MASONIC GRAND BODIES

In Session at Portland.—Election and Installation of Officers. The second day's session of the Order of Eastern Star was entirely devoted to the election of officers for the ensuing year. There was a decided warmth of feeling during the election. The main contest centered in the elected of associate grand master. Mrs. Margaret Lutke, of Myrtle chapter, No. 15, of Portland, was elected, but it required two ballots before a decision was reached. There were a number of other candidates in the field, and the first ballot resulted in 91 votes for Mrs. Lutke, the rest being scattered. On the second ballot her friends rallied to her support, and when the count was concluded she had 141 votes, more than enough to elect. The other officers elected were: Mrs. Madeleine Conking, of Corvallis, grand matron; Dr. L. M. Davis, of Portland, grand patron; Thomas Ryne, associate grand patron, and Mrs. J. D. Crocker, grand secretary.

The annual address of Grand Master Hobson was a masterpiece, and was listened to with a great deal of interest. At the conclusion of the address and the reports of the secretary and treasurer, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: J. B. Cleland, grand master; J. M. Hodson, deputy grand master; W. F. Butcher, senior grand warden; H. H. Alliston, grand treasurer; J. F. Robinson, grand secretary (re-elected); Gustaf Wilson, grand tyler; Jacob Mayer, trustee educational fund.

Death Lurks Within Alaska.

J. Percy, who has just returned from Skagway, reports that the Sticken route is impassable, owing to high water. The rapidly melting ice has swollen the streams into raging torrents, and they are extremely dangerous. Along the trail he met several argonauts who had turned back. In fact, Mr. Percy says travel in any part of the interior is dangerous. The trails are soft and men of times sink to their waists. Nor is this the worst, for oftentimes tons of ice and earth are loosened by the sun and crash down the gullies with terrific force. Any number of river boats, he says, are tied up along the Sticken river. Mr. Percy received reports from miners, saying that a good many boats had been wrecked in White Horse rapids. Even at this place, the river foams through this place in swabbing eddies, dashing the spray high over the deadly rocks, but now that the waters are given greater impetus by the floods, it is as much as a man's life is worth to attempt their passage. Over 30 small boats, he says, have been wrecked, with loss of life, in some instances. Up to June 6 the mounted police had registered 2000 boats. Over 100 of these had passed the rapids safely. A placer strike is reported seven miles from the head of Fifty-Mile river. A rush was made for the place, and the ground immediately staked. Colors can be found anywhere, but no large amounts have yet been taken out, although the miners expect to strike it rich upon reaching bedrock. Mr. Percy adds that the beaten routes are simply lined with people. Many, as stated, have turned back, and others are caught by the flood.—Portland Telegram.

In the Yosemite Valley a while ago, a young fellow went out on the edge of a sand pit high, and balanced himself on his head. A little slip or little puff of wind would have sent him to eternity. Not one man in a million would be that kind of a fool. But nine men in ten are all the time taking foolish chances. There is no deadly peril about a little fit of indigestion or biliousness, and yet if a man allows these troubles to get a hold on him he is taking serious risks. Dyspepsia alone seldom kills anybody; that is, it only kills you by inches, and takes a good many years doing it. But it weakens and undermines the constitution so that it is all ready to receive and fertilize the dangerous diseases which do kill you outright. Diseases get a won't grow in healthy blood any more than corn will grow on a rock. A man who keeps his digestion perfect and his blood pure may eat and drink and breathe disease germs, but they gain no foothold. They are cast out of the system. But a man with a dyspeptic, weakened constitution, germs and down he goes. The best health-insurance a man can have is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It acts directly on the stomach and liver. It gives the blood-making organs power to make healthy blood. It clarifies the blood from all impurities, and builds up the healthy flesh, muscular power and nerve energy, which fortifies you against disease. His life-long success in the treatment of chronic diseases has given Dr. Pierce's medicines a world-wide reputation. His "Pleasant Pellets" cure constipation.
