To all sick and discouraged People in mind, body or estate. No matter what your ailment or how long you have been ailing. Greeting, Health and Peace.

There are thousands of people all over the world who are sick and litterly discouraged because medicine has failed to cure them. They are drawing out lives of torture, having come to the conclusion that there is no hope for them.

But there is hope. There is a positive cure for every form of disease, even those commonly called incurable, as Diabetis, Brights disease, Consumption and Cancer.

That there is an immense power in the mind for the cure of the sick is a truth, which is daily growing stronger to the consciousness of all thinking people. Take for instance "Christian Science." It is more than a fad, it is a rediscovery in part of an old—thousands of years old—ever active and wonderful, but still imperfectly understood Force in Nature.

Still Christian Science has no claim to be called a science (and it may be questioned whether its founder, who is said to have made a million of dollars out of it, has justifiable claims to be a considered consistent follower of the lowly Nazarine) yet it cannot be denied, that Mary Eddy is an Idealist and has found that mind controls matter, and cures are being made, which to all but the initiated, seem almost miraculous.

These cures, perhaps all cures, are effected by changing the vibrations in a patients mind. The presence of a doctor, whom we have been accustomed to trust will often change these vibrations and supplant fear with hope. Hope is allied to the will. The will takes its rise out of hope. As soon as the vibrations are changed from doubt and fear to hope, the will begins to gather force and assert itself. When our treatment, mental and Bio-chemical, strikes squarely into the centres of diseased vibration and the patient begins at once to recover.

I claim to have found the means by which Mental (not Christian) Science coming in to the aid of a mild and rational therapeutics (largely Bio-Chemical or life chemical) can cure the most serious forms of disease either of mind or body. Even those troubles of Organic character, affecting Brain, lungs, heart, stomach, liver, kidneys, or sex organs, and I propose to prove this to the satisfaciion of the afflicted who may call upon me. I will give references and examination. To those who cannot come but who write me, enclosing stamp I'll send free advice. My permanent P. O. address is Box 825, Portland, Oregon. I shall remain for a week possibly ten days at the McClallen House, but come at once if you want to know what ails you, and what you must do to get well.

SEPTEMBER 28, 1899.

It is a notable fact that those the least interested in public school matters always have the most grievances to air. This applies to the Roseburg Review, whose proprietors are not patrons of the school and never were known to even visit the schools.

Will the Roseburg Review now kindly reproduce one of its yellow journal interviews with Admiral Dewey, published some time ago, for comparison with the statements of the admiral, since his return home. A comparison would condemn yellow journalism and copperheadism. As the PLAINDEALER announced heretofore, Admiral Dewey is not an "anti."

The average reader will incline to the idea that big John Bull is imposing on little Oom Paul. The fact is, however, John Bull is only demanding that Englishmen, who have settled in the South African republic, shall be entitled to the right of suffrage under proper conditions. The government of Oom Paul keeps English residents in their territory in perpetual alianship.

"We have no right to enslave the Filipinos," says Mr. Bryan. This is purely Bryanesque. Not only shall we not enslave the Filipinos, but we shall endow them with all the liberty we ourselves possess; which is ten thousand times more liberty than they ever could achieve and maintain for themselves. Bryan is a mere child of rhetoric, and his rhetoric is always the negation of common sense.

The great Dewey has at last returned safely to his native country and true to his characteristic wisdom and good judgement, the dispatches all announce that the admiral gives out no intimation that he favors backing down or withdrawing from the Philippines, as is demanded by the "aunties". This tends to confirm the utter falsity of the yellow journal interviews and is small consolation to the copperhead press. The admiral also has a very poor opinion of Aguinaldo and says he is a mere tool and that his ability and shrewdness has been greatly overestimated. These statements of Dewey and his real position on the Philippine question will no doubt drive to lunacy Atkinson, Bryan and the editor of the Roseburg Review—the last prop has been knocked from under their anti-imperialist argument, and they are left alone in their advocacy of copperheadism.

