Print anything but the truth in the way to run a newspaper.—Capital Journal.

And the Journal comes near doing it that way.

Eugene papers and attorneys are speaking in the highest terms of praise of the ability of Judge Hamilton and Prosecuting Attorney Geo. M. Brown in the cases of Lane county court. Douglas county's public men are all gentlemen of intellect and character, regardless of party or politics.

It is noticeable that the paper and individuals who were most opposed to the maintenance of the National Guard and standing army in time of peace, are the very ones who are now raising the loudest howl about the hardships our soldiers are suffering at present. The truth of the matter is that the suffering were largely due to the unprepared state of our military, and that our volunteers are not accustomed to the hardships of war. It is very doubtful if our glorious army had been made up of volunteers after the opening of the war and they had not been equipped and trained as they were, that our arms on the sea would have won the victories they did without hardship.

The new law enacted in a bill introduced by Senator Kuykendall, of Lane, makes a radical change in the qualifications of voters at school elections. Hereafter no one can vote at any school election in any district who was not assessed with $200 worth of property on the last county assessment roll. There is no excuse or cause for such a law to be enacted. Why a poor man has not as much judgment in regard to the education of his children as one a little more fortunate in the possession of this world's goods, no man can or would even try to give a reason. The mere result of the law will not be so bad as the principle. It is class legislation. There is nothing more distasteful to a true American than the idea of it.

The Washington correspondent of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer says:
A striking contrast between the claims of the republican representative from the first Oregon district, Hon. Theo. H. Tongue and the populist, W. S. Vandenberg, who contested his seat in the present congress is found in the pages of the deficiency appropriation act, which has now become a law. In cases of election contests before the houses of representatives the contesting candidate and the sitting members are both allowed full compensation for expenses incurred in carrying on the contest, provided it does not exceed $2000. Mr. Vandenberg, however, contented himself with a claim for $1250.00, while Mr. Tongue claimed the sum of $100, which all who know anything about contested elections there, realize is rather under than over the probable cost of defending his right.

President McKinley retains sufficient of the savage to constrain him to urge upon his countrymen the task of giving thanks for the recent success at arms. He must be a poor and ignorant god who would enter up such worship to the credit of an individual or a nation. If two of your children should quarrel and fight and the one should be slain, what would you think of the other if he should approach you to render thanks for this victory?—Medford Monitor.

Editor Phipps must indeed be hard up for a point of attack on our president. Who is not thankful that we were victorious? Perhaps the Medford editor ought to have been slain in the war, or saw he doing time as a Spanish prisoner. Our cause was just, while there was nothing of right or humanity back of Spain's. The PLAINDEALER is thankful beyond expression that our country has been successful in this war. If would, indeed, be a "poor and ignorant god," to us, who could give Spain the balance of justice in the late clash of arms.

The pluck of the American woman was demonstrated a few days ago in this city. Mrs. Lora Harrington hanged her pet canary bird and cage out in the sun when she was horrified to see a large hawk alight on the cage and make strenuous efforts to reach the canary with its deadly talons. Quick as thought Mrs. Harrington reached forth her hand taking a death grip on the hawk's neck and did not relax same until the attending physician pronounced the bird dead.

The Arago Creamery treasurer came near being robbed Tuesday evening of $1500. W. H. Schroeder keeps the funds in his store and the robber made his appearance at about 9 o'clock, just as Mr. Schroeder was retiring, his residence being a part of the store building. Peter Crow, who makes his homes with Mr. Schroeder, about the same time was enroute to his room overhead the main store. When he came to the front door of the store, he opened same with the intention of stepping out for a moment. As he swung the door open, he was attacked by the robber, who evidently was on the point of entrance, and dealt three heavy blows with a billy. Mr. Crow was felled, but not sufficiently stunned as to keep him from raising an alarm. Thus frustrated in his plans the thief made a quick exit for quarters unknown at present.

WILL VOTE TOMORROW

Ballots Will be Cast in Forty-two States.

ALL PARTIES CLAIM VICTORIES.

Many Parties in Some of the States—Will Probably be Republican Gains in the Grand Total.

There will be elections in 42 states Tuesday—in Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

In 10 of them—Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Rhode Island and Virginia—only congressmen will be voted for, in two—North Carolina and West Virginia—congressmen and a legislature. In addition to West Virginia, 22 other states—California, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Indiana, Mississippi, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Washington, Wyoming and Wisconsin—elect a legislature which will choose a United States senator.

