Military Commandant of San Cristobal Assassinated.

A COMPROMISE IS SOUGHT.

San Domingan Government Hopes to Hold an Election. An Example of Self Government in the West Indies.

New York, Aug. 29.—A dispatch to the Herald from Santo Domingo Friday, via Key West, Fla., says: The tide of revolution is rapidly nearing the capital. The revolutionists have crossed the mountains, and are now only six hours distant by horse.

Among the people there is general alarm. The president never leaves home by night or day except with a double guard. The city is virtually under martial law.

Military preparations are being rushed by the government, and the reserves are under arms, but the insurrection has thus far been remarkably free from bloodshed, although there are vague reports of severe fighting in the interior.

Governor Linares, of the La Vega district, has gone over to the revolutionists, taking with him many soldiers. Some of the Dominican gendarmes have put into the river, and it is rumored that the president and cabinet, in case of emergency, will flee to Porto Rico.

A VALUABLE ALLY.

Dato Mundi and His Tribesmen Fight Zamboango Rebels.

MANILA, Aug. 28, 7:23 p. m.—A report received here from Cebu says: Dato Mundi, with his tribesmen, have taken the war path against the insurgents at Zamboango, and has given them a warm battle. Mundi welcomed General Bates, saying he was anxious to become an American citizen, and asked permission to fight the insurgents. He was given an American flag.

State Game and Forestry Warden Quinby complains of the widespread misapprehension of the state game laws.

The open season for upland birds of all kinds, whether grouse, pheasants, quail or prairie chickens, extends only during the months of October and November. Heretofore the open season began September 15, but at the last session of the state legislature the protection to upland birds was extended half a month longer.

SAD ACCIDENT.

Charles Wiley Accidentally Kills His Youngest Brother.

The 8-year-old son of James Wiley, who resides about one mile out of Salem was killed last Saturday.

It seems the three children were playing in the yard. The eldest one Charles, aged 11; Jesse and Robert aged 4 and 5 respectively, were witnessing the elder brother chop a hole in a stump preparatory to putting in a mock blast, (the children were playing at blasting out stumps) when the little fellow accidentally tripped on one of the roots and fell with his head right under the ax, and the falling blow sunk the ax deep into the little fellow's head. It was a terrible blow to the elder brother who immediately realized what he had done. The parents are grief-stricken and the boy who did the deed is almost beside himself with grief, as his little brother was the idol of the family and especially of the boy who was using the ax. The family have been some what in distressed circumstances, the husband having been ill for some time and has but just got to work. The child only lived a few minutes and died in its mother's arms. His last words were "oh mama." The little fellow raised up and walked towards the house as his mother picked him up after which he lived but a few moments. The child was buried in the Macleay cemetery Monday.

Bryan's Position. Those loyal democrats who have been hoping that Mr. Bryan would relegate the dead and buried free-silver issue to the limbo, in which it belongs can scarcely cling to that hope any more after his plain declaration at Kansas City, Saturday. He said:

"I am not putting silver in the background. I will not. Silver will be placed alongside of other great issues, and given its due share of consideration. I stand by the Chicago democratic platform."

This, and an illustration with which he follows it, indicates that Mr. Bryan will allow much attention to be given to trusts and "imperialism," but there must be no backward step in the democracy's position on free silver at 10 to 1, an "issue" that has practically become obsolete.

Mr. Bryan will dictate the platform, and be the candidate, and its foremost plank will be free silver.

This will possibly prevent the populists from nominating a candidate, though a fraction of them are likely to do so, in addition to the one already in the field. But it will repel all the gold democrats who voted for Palmer or McKinley in 1896, and a host of other democrats who then voted for Bryan, but who won't follow the fading, flickering free-silver issue into the populist swamps any further.

"A stranger named Wm. Robinson was arrested last evening, for robbing the nickel-in-the-slot machines. He has a partner and their method was for one man to play the machine while the other bored a hole in the side of the box with a small gimlet, and tripped the pockets. The deputy prosecuting attorney has refused to prosecute the case on the charge of robbery on the grounds that it would be upholding the machines, which are themselves unlawful. The man will be discharged, or the complaint changed to willful destruction of property.—Warrington, Ore., Tribune.

MISSOURI'S ELECTION.

A Democrat Will Fill Bland's Unexpired Term

SHACKLEFORD, 2000 PLURALITY

Steamer Elder Chartered for an Army Transport. Bryan in California

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 29.—Incomplete returns received tonight from the eighth Missouri district, in which an election was held today to fill the unexpired term in congress of Richard P. Bland, deceased, show that Dorsey P. Shackelford (democrat) has been elected over W. J. Vosboll (republican) by 2000 plurality. Complete returns cannot be had tonight. Bland had a plurality over Vosboll in 1896 or 1897.

St. Louis, Aug. 29.—Incomplete returns from the eighth congressional district received tonight by the Republic and Globe-Democrat indicate that Shackelford has been elected by a plurality exceeding 2000.

PORTLAND, Aug. 30.—The O. R. & N. steamship George W. Elder has been chartered by the United States government for service as an army transport, and will leave tonight for San Francisco, where she will be turned over to the war department.

