Smith's Approaching Doom.

The enclosure between the courthouse and jail, at Jacksonville, in which Frank Lawrence Smith is to be executed on Friday, the 26th, is completed. It is 16 feet high, with an area to accommodate 150 people and yet have room for the scaffold. The gallows wil be the same as that upon which Louis O'Neil was WILL WALL FOR BELLER TERMS hanged May 21, 1885, for the murder of Louis McDaniel at Ashland in 1884.

Wnatever his thoughts may be Smith betrave no outward appreciation of the awful doom that awaits him. He converses treely and even cheerfully with those who happen to be in the jail, and affects to believe that his sentence will be commuted to life imprisionment. He is an odd sort of a man, with little conception of the situation and apparentty no sense of responsibility .- Tidings.
