows, the free silver heresy had not hypnotized the New York democracy in 1893, and Mr. Murphy's name would not have been considered in the legislature had it been suspected that he was capable of casting a vote to impair the national credit and of giving aid and countenance to the fanatics and demagogues who were even then rallying for another battle for free silver, in which, as it turned out, they were beaten only by the most desperate resistance on the part of the sound money forces. Mr. Murphy was sound enough on the money question when he received the commission of the state of New York to represent it in the senate.

It was the shallowest sophistry for democracy in the assembly to argue that Senator Murphy could not be charged with a betrayal of trust because the majority which sought to censure him was republican. Mr. Murphy received his trust from a legislature which contained not a single advocate of the free coinage of silver in either party, and that trust he indisputably betrayed when he supported the Teller resolution. Mr. Donnelly, the democratic leader, was therefore talking rank nonsense when he said: "It was a democratic legislature that elected Senator Murphy.

How could a republican legislature censure him for not following republican principles?" Nevertheless, there was no answer to Speaker O'Grady's challenge when he declared that there was not a member of the minority who did not repudiate 16 to 1 "in his heart." The fact is that no matter what each individual assemblyman thought of Senator Murphy's vote, he knew that his party was committed to silver and that the issue of 1896 must be fought out again in the state next fall. The party platform must declare for it, either outright or equivocally, as the democrats under Mr. Gorman's crafty direction did in 1897. The vote in the assembly yesterday exhibited the two parties lined up on the inevitable issue as they will face each other in November.

Republicans do not claim that our new tariff destroyed last year's wheat crop in India, Australia and the Argentine Republic, or cut down this year's wheat crop in Europe by 400,000,000 to 500,000,000 bushels, but they can and do claim, with absolute truth and justice, that our new tariff enables us to make more on our crops this year and to revive our stagnant industries to a greater extent than would be possible under the democratic ad valorem low tariff.—Pendleton Tribune.

The self-imposed mission of Congressman Lewis, of Washington, to Ottawa, has proven partially successful. Sifton, the Canadian minister of the interior, has at the request of Lewis issued an order empowering the mounted police in Northwest territory to issue miner's certificates. The order is made effective, however, only in case of favorable action by the United States congress upon the Payne-Frye bill.

If it be true that England has "covered" all the prime steam coal in the Chinese seas, the admiralty will be in a position to turn a pretty penny at the expense of its continental rivals. Coal of a kind can be got from Japan, but its use will mean the loss of several knots in the speed of the ships using it. But if Japan should choose not to sell—what then? Of a verity, peace hath her victories not less renowned than war.

It is reported that a Georgia pastor, who resigned because he couldn't collect his salary, said in his farewell sermon: "I have little else to add, dear brethren, save this: You were all in favor of free salvation, and the manner in which you treated me is proof that you got it!"

"Talk about an inch, more or less, of Cleopatra's nose changing the history of Europe," cried the proud young father, "I tell you all Bible history would have been changed had Job's patience been tried by a teething baby!"
