ROSEBURG NOVELTY CASH STORE,

THE BOHEMIA MINES.

A Road to the Mines Would be a Benefit Both to Roseburg and the Mining District.

As a result of the activity in the Bohemia district, Cottage Grove, which is the present gateway to the mines is doing a lively business, which might easily be shared by Roseburg by the construction of a good road up the North Thompson and Seacombe creek to the mines, a route which is said by old miners, to be the only natural outlet, and one entirely feasible over which a road might be constructed without any great outlay of capital.

The mines in this district have demonstrated their worth, and are now on such a solid footing as to offer safe investments to capital, which is not slow to recognize the fact.—PLAINDEALER.

That's right, Bro. Conner. If Roseburg expects a goodly share of Bohemia trade she should get in and build a good road to the mines and in that manner help to develop the camp. The more good roads built into Bohemia the more interested will become capital.—Cottage Grove Leader.

Married.

BLACK-HARRIS—At the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Black, at Myrtle Point, Or., September 27, 1899, Mr. A. J. Black, of Myrtle Point, and Miss Florence Harris, of Macomb, Ill. Rev. Foster, of the Presbyterian church, officiating.

The bride is a beautiful and highly accomplished young lady who has resided at Myrtle Point during the past year, while the groom is the eldest son of A. H. Black, the Myrtle Point merchant, and has long held the position of book-keeper in his father's store. He is a young man of exemplary character and sterling worth and with his charming bride has a host of admiring friends. The PLAINDEALER joins in extending congratulations and wishes the happy couple a long, prosperous wedded life of unalloyed bliss.

CHRISTIAN-MOORE—At their home, Oct. 2, 1899, by Rev. D. T. Sommeville, elder of Grants Pass district, M. E. church, Rev. Robert Christian to Mrs. S. F. Moore.

These parties are both well known and most highly esteemed in the southern part of the county, where at Myrtle Creek the groom owns a beautiful little acre. He has only recently returned to this county from an extended visit to the Middle West and Scotland. Rev. and Mrs. Christian will make their future home in this city.

The PLAINDEALER extends congratulations and best wishes.

To the Piano and Organ Buyers of Douglas County.

I would like to ask why you prefer to buy from strangers? For the stranger always gets the highest price for his goods, my own experience teaches me that. For when I leave home and go among strangers I sell more goods and get better prices—but this is a part of American policy, the people like to have some slick tongue agent call around and get a high price for his goods. First he will ask a high price, then in order to lead you as ray he will tell you that he will cut the price down rather than ship the goods away.

Remember we can sell you the same goods for less money than you can buy on your own. And why not? For our experience is much less than the traveling man, who very often pays freight back and forth over the road. A traveling man's expenses are always high. And when you buy a piano or organ from that source it is plain to be seen that you are the one that pays the extra expense, and every dollar of your money is taken out of your own county.

ROSEBURG NOVELTY CASH STORE,

MURDER AT GOLD BEACH.

An Aged Lady Killed for Her Money and Her Remains Burned.

Mrs. Edson, better known to the pioneers of the coast as Mrs. Christiane Giesel, an old lady residing at Gold Beach, was the victim of a foul murder at Gold Beach September 19.

Mrs. Edson, who lived alone, possessed a neat, comfortable home at Gold Beach and was known to have considerable money. Early Tuesday morning it was discovered that her house had been destroyed by fire. An investigation followed and the charred skeleton of the old lady was found on the springs of the bed in her room.

It is the supposition that the assassin or assassins, had been secreted in the house on the previous evening, or entered in some quiet manner during the night, and killed her by some means, whether while she was asleep or whether there was a struggle is not known. The murderer then secured what money there was in the house, brought a can of coal oil into the bedroom, poured it over the victim and started the fire.

In speaking of the deceased the Port Orford Tribune says: "Mrs. Edson was quite aged and a highly respected early pioneer resident of Rogue river. On the 22nd of February, 1856, her husband, John Giesel, and her three sons were murdered at their home a few miles north of the mouth of Rogue river in the presence of Indians, the house being set on fire and the bodies of her loved ones being consumed with the house, while herself and two little daughters, one an infant, were made captives. And now after forty three years of mourning for her dead, always faithful in attending and watching over their last resting place, and seeing that their graves were kept green, she meets an identical fate equally as savage and fiendish as that of which she was a helpless spectator so many years ago."—Myrtle Point Enterprise.

A description of the supposed murderer was furnished the officers at Roseburg Saturday, which information was telegraphed north and south. On receiving this description at Cottage Grove, Constable Warren McFarland in less than fifteen minutes thereafter apprehended and arrested the party wanted, who was making his way north on horseback as possible. His name is S. C. Gillespie and with other relatives he has resided in Curry county for some time past, where he bears an unenviable reputation.

Constable McFarland delivered his prisoner to this city Saturday night, where he was met by Sheriff Jesse Turner and Deputy Alf Miller, of Curry county who took the prisoner in charge and will soon return with him to Gold Beach. It is said that circumstantial evidence is strong against Gillespie and some anxiety is entertained by the officers lest he be lynched on their return to the scene of the horrible crime.

A reward of $100 is offered for the arrest and conviction of the murderer, which in case Gillespie is convicted, will be rewarded to Constable McFarland.

Strayed from Rose's pastures on September 20th, one black 1 bred Jersey cow, described as follows: Black, nearly all over, a little red or brown along the back, short straight horns, low, heavy set, 4 years old.