In 31 states a governor and a full or partial set of state officers are at stake. The following elect a governor: California, Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Nevada, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Wisconsin and Wyoming. In Illinois, Iowa, Florida, Delaware, Missouri, Montana, Ohio, Utah and Washington, one or more minor state officers, treasurer, auditor or justice of the supreme court, etc., will be elected.

In New York there are five state tickets which are as follows: Republican, democratic, citizens' union, socialist labor and prohibition. The democrats claim that the republicans must come to the city with a plurality of 90,000 if they expect to elect Colonel Roosevelt.

In Indiana there are five state tickets printed on the ballots—democratic, republican, populist, prohibition and socialist. The democrats declare for free silver and the Chicago platform. The republicans appealed to the voters to sustain the administration on the war and other issues, and did not make the financial question quite so prominent as the democrats did.

In Idaho there are three tickets in the field, republican, populist, and fusion between democrats and silver republicans. Both parties are confident of success, but it is admitted by all parties that the republicans have made great gains over two years ago.

The woman vote is a new element in the campaign, and the politicians are at a loss to know how to estimate the effect of its appearance.

In Kansas there are four tickets in the field, namely, the populist, led by Governor Leedy; republican, by W. E. Stanley; prohibition by ex-Senator Peffer; socialist-labor ticket by Caleb Lipscomb. During the campaign the populists have made a strong feature of the record of their state officers. The republicans, while answering this, have featured the record of McKinley and especially his war policy. Both sides are making confident claims of victory.

Utah will Tuesday next elect one supreme judge, one congressman, ten state senators and forty-five representatives. The candidates are: Republican—C. S. Zane for judge, Alma Eldredge for congress. Democratic—R. N. Baskin for judge, B. H. Roberts for congress. Populist—J. M. Bowman for judge. Warren Foster for congress. All parties favor free coinage of silver.

The Michigan campaign was quiet and apathetic. It has been conceded that Governor Pingree and the republican state ticket will be easily elected.

Unofficially it is claimed that democratic headquarters in Missouri, that they will carry 79 out of 115 counties in the state. Sixteen counties they put in the doubtful column. There are six state party tickets in the field. The democrats claim every congressman except Richard Bartholdt. The republicans claim that the congressional delegation from the state will number the same as at present.

There are six tickets in the field in Wisconsin. The chairmen of the democratic and republican state central committees claim to be sure of victory, the latter by from 30,000 to 50,000 plurality. In this election the democrats, to win, must overcome a plurality of nearly 100,000 votes of two years ago.

Four gubernatorial candidates in Tennessee are in the field—McMillin, democrat; Fowler, republican; Richardson, populist, and Turnley, democrat. The majority of the populists will vote the democratic ticket. Eight of the ten congressmen will be democrats.

In Mississippi there will be no contest except in the sixth district. Here is a peculiar situation growing out of the death of Representative Love, who had no opposition. The time was too short before the election to permit a party nomination, and this has had the effect of producing two democratic candidates—F. A. McLain and M. M. Evans, a populist, N. C. Hathorn, and a republican.

in C. Turley. It is commonly thought that the former will be elected.

In Pennsylvania it is generally conceded that republican candidates will be elected.

The democrats claim that they will elect eight out of the 10 congressmen, and possibly all, in Virginia.

In New Hampshire the republican state chairman predicts 10,000 plurality for Collins, republican candidate for governor, and an overwhelming majority in the legislature.

Notwithstanding a surprise which was sprung at the 11th hour looking to a fusion of populists and republicans in the ninth district, it is believed Georgia will return to congress a solid democratic delegation.

The close of the campaign in Texas is without interest. There is a certainty of 11 democrats in congress out of a total of 13.

In Massachusetts the republicans predict that the 12 republican congressmen will be returned. That the democrats in the ninth district will return Congressman Fitzgerald, is conceded.

Rhode Island democrats are hopeless of any success whatever.

Congressmen will beyond all doubt give republican majorities.

The close of the political campaign in Delaware finds both parties claiming the state.

There is little doubt of general democratic success in Florida.

In South Carolina there is contest for state officers against the nominees of the recent democratic primary. The only feature of the election is the preparation of the republicans to make contests before the next house for seats of congressional representatives.

In Nebraska there are five state tickets in the field. The fight has been waged largely on state issues, though the fusionists have made free silver a leading theme, and the republicans the successful conduct of the war. Campaign managers of leading parties claim confidence, the fusionists being most outspoken.

The congressional contests in Iowa are close in only two districts—the sixth and eighth. Tonight Republican Chairman Hancock claims the state by 50,000 majority, and says all republican congressional candidates will be elected.