We wonder what the intelligent and enterprising citizens of that cultured and refined little city of Myrtle Point with its magnificent $14,000 two and one-half story brick public school building and its five modern churches, thinks of the dirty insults and slurs cast at them from time to time by the Roseburg Review in it, contemptible fight against Prof. Traver principal of the Roseburg public school and the school board, wherein the Review has repeatedly insinuated that Myrtle Point, the reputed home of Prof Traver, is the most isolated, back-woods town in the state and is populated with a most inferior and ignorant class of people. The fact of the matter is that Myrtle Point is no more the home of Prof. Traver than it is of the illiterate, pigmy of the Review, he having spent but two years at that place during which time he very creditably and successfully filled the position of principal of the public schools and declined the proffer of the school board to serve a third year in order to accept a like position in this city. Previous to coming to Myrtle Point, Prof. Traver held the position of principal of the public schools at Beaverton, near Portland, three years, and the people of that place still speak in the highest terms of the professor's work. A little correspondence with Dr. K. A. Leep, chairman of the Myrtle Point school board, and by the way, a leading democrat of that city, or any of the business men or citizens of that town, as well as Hon. J. H. Barklow, of Bandon, then the populist county school superintendent, will readily convince the most skeptical, if any there be, that Prof. Traver is a scholar, an up-to-date and eminently successful educator and a perfect gentleman, while on the other hand his assailant, the editor of the Review, is a low, illiterate, despicable creature with the charater of a Filipino—a blackguard by instinct and a prevaricator from choice.

PUBLIC SCHOOL QUESTION.

Some Interesting Facts Concerning Donkey Fisher and His Method and Works—Pertinent Questions Asked.

ROSEBURG, Or., Sept. 27, 1899.

Chas. Fisher, editor of the Review, in his issue of September 25, in an article entitled "About the Public School," comes before the city of Roseburg, and Douglas county and in substance, in a pitiful, whining manner begs the good people of the city and county not to think, as appearance so clearly indicate, that he is a veritable, consummate ass and then immediately in the same article says, "now you good people just listen while I bray," and rearing aloft his head and laying back his ears breaks forth sonorously in such a tremendous effort that it was enough to make his brother jackasses green with envy; and while Charlie's friends look down in shame and mortification the general public holds its sides and roars with laughter at the ridiculous position in which Charlie appears.

A slight reference to the article referred to, which we ask the public to carefully re-read, will fully corroborate and make plain the facts above stated. In the first place Charlie's statement is a paradox, or a flat contradiction. If he does not believe in "bossism" how does it happen that he sets himself up as general dictator and boss of the city of Roseburg? Who put Charley in this position? The people did not do it. Was it not self-imposed? How does Charlie know who were the best teachers in this school? Is he in a better position to make this discovery than the school board or the patrons of the school, or Professor Traver? Is he more intelligent than Mr. Woolley? More wise than Mr. Coshow, or a better business man than Mr. Barker, and more keen sighted than the whole board? Has he more educated brains than Professor Traver? Talk of importing brains from Myrtle Point! Shades of night! Where did Charley come from? Charley, who dictates to this city and tries to run the whole business! He came from over hard-by the coast range of mountains in the red clay hills, which produces nothing but stunted oak grubs, and occasionally such an ignoramus as he.

We are sure he never was far from home until he went to meet the editors and the press association, and then he wished he had never gone. Who made this man dictator to Roseburg? Good people, what do you say?

In the second place the Review tries to quiet the justly insulted and outraged people and school board by insinuating that he is not fighting them, but Traver. But the people know better. The Review cannot fight Traver under the circumstances without fighting the school board, the public school and the city of Roseburg. Besides giving vent to his own spleen, Fisher tries to strike a sympathetic cord in the hearts of the friends of those estimable ladies, Mrs. E. E. Richards, Mrs. O. C. Brown, Miss Madge Stark and Miss Cora Sneil and thereby carry favor for the Review. Now the facts are, that while we do not question the ability, but have everything to say in favor of these ladies whom we know personally to be excellent in qualifications, culture and refinement, yet there was but one of them who made application to be retained in the school for the present year.

In the article in question Fisher refers to E. D. Stratford as "Marster's candidate for one of the directors," that, "Traver expressed the greatest satisfaction over the defeat of Marster's candidate," and "after making a special and successful fight against the editor of the PLAINDEALER behind his back, secures the friendship and support of his paper," etc.

Now we beg leave to inform the public that E. D. Stratford, editor of the PLAINDEALER positively never was anybody's candidate for office in anyway whatever in connection with the schools of Roseburg; that no one ever wanted him to run, unless it was Fisher in the hopes that he might be defeated as Stratford at that time was not a property holder and could not hold the office if elected, and, therefore, had not the slightest intention of being a candidate.

What has Charley Fisher ever done for the city that he should be its dictator and boss? A reference to his work in the past in connection with the Review will be specially interesting as well as conclusive on this point.

One of the earlier pet schemes of this denizen of the back woods was the location of the woollen mills at Roseburg. Well, in what did it result? Immediately following this our effervescent friend became terribly excited over the location of a fruit cannery in our midst, some of his editorials on the subject were simply stupendous. What has become of the cannery? Charlie has been building the Coos Bay railroad for the last ten years. Every few months this erratic editor serenely bobs up and assures the good people that the road is just about completed and the good people may sit down and enjoy themselves. Where is the Coos Bay R. R.?

