

THE PLAIN DEALER.

PUBLISHED SEMI-WEEKLY.

ROSEBURG, OREGON, MONDAY, JANUARY 29, 1900.

No. 8.

Job Printing
NOTE HEADS, LETTER HEADS, BILL HEADS, ENVELOPES, ETC.
Executed on short notice at prices consistent with good work.

ROBERTS SENT HOME

House Voted Not to Admit the Utah Polygamist.

MAJORITY RESOLUTION CARRIED

Closing Day of the Debate—Votes on the Two Propositions—Result Received With Cheers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The case of Brigham H. Roberts, the Mormon representative-elect from Utah, which has occupied so much of the attention of the house since the assembling of congress, was decided today by the adoption of a resolution to exclude him by a vote of 268 to 50. The exact language of the resolution was as follows:

"That under the facts and circumstances of the case, Brigham H. Roberts, representative-elect from the state of Utah, ought not to have or hold a seat in the house of representatives, and that the seat to which he was elected is hereby declared vacant."

The amendment to expel Roberts with out seating him, offered by Lacey, was ruled out on a point of order, and the house only voted on the resolution of the majority and minority of the committee. The latter—to seat and then expel Roberts—was defeated, 51 to 244. An analysis of the vote shows that 170 republicans, 72 democrats and two populists voted against it, and 71 democrats, six republicans, two populists and two silver republicans for it.

The affirmative vote on the majority resolution—to exclude Roberts and declare the seat vacant—was divided as follows:

Republicans, 168; democrats, 90; populists, 4. The negative vote: Democrats, 47; silver republicans, 2; populists, 1. There were over a score of speakers today, and the closing speeches on each side were particularly able. Lanham of Texas closed for the majority, and De Armond of Missouri for the minority.

Roberts was present throughout the day, and left the hall after the result of the last vote had been announced. As he did so, he gave out a statement justifying his retention of his plural wives, on the ground that his moral obligation was more binding upon his conscience than technical obedience to statutory laws, and saying that there was little excuse for the extraordinary efforts to crush a system already abandoned and practically dead. He said he was a martyr to a "spasm of jealousy." He would not, he said, attempt to run for congress again, although he would go back home with a light heart confident of the future.

PHILIPPINE WAR AT AN END

Further Trouble Can Be Obviated by Immediate Action of Congress.

New York, Jan. 26.—A dispatch to the Herald from Manila says: The war in the Philippines is over. No further surrender can be hoped for. The danger in the present situation is that a bloody feud may arise between the American army and the Filipinos. This danger can be greatly lessened by action of congress, which is now imperative, outlining the policy of the government in the Philippines.

It is likely that many insurgents are still holding out for the very terms which congress will be willing to give. The time is ripe for a conciliatory policy, allowing the Filipinos to have some say as to the nature of the government under which they will be obliged to live.

THE MODERN MAN

Has a New and More Effective Cure for Constipation and All Liver Troubles.

The modern man's most effective cure for constipation and all liver troubles is the famous little pills as DeWitt's Little Early Risers.

A. C. Marsters & Co.

JOSEPHINE COUNTY NAMED.

Tallest Man in the State Tells the Story—Named for Josephine Rawlins.

R. M. Hutchinson, of Oakland, Or., is beyond doubt the tallest man in Oregon, and with out one exception, in the Northwest. The only man who can look down on him in this part of the country is his son, who is chief of police of Ritzville, Wash. The father stands six feet eight inches and the son seven feet.

The senior Hutchinson came to Oregon from Iowa in 1852, and what he doesn't know about early days in Southern Oregon isn't worth knowing. He mined in that country when the warship of the red man could be heard on every hill, and when miners had to prospect in companies and carry a gun along with the pick and shovel.

He was one of the first white men to enter the Josephine county diggings, and tells an interesting story of that trip.

"We first camped awhile on Rogue river," said he this morning, while telling of his early day experiences, at the St. Charles. "From there we went to what we afterwards named the Illinois river, and soon found our way to the Josephine diggings, which afterwards became famous."

"Do you know how Josephine county got its name? Well, I can tell you. On the trip I speak of there was a man from Missouri with us, whose name was Rawlins. For some reason his wife had deserted him in Missouri, leaving him and his 12-year-old daughter alone. The old man to escape the shame and forget his troubles came across the plains in search of gold. He brought his little girl; her name was Josephine, and she was with him when we went to the gold fields. Being the only female in the party, we named the mines Josephine in her honor. The county afterward took the name from the diggings."

"Josephine was a bright little girl and was a sort of pet with all the rough miners. I don't know where she is now. She married and went over into California. But no matter where she is, Josephine county is her namesake."

"Well, those were digging days. Most of us tried to get an ounce a day, and usually succeeded. As winter came on, however, some of the crowd wanted to get out, so we all had to go, as there were too many Indians around or to permit of our company being reduced."

Mr. Hutchinson is now 81 years old, yet he is strong and active. He declares he can ride a horse and herd sheep along with the best of them, and doesn't ask for the safest place because of his age.

He and his boys are said to be excellent horseback riders. No backing horse has ever had the honor to put any of the three in the dust.

