Admiral Dewey's Official Report Made Public.

SPANISH FLEET IS DESTROYED

Eleven Warships Sent to the Bottom of Manila Bay.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Commodore Geo. Dewey's long expected cablegram report was received by the navy department at an early hour this morning. Being in cipher and four or five lines only in length the experts soon had it translated. It is from Hong Kong and, as read to the newspaper men at 10:30 a. m. by Secretary of the Navy Long, is as follows:

"MANILA, May 1.—The squadron arrived off Manila at daybreak this morning and immediately engaged the enemy and destroyed the following Spanish war vessels: Reina Christina, Castilla, Ulloa, Isla de Cuba, General Lezo, Correo, Velasco, Mandanao, one transport and water battery at Cavite. The squadron is uninjured and only a few men slightly wounded. The only means of telegraphing is to the American consulate at Hong Kong. I shall communicate with him. (Signed) DEWEY.

HONG KONG, May 7.—The Olympia led the squadron into Manila bay, through the channel, and the fleet had passed Corregidor island before the Spaniards perceived them. A shot was fired in a battery, to which the Raleigh, Boston and Concord speedily returned, and the battery was almost immediately reduced to silence. The squadron then slowly proceeded up the harbor, and when daylight came the town of Manila was seen five miles distant. The American ships steamed deliberately along in front of Manila without opening fire. The Spanish cannon from the batteries around town began firing, and shots began to strike the water around the squadron. The Concord fired a few shots, more or less, as she passed, but the other ships proceeded silently toward Cavite. When nearing Baker Bay a sudden upheaval of the waters occurred a little distance in front of the leading ship, and quickly following this a second waterspout showed that the Spaniards had fired a couple of torpedoes, but their efforts to blow up the ships were absolutely unsuccessful. Almost immediately shells fell in the neighborhood of the Olympia, but the majority of them fell short, and were badly aimed. The squadron then drew nearer in toward the Spanish fleet, and the battle began in real earnest.

The American ships entered by the southern channel by Caballo and Frisole islets, which were fortified. Commodore Dewey resolved to risk the mines, which were supposed to block the channel. The island forts fired, but not together. Replied with a few shells the squadron proceeded without stopping or changing its course.

The order of the vessels was as follows: Olympia, Baltimore, Raleigh, Concord, Boston, Petrel, McCulloch, Nanshan, Zerkofier. Thus they steamed into the center of the bay. They passed before the city, seeking the Spanish squadron, to Baker bay, backed and flanked by the Cavite forts, with two torpedo boats and four gunboats inside the mole, which served as a protection, while the Reina Christina, Castilla, Don Antonio, Ulloa, Isla de Cuba, Isla de Luzon and Mindanao were drawn up outside. The Spaniards fired the first shot, at 6:00 yards, but it was ineffective.

The American ships formed in column line and steamed carefully, reserving their fire until within 2,000 yards. They then passed backward and forward six times across the Spaniards' front, pouring in a perfect hail of shot and shell. Every shot seemed to tell.

Then the Americans retired for breakfast and a council of war. The Spanish ships were already in a desperate condition. The Reina Christina was riddled and one of her steam pipes had burst. The Castilla was also on fire and both were burned to the water's edge. The Don Antonio de Ulloa made a magnificent show of desperate bravery. With her colors nailed to her mast she sank with all hands. Her hull was riddled and her upper deck swept clean, but the guns on the lower deck were still firing defiantly as the vessel sank beneath the water. The torpedo-boat tried to cross a creek along shore around an oblong, but was driven ashore and shot into the banks. The Mananao was run on to a beach and the smaller craft retired behind the mole.

The fight started at 5:30 and was adjourned at 8:30, and resumed about noon. The fighting touches were given to Cavite by the Petrel and Concord. The Raleigh grounded twice in shallow water during the engagement. Cavite is in utter ruin and has surrendered, the gunboats have been sent

A BASKET SOCIAL.
The Congregation at Pine Grove Gives Rev. A. D. Westfall a Farewell.

Rev. A. D. Westfall delivered his last sermon for the conference year at Pine Grove yesterday and the congregation there gave a basket social in token of their appreciation of the pastor's services during the past year. Like the Methodists, the United Brethren preachers are appointed to their charges every year by the conference and no minister knows before the church authorities act where he will be next year. It is the hope of Mr. Westfall's congregations here and at Pine Grove that he may be returned and a petition will go up for that purpose. The reverend gentlemen is held in high esteem by his congregation here and there and the large congregation yesterday was a unit in favor of his continuing his ministrations among them. People gathered at the grove from near and far, quite a number going from here. In the morning Mr. Westfall delivered his farewell discourse, and then, under the shadow of the pines and the oaks, in happy groups as in "God's first temples," the people partook of the good things that were brought in baskets and in boxes. There was enough and to spare.

In the afternoon the young people took charge of the exercises in the church and the following program was rendered under the direction of Mrs. Alice Willis, interspersed with songs by the choir:
Dialogue, little girls.
Recitation, Ezra Rhoten, Their Pledge.
Recitation, Ray Moore, Freedom's Law.
Recitation, Violet Brown, A Wayward Life.
Select Reading, Temple Brown, Talmage, on Gambling.
Recitation, Mattie Grate.
Recitation, Earl Rhoten.
Recitation, Robert Hunter, An Old Man's Story.
Recitation, Liliott Moore, Christ and the Little Ones.
Select Reading, Will Jacks, The Existence of a God.
Recitation, Mable Hunter, Tommie's Prayer.
Recitation, Jesse Fisher, Half Way Done's.

