Results of Protection in Oregon.

Pursuant to its policy for several years past the American Protective Tariff League has undertaken a poll of the industrial establishment of the United States with a view to obtaining trustworthy information as to the condition of American labor after eight months of protection as contrasted with its condition during the corresponding period following the enactment of the Wilson-Gorman low-tariff and no-tariff law of 1894.
Accordingly the request for information has included these two points: Average number of hands employed during the month of March, 1895 and 1898.
Amount of pay roll during the month of March, 1895 and 1898.

In order to insure the utmost freedom in the matter of replies and hence the utmost accuracy of information the League has in every case given the following pledge:
"The information asked will be held as strictly confidential, and in no case will the amount of wages be divulged in connection with your firm."

The returns thus far submitted show some extraordinary results. The first inquiry cards were addressed to parties doing business in the State of Oregon, and in response there have been received 102 reports representing 83 different classes of industry. A summary of the reports from the State of Oregon is as follows:

HANDS EMPLOYED.

Number of establishments re- porting	102
Number of hands employed during March, 1895	1,896
Number of hands employed during March, 1898	837
Gain for 1898 in number of hands employed	1,049
Percentage of gain	125.19

WAGES PAID.

Number of establishments reporting	102
Amount of wages paid during March, 1895	$100,013.16
Amount of wages paid during March, 1898	41,504.51
Gain for 1898 in wages paid	$58,508.65
Percentage of gain	141.04
Average wages per capita, month of March, 1895	$53.04
Average wages per capita, month of March, 1898	49.59
Gain in wages per capita, per month, 1898	$3.40
Percentage of gain	7.04

This is an unparalleled showing—a gain of 125.19 per cent, in the number of hands employed under Dingley-Protection as compared with Wilson-Gorman Free Trade; a gain of 111.04 per cent, in the amount of wages paid, and a gain of 7.04 per cent, in the rate of wages paid.
The latest authentic and accurate returns as to the manufacturing industries of Oregon are those of the eleventh census of 1890. At that time 1,523 establishments reported, with a total capital of $32,122,- 051; number of employes, 18,798. The eight years that have elapsed since 1890 have been years of splendid progress and development for Oregon, barring the four years of depression and industrial paralysis that followed the free-trade policy of 1893-97. There has been a large increase in population and industrial activity wherewith to measure the enormous benefits that have followed the restoration of the American policy of Protection to American labor and industries.

In 1896 a vastly different showing was made by Oregon in the investigation then made by the American Protective Tariff League covering the condition existing in July of that year, after two years of Wilson-Gormanism as compared with July of 1892, under the McKinley Tariff. It was then found that by the 10 establishments reporting there were employed in 1892, 521 hands, and in 1896 this number had fallen to 240 hands employed, a decrease of more than 50 per cent.

If to the great gain in wages the industrial production shows for Oregon by the contrast between March, 1895, under low-tariff and no tariff and March, 1898, under the Dingley tariff, to be added the advance in value of farm products and farm property and the general advance in value throughout that furnishing state, the showing for protection in Oregon would have to be reckoned by tens of millions of dollars.

On the first Monday in June of this year Oregon elects two representatives in the United States Congress. This will afford the people of that state the opportunity for an expression of their views concerning a federal policy that has wrought the splendid results indicated in the returns summarized above.
The friends of protection throughout the United States will be interested in hearing from Oregon on this subject.—From the "American Economist," Friday April 20, 1898.

Geo. Laderwood spent Sunday last in there has improved as he could not get help with solid coin.

Chas. Wagoner spent Sunday last at this place. Chas. has attractions here

Three cheers and a tiger for Commodore Dewey.

Thos. Russell and wife attended

John Brown's little girl is very sick, supposed to be in grippes.

The Baptist missionary car "Emanuel" is stopping here for a few days.

Mr. Jacques of the missionary car last Sunday afternoon.

There are to be a number of fruit-driers built here this summer. Among those building are: Ed Weaver, two;
A. B. Ousey, J. W. Branch, Mark
Smith and Jno. Metz.

C. J. Richey and Nat. Engle made a flying trip to Roseburg on their wheels last Sunday.

Miss Wilson of Riddle spent Sunday last in the city, a guest of Aunt Miller.

Myrtle Creek is fighting Spaniards now days by the demonstrations from neighboring oak trees and the remarks from without the crowd, "I wish I could have been with Dewey." "I wish I could go" and "Dewey didn't do a thing to them, did he?"

On last Saturday as train No. 32, going south, in charge of Conductor Bristol, was pulling in on the sidetrack to let the regular pass him, a heavy loaded freight car left the track and it took five hours to replace it. The cause of the accident was an overloaded car, also an old car and a defective rail. No serious damage was sustained. Econo.

Bryan's Decadence.

The only hope Mr. Bryan has had of a presidential nomination in 1900 is to keep the old dishonest dollar issue paramount in the minds of his deluded supporters, and to keep himself its foremost exponent. The march of events is destroying this hope.

The mind of the public—and especially of that portion which follows fads like free silver—will entertain but one leading issue at a time. If a new one arises, the one is abandoned. The Cuban question, and the unplex political issues which are rapidly developing therefrom, is driving the silver question out of the minds of the people.

Furthermore, a new popular idol has been set up, and Mr. Bryan is in danger of speedy dethronement. The triumphal progress of Gen. Fitzhugh Lee from Tampa to Washington shows that he is the prime favorite with the people of the south—in the very states where Bryan and free silverism developed their greatest strength.

When a military favorite is pitted against a political one, the latter always goes to the wall. Lee will, in all probability, dethrone Bryan in popular estimation. And it will be a good thing for the United States if it shall be so—if the Democratic party turns to the Virginian instead of the Nebraska.

Lee is far superior to Bryan in all that goes to make up the statesman. He is a really great and true man, not a shifty political demagogue. Bryan is nothing but a juggler with words, while Lee is a man whose action will always be preferred to the man of words.—Toledo Blade.
