STRANGE SOCIETIES.

The Extraordinary Objects of Some New Institutions.
Chimerical Schemes of Benevolence-Minded Persons for Establishing Old Enterprises.
Many societies with the most outlandish objects have from time to time been founded. Here are a few cases of recent growth in London and elsewhere.
A lady of means living in a large provincial town quite recently founded a select society for providing the working classes "with cheap, moral literature." That the specimens of work turned out by this society are moral there can be no question; that they are cheap must be conceded, for they are given away; but that the new feature may be open to grave doubt.
The really extraordinary feature of this society appears in the fact that not only is the literature given away, but the articles of the society provide "that all profits accruing from the sale of the society's pamphlets are to be devoted to the founding and maintenance of a society for the protection of domestic servants."
Thus one thing leads to another, or would lead if the "moral literature" sold. As it is, it is merely distributed to small tradesmen, who wrap "half-porths of tea" and sugar in the pages for the moral elevation of their customers. Every week a fresh budget of the "literature" from the pen of society's founder is distributed free among the tradespeople round about.
Another society has been formed by three or four ladies for the purpose of providing boys over the age of 13 with boxing gloves. The object sounds benevolent, but really it is most specific; the society being impressed with the belief that if street boys were given more facilities for fighting with their fists the use of knives and granite stones would eventually be numbered among the dead arts.
Therefore, to encourage fighting with fists and at the same time to minimize the facial damage which results from bare fists, the society suggested the distribution of the softest and most innocent of boxing gloves. Numerous meetings of the society were held, but it never got beyond suggestions, and so grand boxing contests at street corners are still things of the unattained future.
The courage of some people is really stupendous! Fancy a sweet little society of eight moral beings having for its object "corporeal arbitration in intercommunal disputes." Yet such a society was actually founded, and with no intention of being funny, either. The society had a fund, too, amounting to something like $120.
What this fund was for cannot be decided, but it was probably intended for buying off claims made by one nation against another.
It was unfortunate that the society became extinct before the outbreak of war between America and Spain. It would have been interesting to watch while the society would have bought Cuba from Spain and have presented it to America, thus preventing the war.
If you take an acorn and pass through it a thread by which it can be balanced in water, the acorn will shoot in the air, and a little oak tree will grow out of the acorn—in more time. Well, a charitable inclined lady, the widow of a clergyman, recently set on foot a movement to supply medicine bottles and acorns to dwellers in the slums of London, that they might have their shelves of the refreshing and elevating influence of oak trees growing out of the necks of bottles.
There were many favorable points about the scheme. The members of the society would be interested in collecting acorns and suitable boxes in their own receivers; these miniature forests would be edited by the progress of their acorns, and, until the acorns began to shoot, they would have a long and excellent lesson in patience.
A hundred bottled acorns were distributed in the East End by the society's workers, but for lack of reasonable support and cooperation the scheme died when, like one of its own acorns, it was just beginning to show some results—London Mail.

represented at the Paris exhibition by a golden life size figure, representing a "typical American girl"—a girl with all her clothes on, and up-to-date in style. It is thought it will take a million dollars worth of the metal. Will, the typical American girl is worth her weight in gold any day in the week, says a bachelor editor.

The estimated attendance at the 4th of July celebrations in Oregon if figured up would probably be more than the entire population of the state, and yet over half of the people never attended any celebration at all, just staid at home and shouted for Uncle Sam in their hearts.
In Washington a young lady has sued a young man for $15,000 damages because he squeezed her hand with an ardency more pronounced than pleasant. In her complaint she alleges that he seized the plaintiff's hands "with great force and violence and for a long space of time squeezing and mashing them, whereby and in consequence thereof both hands were contused, bruised, mashed and crushed and permanently injured, so that her right hand will be amputated and the other will be permanently injured."—Ex.

NEARLY Fifty-eight Years Old!!!

It's a long life, but devotion to the true interests and prosperity of the American People has won for its new friends as many years as it has for the original members of its family passed to their reward, and these admirers are loyal and steadfast today, with faith in its teachings, and confidence in the information which it brings to their homes at its fireside. As a natural consequence it enjoys in its old age all the vitality and vigor of its youth, strengthened and ripened by the experiences of over half a century. It has lived on its merits, and on the cordial support of progressive Americans. It is "The New York Weekly Tribune," acknowledged the country over as the leading National Family Newspaper.

Recognizing its value to those who desire all the news of the State and Nation, the publisher of THE PLAINEALER (your own favorite home paper) has entered into an alliance with "The New York Weekly Tribune" which enables him to furnish both papers at the trifling cost of $1.75 per year.
Every farmer and village owes it to himself, to his family, and to the community in which he lives a cordial support of his local newspaper, as it works constantly and untriflingly for his interests in every way, brings to his home all the news and happenings of his neighborhood, the doings of his friends, the condition and prospects for different crops, the prices in home markets, and, in fact, is a weekly visitor which should be found in every wide-awake, progressive family.
Just think of it!!!

CHRONIC MALARIA
Is the result of repeated acute attacks. The liver and spleen are principally affected. It acts as a stimulant for the malarial poison and the blood takes it from them. The poison must be driven out of the system. HUDYAN will destroy the action of the poison and eventually drive out the last particle of it from the system. In addition to this, HUDYAN will restore the lost appetite. HUDYAN will make new blood and cause the cheeks to assume their natural color
