Pendleton printers are enterprising. Pendleton printers likewise are original. Proof is furnished in the announcement that on January 17, the anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin, patron saint of the art preservative, Pendleton printers will give a ball, and that while the dance goes on a paper will be edited, set up and printed in the ball room. This paper will be one of hourly issue, and four separate editions will be printed. All the printers and newspaper men of Pendleton will take part in its preparation.—Telegram.

A curiosity is on exhibition at this office. It consists of a cow's horn recently picked up in the country by Dr. K. A. Leep. About midway between the base and point of the horn a very hard bit or pine knot one inch in diameter has pierced the horn horizontally, the sharp pointed knot being larger at either end than the hole through which it passed and it protrudes through the horn about two inches at one end and four inches at the other. There is every indication that the stick or knot has been carried in the horn for many years, but is still strong, sound and firmly imbedded.—Myrtle Point Enterprise.

An enjoyable occasion on last Friday evening, Abraham Lincoln Circle No. 2, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic gave a chicken pie social at the old Masonic hall. A very pleasant and select crowd was in attendance. Each one seemed to try to make every other one happy and all seemed to have a good time. The chicken pie was fine and plenty of it. A beautiful cake was voted to the most popular lady in the house and Mrs. Frater was the recipient. The cake was then cut and sold at five cents per slice, Miss Clara McCoy receiving the slice which contained the ring. We hope that the ladies of the G. A. R. will soon give another of their very pleasant entertainments.

Oregon Notes.

Nearly all the business men of Independence are opposed to a general license tax.

On a piece of ground, 18x30 feet, Calvin Long, of McMinnville, raised 4900 pounds of beets.

Owing to the shallowness of the Willamette, boats have difficulty in landing at Independence.

Holmes Bros., of Eagle Point, killed 50 fine logs on the 12th, averaging about 300 pounds net. They have about 100 more to kill.

The ice this season is the finest seen for many a year in Canyon City. It runs from 8 to 12 inches thick, and is as clear as crystal.

J. M. White and J. H. Gemmill, of Lexington, have each agreed to sow 30 acres to flax, and others are talking of sowing quite extensively.

Five families, or portions thereof, of Morrow county, left one day last week for different points in the Eastern states on visits to relatives. Good crops and prices enable hundreds of farmers to take such trips.

The cold weather has frozen up the water in the flume to such an extent that it is impossible to operate the Dufur mill. This caused a great scarcity of mill feed to that section, as the supply already exhausted.

Three South Dakota people who have been at Eugene looking at the country are greatly pleased with Lane county, and will return in June with their families and other relatives to make permanent homes near Eugene.

A 15-year old boy, named Glaser, living a few miles west of Lebanon, has one of his eyes put out while hunting, last Sunday. He was using a muzzle-loading gun, and when discharging it the cap flew into one of his eyes.

Court Hall and J. E. Enyart were hunting near Medford, and a shot from Enyart's gun in some manner went wide of its mark and penetrated the ball of Mr. Hall's right eye, and he will probably lose his sight.

The Ontario Mattock is the name of a weekly paper started last week in Malheur county, by Ed L. King, a young man recently graduated from the Forest Grove university. There is plenty of work in that region for a mattock vigorously wielded.

Domestic fowl hereabouts have been off duty ever since the snap, says the Western Leader, and the only eggs on the market are shipped here from Minnesota. The eggs imported command 30 cents per dozen, and are not for an editor's breakfast.

Mr. S. Benson, an extensive logger on the lower river, thinks logs will be worth not less than $5 per 1000 feet for several years. That is a good price, and loggers can make "scuds" of money if that figure can be received right along, says the St. Helen's Mist.

One Medford fruit buyer has shipped, this fall, 42 carloads of apples. The number of boxes he estimated at about 30,000. These apples have been bought outright from the growers and have been shipped to Eastern cities, where a ready market has been found for them at a fairly good price.

A Romance of Coon Hollow.

Probably no play has been received with such universal commendation as C. E. Callahan's Tennessee comedy, "A Romance of Coon Hollow", now in its fifth successful season. On its original production in Chicago, the critics of that city were a unit in predicting its success. The New York press was equally unanimous in commenting on the piece during its run at the Thirtieth Street Theatre, and from Boston to New Orleans there has not been a dissenting opinion on the merits of the play. "The soft Southern drawl", which permeates the language of the characters had a particular charm; the thorough humane nature embodied in the personages of the play, appeals to the very best taste.

Joined to this "A Romance of Coon Hollow" reveals magnificent scenery, and affects, novel and unique electrical features, and carries a troupe of singing and dancing "darkies", male and female. Two quartettes furnish its musical adjuncts, and a well selected dramatic company interprets its role. All the scenery used is carried by the road, which is one of the largest on the coast.

"A Romance of Coon Hollow" is announced for Wednesday, December 21, at the Opera House.

Notice of Annual Meeting.

Killed.

A man was killed near Gardiner, Dec. 14th, by a falling tree. He was known to his friends by the name of Lon Henderson. Mr. Henderson at the time of his death was engaged in logging. Mr. H. was a comparatively young man in years and has been a resident of Scottsburg since he was quite a boy. He leaves a wife and son, a brother and several relatives to mourn his sudden death. He was buried on the 16th in the Scottsburg cemetery, a large number of friends and relatives attending the funeral.