The last stupendous success—or blunder—of Charlie was the entertainment of the editors for which he has been so soundly abusing the city. We feel that it is nothing more than fair and just to the people of our city that the general public know the facts in the matter. At the solicitation of the friends of the Review, Mr. Fisher was given a prominent place on the committee of entertainment by the chamber of commerce. The city expected Charlie to do something and Charlie expected to do something—carry off all the honors for himself and the Review. After a very slight and imperfect arrangement to give the editors one meal, Charlie hied himself away with joy to ceremoniously conduct these genial people to our city and introduce them to our people, leaving the committee and the people to do the work and pay the bill, and failed to notify them in time to make decent preparations to receive the editors. In addition to this Fisher, by communication informed the committee that he had arranged with the press association for Roseburg to furnish two meals and although the committee remonstrated Fisher, in his dictatorial style insisted that it must be done. Whereupon the committee and people absolutely refused to do any thing. Were the people to blame? No. Was the committee to blame? No.

And still this donkey insists in laying the blame all on the people and seeks, by continually publishing all articles which chance to meet his eye from other sources condemning our city for its lack of hospitality to make us feel what we have lost by not acceeding to his demands.

He has constantly fought through the columns of the Review, most every enterprise that was for the upbuilding of the city and community. The Soldiers' Home from its inception until completed and in full running order was the object of his displeasure. He has viciously attacked the state militia times without number. The S. P. R. R. Co. has been the special object of his scurrilous attacks and now this demagogue, premeditatedly with malice aforethought and without any provocation whatever, except that those in authority will not accede to his silly demands as boss and accept his dictation as to the selection of teachers, has begun an outrageous attack with all the power of his little soul and brain, on the public schools of our city. Is it possible that we have reached the point under all the circumstances above mentioned, where we will allow this Bantam rooster to dictate to us in any way whatever, especially in such grave matters as those which have to do with our city schools. I think not, if so we had better cover our heads with a cloak of shame and emigrate at once.

A CITIZEN.

A Talk With Dewey.

When questioned the other day in New York relative to the Filipinos Admiral Dewey said:

"Do I think the Filipinos are fit for self-government? Well, no; not just now They are a very queer people-a very queer mixture. Many of them are quite civilized and good people, but I do not think they are fit for self-government just yet. But when I say that, I must add at the same time, that it is my candid opinion that they are more fitted for it than the Cubans, that they are a better people than the Cubans in every way. I do wish, however, that the whole business was settled, and I think that after a little the Filipinos will take kindly to us."

It was suggested to the admiral that the democratic slate had been settled with Admiral Dewey for the presidency and General Wheeler for the vice-presidency.

"Well," said the admiral, "we would make a pretty mess of it. General Wheeler, of course, has had some training in the political school, but then he is a West-Pointer. I had forgotten that. He would want to run everything as he would a regiment, and, of course, would make a splendid mess of it. You cannot run a government as you would a regiment."

"Well, admiral," suggested the reporter, "it would not be such a change from the ship Olympia to the ship of state.

"Yes," said the admiral, "it would be a very great change. I am not a politician, I am a sailor. My training has been all that way. I am at home on board my ship. I know my business, or at least should know it, and I do not want to mix up in the affairs of government. I am perfectly satisfied to live and die a simple sailor who tries to do his duty. I am not a politician. I cannot make a speech even. I wish I could but I have to be content with my lot."

Speaking of Aguinaldo the admiral said: "I know him pretty well. In fact, we were great friends, and are for that matter of fact, but he has not the brains. There are people behind him, some of them lawyers and able fellows, who make a tool of Aguinaldo. Here, by the way, is a cane which he presented to me," and the admiral produced a thick black stick, carved, and resembling Irish bog oak more than anything else.

Returned Volunteer—What's an appropriate gift from a soldier to his sweetheart?

Jeweler—I should think a powder box about the right thing.

Democratic Hymn.

Hurrah for Aguinaldo,
That champion stanch and stout,
And may the Yankee army
Be quickly driven out!

Hurrah for Aguinaldo,
A hero of the world,
And may our country's banner
Disgracefully be furled!

Hurrah for Aguinaldo,
And his brave loyal mates,
And may they knock the stuffing
Out of these United States!

Hurrah for Aguinaldo,
That son of liberty!
Let every faithful Bryanite
Hail him with three times three!

Harrah for Aguinaldo,
The new George Washington;
He is the greatest thing on earth,
Except Sixteen to One!