Wreck at Saginaw.
On Saturday morning about 5 o'clock the northbound overland train ran into the rear end of a freight train at Saginaw. The freight train was standing at the depot, having been engaged in switching some cars, when the heavy passenger train came in sight around the bend drawn by two engines and crashed into the freight cars standing on the track. Both the engines on the passenger train were damaged, the one in front being badly wrecked. The caboose and three freight cars were completely wrecked. No one was injured.

AT CAMP MCKINLEY.

CAMP MCKINLEY, May 7, 1895.
ED. PLAIND DEALER: Life in Camp McKinley still pulsates vigorously and the military monotony of routine is broken at last by the order for examination and the mustering in.
Company A, Capt. Heath, commenced mustering in last night.
The examination is reported as very severe, there being almost 40 per cent rejected. But it is now thought that the rigor will be modified somewhat.
It is a day of anxiety on "B" street. Our boys are afraid of that fatal word "rejected"—fatal to the hopes they cherish of serving their country.
Since writing the above Company B have been lined up and arrangements made for their full equipment for the whole company; this seems to indicate, and it is now generally expected that the examination given at Roseburg will stand as it is. This will suit the boys who are anxious to go in a body.
Expectation is on the tip-toe this morning. Rumor says we are to start for Presidio, near San Francisco, in a few days, and there to be held in readiness for embarkation to the Philippines or some other destination.
Camp McKinley is now daily visited by a throng of visitors, who now begin to realize that the time for departure and action is at hand. Among the visitors we notice the faces of many old friends, among whom we will note Mrs. G. A. Taylor, Cole Stanton, Dr. Barr, Mrs. Ira B. Riddle, B. F. Shambrook, Mrs. Clara Woodruff, John T. Criteser, and many others.
Gov. Lord and Col. B. E. Tuttle were on the ground yesterday.
Our boys will never forget Mrs. G. A. Taylor for her expression of kindness in the way of delicacies furnished them.
We have been drilling a good deal on extended order and battle formation. This is quite suggestive of what will soon be expected of us.
While the discipline of the camp is reasonably strict, however, provision has been made whereby a limited number of each company are allowed leaves of absence between drills on passes signed by their captains and counter-signed by the colonel, if they are out after drill hours.
There seems to be but small tendency toward insubordination in camp. All the boys seem to be inspired by a sense of the duties that await them and the necessity of a thorough preparation.
Health is generally good. Everything goes with the boys and but little kicking.
The following is the list of non-commissioned officers chosen from Company A to serve in Company B:
Harry Slocum, 2d sergeant.
F. Godfrey, quartermaster-sergeant.
Thos. Donell, 1th sergeant.
Wm. Holton, 1st corporal.
D. R. Shambrook, 2d corporal.
Geo. Day, 3d corporal.
O. C. Brown, 4th corporal.
Ed Hamlin, 5th corporal.
There is one corporal yet to be chosen.
BILL LATER.

Our hopes for a modification of the rigor of the examination proved an illusion, as the sequel proved. Company B has been put through the mill with the loss of nearly 20 of her men, 13 of whom were Company A men. This is a hard blow to those who were rejected, as many of them were considered physically among the best in the company. The examination was given by regular army physicians and without modification of its rigor.
The boys fell justly aggrieved. They had been examined by the regular physician of the O. R. G. before leaving Roseburg with the assurance that the examination was final, and that upon reaching Portland they would be mustered in. Most of the boys who went do so at great personal sacrifice, leaving good business positions. This they would not have done had they doubted their acceptance. But after putting the state to great expense of transportation, provisions, and greater items of being on the pay roll for nine days, they were after this expense and delay rejected and sent home, suffering not only with great disappointment but stamped with that implication of physical defect, which in most of cases was very slight, or altogether imaginary.
But whatever may be the disappointment of those who were rejected without fault of theirs, yet we all share in the feeling of pride that of those who passed the one refused to enlist, thus refuting the unjust imputation that the O. R. G. is made up of "tin soldiers," who would shirk the responsibilities of actual ## service when the opportunity presented itself.

—If no changes are made in the program company B containing the Roseburg boys together with other companies that have been mustered in, will pass through Roseburg on the Wednesday night, overland enroute for San Francisco, where they will mobilize, awaiting an early embarkation for the Philippines.
Your correspondent being one of the unfortunate one who is left behind will necessarily be compelled to vacate his position as war correspondent to the PLAIND DEALER, but this will not interrupt the correspondence, as the work is left in the hands of those who will keep us informed.

Now one word to our comrades in the field. Our hearts are with you wherever you are sent. Our eyes will follow you and our heartfelt wishes attend, whether it be in the vigils of guarding home barracks, the monotony of weary days on the briny wave across the great sea, or in stubborn conflict in the distant Philippines, still you will be remembered and your bravery honored. And when you return you will receive a reception worthy of the brave boys you are.
