The man who goes on his summer vacation for exercise is the man who is never disappointed.

Now is the time to begin to make the district fair next month the grandest success of any yet held.

The father of Jeffries and the mother of trusts are receiving more than their share of public attention this summer.

General Summers is not only a brave and worthy commander, but also a good conscientious friend of the Oregon soldier boys.

Some years ago business men couldn't afford to go to the coast because business was so dull; now they can't afford to leave because business is so brisk.

The state of Iowa is out of debt and has nearly half a million dollars in its treasury. Such examples of living within the income provided, and keeping out of debt, are so rare among states, counties and municipalities that they are deserving of special notice and commendation. Yet this should be and could be the rule, instead of the rare exception, if public officials were only as careful and conscientious about public affairs as about their own.—Telegraph.

That there is always two sides to a question is again strongly evidenced from a perusal of the article appearing in this issue of the PLAINEALER which gives a prominent Bohemian miner's version of the little episode of last week in which R. S. Sheridan, of this city, and Surveyor C. M. Collier, of Eugene, on the one side, and the Jennings brothers and Chas. Bruneau, on the other, figured as the principals. The inference that a state of lawlessness exists or has ever existed in the Bohemian mines, is wholly without foundation, regardless of the fact that recently some of the miners proceeded to "hounce" an attorney and surveyor whom they claimed were trespassing on their premises against their wishes and vigorous protests.

Portland had for a guest last week, Hon. Adelbert M. Dewey, a man who has achieved distinction not alone in the literary world as the author of the "Life of Admiral George Dewey and the Dewey Family History," a work that is nearly as large as Webster's dictionary or the Holy Bible, and "The Life and Letters of Admiral Dewey," now in press, but who also holds a responsible position in the service of the government. It is, perhaps, needless to say that Mr. Dewey is related to the hero of Manila bay. Mr. Dewey was in Portland, however, in the capacity of a government official, as special agent of the United States department of labor, and for the purpose of gathering statistics regarding governmental conditions.

Regarding the wishes of the Oregon volunteers to be landed and mustered out of service at San Francisco instead of at Portland, we do not believe there is any excuse for the stay-at-homes to complain. The volunteers are the men who have done the work, gone through the fighting, endured the hardships and suffered from wounds and disease. The matter was very properly left to them, and no fault should be found with the choice they made. People at home have been moved by sentiment; men who have been wallowing in tropical climates have had that knocked out of them. It is now business with them and an eagerness to be free from the restraints of army discipline. The unanimity with which they asked to be mustered out in California indicates that they know pretty well what they want.

HELENA MINE EPISODE

Bohemian a Civil, Law-Abiding Mining Camp.

NO "SHOT GUN LAW" EMPLOYED.

Difficulty Resulting in Destruction of Surveyor Collier's Instrument Provoked by Roseburg Attorneys.

ROSEBURG, July 18, 1899.

EDITOR PLAINEALER: Sir: I beg space in your valuable paper for a few lines in refutation of a scurrilous article appearing in a little paper issued in your city on the 17th inst., called the Review, which article was evidently an attempt to prejudice your people against the Jennings boys and Charles Bruneau of Bohemia. The said article stated in substance that Chas. M. Collier, a U. S. mineral surveyor was viciously assaulted by James Jennings, aided by R. J. Jennings and Charles Bruneau, with a Winchester rifle, his solar transit broken, and the surveyor ejected at the muzzle of a rifle, and other stuff equally vile and false. The facts are that some three or four years ago, Bruneau and some of the Jennings boys located a mining claim called the Helena, and at or about the time they located, they heard that one G. G. Warner claimed it and asked him about it, and he said he had filed on it but could not hold it as he had one claim on that vein. Then Bruneau and the Jennings boys went ahead and expended about $12,000 besides their time for three or four years in developing the claim and contracted to sell it at a good profit. Then said Warner commenced a suit in equity for the mine and asked for an injunction restraining Mr. Bruneau and the Jennings boys from doing further work thereon. Said suit was dismissed and the injunction denied by the court. About this time Mr. Bruneau and the Jennings boys applied for a U. S. patent for their mine. Then Mr. Warner commenced an action at law in the circuit court to recover the mine from the Jennings and Bruneau, which action is not yet decided. Then the attorney for Mr. Warner secured the services of Mr. Collier, of Eugene, and went upon the said claim with the intention of surveying it. Twice they were ordered away, and went, but on the third day returned again, and notwithstanding the repeated warnings and demands of the owners to keep off the premises they forced their way on and refused to leave. Then Mr. James Jennings told them they must leave, and Mr. Collier said he would not leave. He admitted that he had read the notice not to trespass, and he knew he was on the Helena claim. Mr. Jennings broke the compass, or at least it was broken during the process of getting off of the claim.