The democratic campaign managers claim that Alabama will be represented by a solid delegation in the next congress. Only two districts, the fourth and seventh, were ever in doubt.

The republicans are fighting against fusion of populists, democrats and free-silver republicans in South Dakota. The republican state committee predicts victory for the state ticket, and says two republicans will be elected to succeed two populists in congress.

In New Jersey both sides claim to be confident of success. The republican state committee claims that Voorhes will be elected governor by from 7,000 to 10,000 plurality, and that the republicans will have a majority in the next legislature.

In North Dakota the Republican state committee claims majorities ranging from 3500 to 7000 on the state ticket, as well as the election of congressmen.

The republican state committee of Minnesota predicts the election of the entire republican state ticket, congressional delegation and a safe majority in the legislature.

One of the most one-sided congressional campaigns ever witnessed in Arkansas has come to a close. In five of the six districts there are no candidates in opposition to the democratic ticket. The republicans have a candidate in the field, but the result in that district is hardly considered in doubt.

In North Carolina there is a universal belief among democrats that their judicial ticket, at least eight of the nine congressmen and a majority of the state senators will be elected.

The democratic leaders claim confidently that they will elect all four congressmen, and believe that the legislature will have a working majority in West Virginia. The republican managers hope success in the first and third districts. They also claim the legislature.

The Maryland republican state central committee claims that the republican candidates in the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth districts, will surely be elected, while Jackson, in the first, has a good running chance. The democrats also claim the state.

The best information obtainable indicates the election of the silver ticket in Nevada, with the exception of governor, superintendent of public instruction, and state controller.

Democrats in Kentucky are enthusiastic. They expect to have an increased democratic majority in the congressional delegation. Republicans are confident of carrying four districts.

In Colorado there are practically only four tickets in the field although 10 parties are named on the ballot. The question of free coinage of silver has been the principal issue.

The political campaign in California has been most vigorously fought all along the line. California elects a full set of state officers, seven congressmen and a legislature that will elect a United States senator to succeed Stephen M. White. This year the democrats, silver republicans and populists have fused and nominated a ticket opposed to which are the republican and prohibition tickets. Republicans are confident of electing Gage for governor, over McGuire.

McKinley received a fraction over one-fifth of the votes of Montana two years ago. At the election next Tuesday the republican vote will be much larger, but there is no reason to believe the republican state ticket will come near being elected. The democrats will doubtless elect all their candidates.

The republicans will doubtless carry the state of Ohio. The only national issue agitated here was on sustaining the national administration with a republican majority in congress. Neither side discussed the tariff, the currency or other questions. There are five state tickets—republican, democratic, prohibition, socialist and reform.

In Wyoming there are three state and congressional tickets in the field, the offices to be filled being governor, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer, superintendent of public instruction and justice of the supreme court. Republicans, populists and a fusion of the democrats and silver-republicans have candidates for congress, as follows: Republican, Frank W. Mondell; fusion, Constantine P. Arnold; populists, William Brown. Indications are that the republicans will carry the entire state ticket.

Only two minor state officers are to be voted for in Illinois next Tuesday. Twenty-two congressmen and a legislature are, however, to be chosen. The republicans claim 10 of the districts, giving 10 to the democrats. The latter, on the other hand, say they will elect 17 senators and the republicans four, calling among others the Chicago districts doubtful. The present congressional delegation consists of 17 republicans, four democrats and one fusionist. The republicans assert that they will gain one or two seats. The democrats, on the contrary, are confident of carrying Chicago, and if they do, their expectation of several new congressmen may be realized.

The Crime of Fiends

PORTLAND, Nov. 5.—Within the city limits of Portland one of the most fiendish crimes imaginable was discovered about noon today. The victim was Angelo Serico, an Italian bootblack 15 years old upon whom first a nameless assault was committed, and who was then dragged to his death by his assailants.

Young Serico's body, scratched and bruised from being dragged, and with the marks of a rope still around his neck, was found in an orchard near his parent's home. There is, so far, no clue to the murderer.

Almost Blind

Berofula Affects the Eyes—Little Boy Treated by an Oculist With- out Relief—But Now He is Well.

When my little boy was three months old his eyes became very sore and he was almost blind. I took him to an oculist who treated him for six months, and left him as bad as he was at the beginning. Finally Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended and I began giving it to him. In less than three weeks he was able to go into the sun without covering his eyes, and today his eyes are perfectly well, and his ears and nose, which were badly affected, are also well. Hood's Sarsaparilla has certainly done wonders for my boy. Remember Hood's Sarsaparilla.