Tomorrow morning Mr. and Mrs. Bryan and the children will leave over the Rio Grande for California, where a month's stay will be made in the Yosemite valley.

OREGON ROADS.

Our Wagons Should all Have Wide Tires.

The recent rains have once more brought the attention of the public to the wretched condition of Oregon roads, which perhaps are but little worse than the average American roads throughout the country.

With the exception of the roads in a few states, in which a special state highway tax is levied for roadbuilding, among them New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Connecticut, the average American road is not to be compared with the roads in Europe. This has been observed by all Americans who have been abroad.

This difference in the condition of roads leads to the question of cause, and it does not take the intelligent observer long to conclude that the narrow tires in a large measure responsible for the wretched condition of American roads. A leading authority on road construction, in discussing the narrow-tire evil, says: "Next to water, the greatest enemy of good roads—yes, of all roads—is the narrow-tired wagon. Narrow tires and water, acting together, have given our country roads a third dimension. They are not only so many miles long and so many rods wide, but they are deep—so deep, alas, at times that travel over, or rather, through them, is next to impossible."

"A heavily loaded wagon always leaves its tracks on the highway, and the depth of these tracks depends upon the material of which the road is built, the weight of the load, and the width of the tires. The rut formed by the passing wagon forms a trough for the rain, which instead of running off to the side, as it should do, remains to sink into the roadway and soften it. The next wagon finding the ground softer, digs its wheels deeper into the surface, and so the work of demoralization and destruction continues."

"A wide tire, on the other hand instead of forming a rut, will roll and harden the road surface. By the use of wide tires, every loaded wagon can be turned into an effective roadroller and made to improve the roadway instead of helping to destroy it. All that is necessary to make the best road in the world is to make it solid and to give it a hard, smooth surface. Nothing so much tends to accomplish this as the frequent use of road rollers. Wide tires are road rollers, and therefore roadmakers. Narrow tires are roaddestroyers. If wide tires could be adopted for general use, every loaded wagon, which today helps to cut up and destroy country roads, would become an active factor in their improvement."

"Now that the adoption of state aid has solved the financial problem connected with road improvement in the United States, care should be taken that the roads we build are not destroyed by narrow tires."

Country districts receiving financial aid for road purposes out of the state treasury should do all in their power to encourage the use of wide tires. This has been accomplished in some places by exempting all wide-tired vehicles from taxation."

"Now that the adoption of state aid has solved the financial problem connected with road improvement in the United States, care should be taken that the roads we build are not destroyed by narrow tires."

In Weibout Oregon, it would appear, the wide tire is even more of a necessity than in the drier Eastern states.

THE BRITISH PROGRAM.

Will Surround the Transvaal and Negotiate a New Treaty.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The Cape Town correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says: British troops will be immediately concentrated at Laing's Neck and Nankoling, and it is believed that the British program will be to surround the Transvaal and then to negotiate a new convention.

According to the Daily Mail's Cape Town correspondent, the belief is still entertained there that the British government is opposed to extreme measures, and it is reported that President Kruger is so well aware of this that he cautions, countering conditional orders for large meat supplies.

No Further Concessions

CAPE TOWN, Aug. 28.—Replying to the latest proposition of the British secretary of state for the colonies, Chamberlain, the government of the Transvaal has notified him in adherence to the latest offer and will not make further concessions.

Fact Not Fiction.

The democratic party has been beaten in three successive elections on the issues presented in the Chicago platform, chief of which was imperialist delay. It is necessary that the party shall be again defeated in the elections of this year in order that it may abandon the populist and free silver platform and enter the presidential campaign with living issues that promise success. These three defeats have been very costly.

In the campaign of 1896 it was lost, including honor. The presidency, congress, state governments and everything else at stake went to the republicans.

In the state elections of 1897 and 1898 the lesson was repeated and emphasized. As a total result, the democratic party has now, for the first time in its history, only two United States senators from all the north, east and west."

It has lost control of the senate for six years to come. It has no governors left in all the north. Four of the states carried by the faction for Mr. Bryan have been reclaimed and firmly held by the republicans. And Kentucky, the only state regained by the democrats since 1896, little fair to be lost in November. Is not this a history to give pause even to irrational partisans?

Does it require "another good licking" this year in Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Ohio and even in Nebraska, to bring the managers to their senses? If further discipline is required it is probable that the conscience and the courage of honest democratic and independent voters will be found equal to the task of administration it.—New York World.

Harvesting is very late here this season. Lots of grain has not been cut yet owing to the inclement weather. The farmer feels himself in good luck that he hasn't his grain in the shock.

Tom Nickelson of this place is running the engine for Manpin & Freyer's threshing machine, which has been threshing in the vicinity of Calipatria. By the way, this threshing outfit is especially worthy of mention as they do better and faster work according to the number of men used than any we have ever had here. We would advise farmers to patronize them as they have the latest improved machinery which we know from actual facts, is a great saving over the old fashioned machine. REPORTER.