The attorneys for Mr. Warner are in fault in the whole trouble, as they advised the surveyor that he had a legal right to make the survey without any order of the courts or permission from the owners, which advice was wrong, and which they must have known to have been wrong when they gave it. The surveyor was a trespasser and the parties with him, having no permission from the court or owners to go upon this property.

I employ about 60 men in the Bohemian mining district, and there has never been any trouble in that camp until this arose, and there would have been none at this time had it not been agitated by lawyers of your town. I have always had a friendly feeling towards lawyers, believing in the main they intend to do what is right, but in this instance they caused the trouble, and did it in injurious to the Jennings boys and Bruneau, who are as quiet and peaceable men as there are in the camp, and good workers, spending their time and money in advancing the interests of the whole camp.

The charge made in said Roseburg Review's article that the Jennings boys had accumulated arms, ammunition, etc., with the intention of taking the law into their own hands is absolutely false, neither have they "terrorized the camp" or any person therein. The said Roseburg attorney is probably afraid, and will say he "is" when he advises trespass on other people's property.

Mrs. Hardy Elliot and Mrs. Ceila Langenberg of the Cedars were the guests of Mrs. G. G. Elliot on Tuesday. Rev. Parker new pastor, is holding a series of meetings at the new hall. The attendance is very good. Mrs. S. Bartle of Canyonville, who has been visiting her son, Peter Utam, and his family at Glendale, returned home Tuesday. Slater, who has been rustling at Mr. Slater's mines on Snow creek for some time, returned home Monday. O. F. Rohrer has opened a wholesale and retail butcher shop on Pacific avenue where he keeps the best of everything in that line. Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Dewey, of Lakeview, will arrive on the 1st for an extended visit with Mr. Dewey's mother and other relatives. Col. Wm J. Martin of Jacksonville, will arrive this evening for an extended visit with his two daughters, Mrs. Stocum and Mrs. Miller, at this place, and may reside at Glendale in the future. Mrs. F. T. Lady returned on Sunday morning from a three months' visit with relatives at Portland. Mr. Lady, who is with the W. U. Tel. Co. at Riddle, accompanied his wife to Glendale, returning to Riddle Sunday evening. This entire community was pained to hear of the tragic death of Mr. J. F. Galvin, at Riddle today. Mr. Galvin had a host of friends here, who will deplore the peculiar accident that resulted in his death. And we join them all in tendering profound sympathy to the greatly bereaved family. Judge and Mrs. F. O. Plotner entertained a number of their friends at their pretty suburban, on Sunday. Among the number were, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Elliot, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Lady, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Redfield, Mrs. P. E. Dewey Mrs. J. Boyd and her daughter, Miss Maud Warner, and all of the W. U. Tel. Co., men who came up on that day from Riddle. A very pleasant sociable was enjoyed by all. J. E. Cox, who has held the position of section foreman at Glendale for some years, will remove with his family to Woodville, Jackson county, August 1st, where he will take charge of the section there, he having changed locations with a new Kelleher who wishes to come to Glendale on account of the delicate health of his wife, thinking she will be benefited by the pure water and fresh air of this healthy locality. Mr. Cox and his family have made many friends here who regret their going. Glendale rejoices with all of Oregon at the return of our brave soldier boys, and would be delighted to give them a reception, if they could stay here a short time as they pass on to their homes. We would honor ourselves in doing homage to the brave soldiers tried and true, who have offered their services to defend our flag from a wily and treacherous foe in a foreign land. And tears of tender sympathy fall from eyes unused to weeping as we think of the sadness of those mothers whose boys are left behind in lonely graves in the Philippines. May God comfort them as He alone can do. MOLLIE.

The women of a Kansas town have decided to wear trousers instead of skirts, blouses or other female covering for the pudic & straitlaced, owing, as they say to the severe winds prevailing there. Such action would create quite a breeze in any town.