Hurrah for Aguinaldo,
May he find new recruits.
Down with the Yankee army
Of murderers and brutes!

My Last Wail of Woe.

(Please see Review of Sept. 25.)

Dear teachers, pupils, school directors, citizens, Hon. A. C. Marsters, Judge E. D. Stratford, The PLAINDEALER Publishing Co., and every one else in the city of Roseburg:—

My very dearest people.—Allow me, dear people, to whisper to your ear that a scheming monster has, while you were sleeping, forced his way into your midst as the head of the public schools. Dear school board, your eyes are closed, awaken to your danger. Dear school teachers, by all the love I bear you, you are in danger. Little children, study all you can until you are compelled to fly from the presence of the monster to the safe arms of your lovely homes Dear children, I weep as I thing of your cruel fate. Dear Mr. Marsters you thought you were safe, but your fondest hopes have been ruined. Don't you know it? Poor, dear Mr. Stratford, your political career was destroyed by the monster. I moan when I think of your fate. Dear teachers who resigned from the public schools, you did not resign, it was the Great and Terrible that did it. We weep for you all we can. With the mantle of shame upon my fair cheek I weepfully admit that I have been deceived by the Terrible. I thought to hang upon his arm and lie in his shadow for safety. I asked for one poor boon. That was refused. "I had gone up stairs to Mr. Coshow, who seemed to be Traver's choice above all, and urged him to stand for the place, which he consented to do." Dear people, I was a sucker then, I weep over my folly. The "eye that never sleeps" was taken in. Dear people, let us draw very near together unto me. My Eye is now open, and I promise you it shall never again be put to sleep. I want revenge. I must have it. I am furious. Help me to get it. Dear ladies of Roseburg, I am for the interest of the public school, forgive me for taunting you because you did not feed the visiting editors. I should not have done that. That was a big mistake. But it does seem that by working on that fatal Sunday, you could have fed the editors, and the honor of our fair city have been preserved all unto my own credit. Dear school board, I ought to be elected superintendent of the public schools. I have no experience, no papers, no qualifications except that I am a good boss. If I am not elected, I shall appoint myself, because the interests of the school demand an all wise head at this critical time. Dear people, I am lovingly for you, please be for me,

Yours with tears,
CELEBRATED HEROIC FISHER, A. S. S.

At the risk of being sand-bagged by our citizens, we suggest that the school board quietly request Prof. Traver to resign as principal of the Roseburg public schools and then appoint as his successor that learned gentleman Prof. Donkey Fisher formerly of not Myrtle Point, but the red clay hills of the remote Coast Range. He is said to have graduated from the Squaw Gulch "deestrick skule" with high honors, having successfully passed a very difficult examination in which were included the following practical questions:

Who struck Billy Patterson?
Who wrote "After the Ball?"
What is the heaven ordained ratio?
Where was Moses when the light went out?
Will Weary Willie Bryan stump Kentuckey for Goebel?
What was the name of the author of "A Hot Time in the Old Town?"
Define the difference, if any, between a jackass and the editor of the Roseburg Review.
If a hen and a half lays an egg and a half in a day and a half, how many eggs would six hens lay in six days.
Is the person who wrote "The Man With a Hoe," properly speaking, a poet or a hoet, and in what manner does poesy differ from hoesy?

By all means appoint this man, Prof. Donkey Fisher, to succeed Prof. L. R. Traver as principal of the Roseburg public schools.

Was It Consumption?

Doctors are often wrong.

The local doctor is an overworked individual. He hurries from a case of scarletina to a case of diabetes and from that to the amputation of a leg. He must act quickly—sometimes hurriedly. It is not strange that he makes an occasional mistake. But mistakes are dangerous and should be avoided.

Mrs. G. E. Kerr, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, recently had some experience. She says: "Last spring I was taken with severe pains in my chest, and was so weak I could hardly walk about the house. I tried several physicians and they told me I had consumption. Before I had taken the first bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, I was very much better. I took five bottles of it and have not yet had any return of the trouble."

Was it consumption? Probably not.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" has been said to cure consumption. It surely and infallibly cures all bronchial and throat troubles. It strengthens weak lungs and cures lingering coughs. It is a healer and builder of tissue. It cleanses and enriches the blood—regulates the heart action—puts the whole body in tune with nature.

Mrs. Kerr's trouble was probably bronchial. It was painful—dangerous if let run—dangerous in the hands of an incompetent doctor. Don't take a local doctor's word for everything. Write to Dr. Pierce. Tell him your symptoms. For over thirty years he has been chief consulting physician at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. Consultation with him will cost you nothing.
