 Farmers are all done seeding in this vicinity, and the grain is looking fine. When they get McKinley prices for their products next fall, their pockets will jingle with money.
 One of our favorite young men have procured new bicycles, and are just learning to ride them. But the frisky bike often gives them a chance to measure their length on the ground.
 Spain will do well to toy with Uncle Sam. He is filled to overflowing with big possibilities, and he is clothed just now in mighty probabilities. Spain may find this out to her sorrow, too.
 The demo-pops held their primaries at this place Saturday. A large 7 crowd was present, numbering perhaps 15 or 20 persons. Those elected as delegates to the county convention are: I. A. Dean, W. A. Webber, G. W. Wanaocott and J. A. Clements. G. W. Wanaocott was nominated for justice of the peace and Geo. Coutsforth for constable.
 Some sneak thief tried to break into Thos. Mayes' store Wednesday night of last week. He made two attempts but was foiled each time. Mr. Mayes sleeps in the store and on hearing a noise got up to investigate where the thief took alarm and ran away without having effected an entrance. He boarded the brakes of the northbound passenger train which was just leaving and no attempt was made to catch him.

Drain Items.
 E. S. L. we, the new real estate agent, has fitted up two nice rooms for his office in the Hickerly building. He is arguing that when Eastern people learn of a climate free from blizzards, cyclones, etc., there will be a heavy emigration into this county. He says that our water power should be utilized to transform our raw products into manufactured articles, and as Texas cotton fields are only 2 or 3 days away by rail, why not also make our cotton goods here. Mr. Lowe has a pleasant address, and I wish him success in his new field and home.
 Mrs. McCoy, an invalid lady has moved into town, and we are glad to say her health is improving.
 I regret to announce that Uncle Elijah Harlan is seriously ill. Mrs. Mary Holyfield is confined to her bed with inflammatory rheumatism.
 When away from home last I met Miss Nannie Alexander, daughter of H. W. Alexander of Millwood. Miss Nannie is but 17 years old, but her verses are well known to readers in Douglas county. I predict for her a good future and a poetic name known everywhere.
 The new paper, the Drain Press, will make its first appearance Wednesday, with Ned Rhodes as its editor. This paper will be republican in politics. While I hope the boy will succeed, I fear the field is too small for two papers.
 The bowling alley is running day and night. Come down and I will play you a game.

Drain Normal Notes.
 A few students have found it necessary to take their departure from the Normal, owing to pressing farm work at home requiring their services.
 There appeared in "Normal notes" a few weeks ago, an item stating that Mr. W. N. Pinter had graduated from this school, class of '96, as valedictorian, which was true, so far as securing the highest per cent was concerned, but the valedictory was rendered in a very creditable manner by Miss Grace Johnson, now Mrs. Dr. Hawkins.
 The senior class is now delving into the Klondike of English and American literature.
 Mr. H. T. Mires on Tuesday last in chapel read a paper on the Nicaragua canal that is worthy of delivery before any audience.
 The attendance continues to be good, and the fourth term will probably show the largest enrollment of any like term for many years.
 The contestants are taking daily drill for the local contest, which is to decide the representatives for the final electionary battle next June.
 There have been several visitors of late, but space denies separate notice here. Visitors are always welcome.

 At 10 o'clock Saturday night the jury in the case of Ben L. Ward, ex-county treasurer of Douglas county, charged with embezzlement of county funds, returned a verdict of not guilty. This decision will cause the discharge of W. G. Howell, ex-deputy treasurer, jointly indicted with Ward.
 Under the "Political Points" heading in the Review of last week is found the following: Editor Review: I noticed in a late issue you give the figures I gave you regarding the cost of assessing. I am sorry to say before I examined the records I told false statements, which I now retract, and I blame my informant for their error. They meant right but guessed at the cost. JAS. A. STERLING.
 The coroner's inquest held Saturday over the remains of the man found 10 miles from West Fork, found that the deceased was James Calvert, and that he came to his death as a result of exposure and freezing. When found, he wore a black mackintosh, buttoned closely, and was lying face downward, with both hands on his face. The remains were too decomposed to be moved, and were buried where they were found.
 Six, and sometimes nine trains loaded with ore are run from the Iron Mountain mine to the Keewick smelters every day. Each train-load consists of 100 tons. This makes an average of about 600 tons of ore hauled each day from the mine. Added to this are the immense quantities of ore hauled in from various near by mines for flux. The furnaces, three in number, have a capacity of 300 tons per day each.—Mining Journal.
 Mrs. M. D. Thompson of Scottsburg, took the train from Drain on the evening of March 24th for Tacoma to assist in making arrangements for the burial of her brother, B. D. Witter, who died from spinal meningitis contracted near Sear, way from the severe winds and cold of that region. Mrs. Thompson met the wife of her late brother on the train, and has now gone to Humboldt county, Cal., where she expects to stay a short time.
 The mining season in Southern Oregon has so far been a source of great disappointment to the placer miners. The present weather is unprecedented within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. There have been dry spells before, but not such a long spell of dry weather as has existed for several months. There will yet be some rain; but hardly enough to guarantee half the gold usually yielded by the sluice-boxes.—Mining Journal.
 Why is it that a patron always gets satisfaction in dealing with the Royal Tailors? Because the Royal Tailors have a reputation at stake. It took them 30 long years of hard work to build it up to its present standard and they propose to keep it where it is, therefore they cannot afford to have their patrons dissatisfied. C. B. Cannon can tell you all about it as he is their representative for Douglas county. If you need a new suit let him know and he will show you spring and summer samples.

More Volunteers.
 The inmates of the Home are somewhat inattentive, as is evidenced by the following letter sent to Governor Lord: Oregon Soldiers' Home, Roseburg, Or., Feb. 27, 1898.
 Hon. W. F. Lord, Governor of Oregon, Salem, Or., Sir:
 We, the members of the Oregon Soldiers' Home, in the event of a war with Spain, tender our service as volunteers for said war.
 We can organize one light battery of four guns—12 lb. howitzers, one company of sharpshooters—Hodgkins needle gun, and one company of "Machete-men." The entire organization to be mounted on thoroughbred "Cayuse" horses and to be known as and called "The Oregon Grenadier Battalion."
 In furthering our claim for recognition we can say that our service has been given in all the wars engaged in by the United States during the last fifty years; that we represent all branches of the service; and that we have military training under the ablest leaders the nation ever knew, such as Scott, Taylor, Bragg, Lane, Sherman, Sheridan, Butler, McClellan, Wood, Fremont, Garfield, Logan, Farragut, Fort, Porter, Dupont, Kelsay, Martin, NeSmith, Kelly, and in the state militia under the leadership of Gen. Coombs.
 We have had experience in climbing mountains, in building pontoons, in sailing ships, and now feel competent to take charge of and control the commissary and quartermasters divisions in all their departments. Ready to sail in an hour's notice. THOS. HORS.

The Boss Store is selling out at sacrifice prices. Call and be convinced.
