THE ELECTION RETURNS

NOVEMBER 10, 1898

Show That Republicans Will Control the Senate and House.

SOLID FRONT ON THE PACIFIC.

California and Washington Give Republican Majorities—Roosevelt Undoubtedly Elected.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Returns establish to a certainty that the United States senate will have a republican majority after March next. Of the present republican total of 45, the terms of seven senators expire March 4 next, leaving 38 hold-over republicans. To this number the elections of yesterday add 10 republicans, making a total of 48, or two more than a majority of the democrats, populists and silver republicans.

There are 21 democratic hold-over senators, and to this number yesterday the election added four with certainty and one probably, giving a total of 25 votes. The populist and silver republican hold-overs number eight, and this was increased yesterday by one practically sure. Five state legislatures appear much in doubt, viz.: Nebraska, West Virginia, Montana, Indiana and Washington, and are not included in figuring the totals.

Today's returns show that these democratic senators will be succeeded by republicans: White, California; Mitchell, Wisconsin; Allen, Nebraska; Turpie, Indiana; Smith, New Jersey; Faulkner, West Virginia; Murphy, New York, and Gray, Delaware.

Interest in the election to day centered in the political complexion of the next house. Although Chairman Babcock, of the republican congressional committee, made this morning what he terms an ultra conservative estimate, in which he eliminated a number of doubtful lists, this estimate gives the republicans 185 members in the next house, a majority of 13 over all. At 2 o'clock, Kerr, of the democratic congressional committee, claimed the certain election of 190 democrats and fusionists.

Following is the unofficial estimates taken from the latest returns. Most of the majorities are taken from the gubernatorial vote:

Governor's Proclamation.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 7.—Following is the full text of Governor Lord's Thanksgiving Proclamation for 1898, which was issued today:

"Executive Department, Salem, Oregon, Nov. 7.—In recognition of the many blessings vouchsafed to our people by the giver of all good, I, William P. Lord, governor of the State of Oregon, in accordance with an established usage, do hereby designate Thursday, the 24th day of November, 1898, to be observed as a day of thanksgiving. On that day I recommend that the people abstain from all secular employment, and devote it to religious observance, to charitable acts and sympathy with the sorrowing, to the pleasures and hospitality and social recreation, to the cultivation of patriotic sentiments and profound respect for law and order, and to the remembrance of our brave soldiers, living and dead, who upheld the honor of our flag and maintained the prestige of American arms.

"Witness my hand and the seal of the State of Oregon at the capital, in Salem, this 7th day of November, A. D., 1898.

"WILLIAM P. LORD, Governor."

GEN. MILES REPORT

NOVEMBER 10, 1898

Will Make Interesting Reading When Given Out.

A BITTER PILL FOR ALGER.

It is Said That Certain Portions of It Will Be Withheld from the Public.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—A special to the Herald from Washington says: Major-General Nelson A. Miles has completed and submitted to the war department his report, covering the entire period of hostilities between the United States and Spain.

It could not be learned at the war department whether this report in its entirety will be given out for publication in the near future or at all. It is said that certain portions of the report may be withheld. The sum and substance of the reasons for withholding it, it is said, is the fact that the report is said to deal squarely with matters that certain officials prefer to keep in the background.

Friends of General Miles, who claim to be cognizant of the contents of the report say it is exhaustive in dealing with the minutest details, and many things which have not been clear to the general public as to the conduct of the war are fully and comprehensively explained.

That the report is thorough and exhaustive is shown by the fact that it covers nearly 200 sheets of closely typewritten manuscript paper, and includes all dispatches sent by and received by General Miles. It, in fact, covers all the part taken by the army in the war, and deals in the most minute details with the period beginning with General Miles' landing in Cuba, and until he left the island of Porto Rico to come home.

The reference to the Santiago campaign alone takes up many pages. The invasion and occupation of Porto Rico is reviewed in detail. It is also mentioned that General Miles conferred with Admiral Sampson, and asked the admiral to protect the landing of United States troops on Cuban soil, which was done.

The report also refers to the warning General Miles gave to General Shafter, and in plain English criticizes General Shafter's conduct of the campaign in Santiago.

The report only makes brief mention of the work of the inspector-general's department, which General Miles thinks was satisfactory, in so far as the inspector-general had power and authority to act. From this the inference is drawn that the inspector-general was curtailed by authority greater than his own in the conduct of his work.

The report practically states that the muddled condition of matters relating to the army status is due to the fact that much information that was given out was contradicted by the secretary of war.

Contained in the report are true copies of every telegram that passed between General Miles and the war department. None of them are curtailed or mutilated, and it is said if the report is published in full, many of these telegrams and portions of others will be made public for the first time. These telegrams, it is further said, will tell truths that it is believed have been so far suppressed. The report makes no reference to the so-called Alger Miles controversy but some of the statements credited to General Miles are reiterated. A friend of General Miles said:

"The general will not make the report public, but the secretary of war will give it out. He will not dare to keep it back. It will be a bitter pill for Alger, but when it is known that the report has been submitted the demand for it will be great."

TERESA DID NOT SINK

NOVEMBER 10, 1898

Only Went Ashore on Cat Island.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 8.—The Merritt Wrecking Company has received information that the Teresa is ashore at Cat Island. Captain Cullenden will leave with the steamer Merritt at once.

Went Over the Falls.

OREGON CITY, Nov. 9.—This morning at 9 o'clock Ed Brown and Ed Boyles accidentally went over the falls in a row-boat. Brown jumped out of the boat on the first bench of rock and saved himself, while Boyles went over the lower falls and disappeared in the deep water.

The men were cleaning driftwood out of the basin, and dumping it through a chute in the breakwater above the falls. They towed a raft of logs and drift to the bank of the falls, and the section of the water caused the boat to follow the raft over the precipice.

The drowned man was about 25 years old, and resided with his parents here.

DIED.

ASHENFELTER.—At the family home near Turner, Or., on Sunday, Nov. 6, 1898, at 10 p. m., Margaret M. Ashenfelter, aged 78 years, of consumption.

The funeral services will be held at Macleay Tuesday, Nov. 8, at 11 a. m. Interment in Macleay cemetery.—Saleau Journal.