At the Spokane fair a few years ago, a number of wild ponies were turned in a lot and a prize of $50 offered the man who would ride one of them. There were a number of entries and a big crowd to see the performance. One of the Hutchinson boys heard of the offer, and concluded to try for it. He arrived on the fair grounds just before the performance began and asked to be allowed to enter the contest. The judges looked at the long, slender fellow and remarked that he had more the appearance of a walker than a rider. He assured them that he was not a hobo, but a herder and miter, and was allowed to enter the contest.

It did not take him long to catch his pony, and when once on its back the prize was his. He simply locked his long legs underneath the bucking animal, and sat there as if grown to the horse's back.—Telegram.

SMALL VOTE IN LEGISLATURE

Some of Those Who Are Supporting Him Likely to Become Candidates

The Oregonian in its issue of the 24th sums up the senatorial situation as follows:

The chief prize in Oregon politics is the United States senatorship, and it is about this office, as usual, that talk and plans of the coming campaign are centering. Senator McBride's term is about to expire, and the question is whether he can win his re-election. The apparent answer to this question at present is in the negative. The senator's friends do not manifest the confidence they once did in his ability to succeed himself, and they begin to think his only show is the proverbial "unforeseen." While it was the unforeseen that elected him in 1895, it is not believed that he can make two winnings with the same trump.

United States senators seeking re-election always aim to be as strong as possible among the holdover senators, and to make the holdover the nucleus of their forces. The more holdovers the better. Senator McBride goes into the fight with the votes of five of the 12 republican holdover senators practically assured to him. These senators are Adams and Looney, of Marion; Kuykendall, of Lane; Foster, of Clackamas and Multnomah, and Fulton, of Clatsop. McBride's friends openly assert that they have the support of Brownell, of Clackamas, and Probstel, of Umatilla. It is hard to see on what they base their claim to Brownell. The Clackamas senator does not hesitate to say that he is working in harmony with leaders of the party who are opposing McBride's candidacy. Besides, he is a candidate for the congressional nomination of the first district against McBride's political ally, Representative Tongue. Senator Probstel has not definitely committed himself, but persons who know him well say he is by no means a McBride man. He is a man of independent opinions and would not let any one control him. He has large business interests in Eastern Oregon, is deeply interested in the development of that section of country, and it is not likely that he will vote to return to the senate the man who has hardly lifted a finger in behalf of Eastern Oregon.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

SENATORIAL SITUATION.

McBride Has But Little Show of Re-Election.

and it in such a knowing way that many were led to believe that, but for McBride, Simon could not have been chosen. Others who, at that time, affected to believe that McBride had helped Simon, recalled that the night McBride was elected, Senator Simon, who was president of the joint convention, introduced the senator-elect as "my warm personal friend, George W. McBride." After his election to the senate in 1895, Senator Simon put reports of a combination to sleep by saying he had plucked victory on his own merits. This was as much as saying that he was under no obligations to Senator McBride, and was so interpreted by Simon's friends.

If Simon and McBride have made a deal, the question is, What is the consideration that passes between politicians of high repute? If Simon gives McBride support in 1901, how many votes can McBride assure Simon for 1903? This may be summed up in one little figure—the votes of the senators whom McBride may elect this year and who will hold over until 1903. Can Senator Simon incur the odium of a deal with McBride for four lonely votes? Not if he knows as much about politics as he did in 1895. However, four votes are not to be despised. One would have elected Senator Dolph in 1895, and one would have saved Senator Mitchell in 1897. Senator Simon is probably shrewd enough to realize that he is tempted by any bait that McBride may offer him. He knows the feeling throughout Oregon to Senator McBride, and the hostility to him, and he will not endanger his own ascendancy in the pursuit of a chimera.

McBRIDE A WEAK MAN.

The opposition to McBride is not based upon personal grounds. The senator is a pleasant, affable gentleman, but he is weak. It is well enough for the oldest states to send affable, genial fellows like Dr. Depece to the senate, but young and growing states like Oregon need strong men in the upper branch of congress. This need is more strongly emphasized now than at any time in the state's history. Oregon has passed the pastoral stage of its existence, and is entering upon an era of industrial and commercial development. Every section of the state is imbued with the spirit of progress. There is not a person in Oregon who does not look forward to increased trade with the Orient, with Alaska and with other Pacific states. Everybody wants the Nicaragua canal, a 30-foot channel to Astoria, a 40-foot channel at the mouth of the Columbia, an open river and many other things. These are problems for statesmen.

CANDIDATES FOR SENATOR.

Those prominently mentioned as possible successors of Senator McBride are: Ex United States Senator H. W. Corbett, State Senator C. W. Fulton, of Astoria; Bingor Hermann, commissioner of the general land office, and ex-Senator Mitchell. Senator Corbett has the largest following, and is everywhere regarded as the lead, but it has not been decided whether he will enter the contest. Senator Corbett knows Oregon from the Columbia river to the northern boundary and from the ocean to the Idaho line. There is not a section of the state nor an industry with which he is not intimately and technically acquainted. He has always been a staunch supporter of projects to improve the Columbia river. He was an original advocate of the gold standard. He would give Oregon a standing in the senate such as it has not had for several years.

Fulton, Hermann and Mitchell ostensibly favor McBride's re-election, and each realizes McBride's weakness, and would not object to standing for the senatorship. Senator Mitchell told a friend in Eastern Oregon recently that he was out of politics for good, and would devote himself to his law practice. Some of Senator Simon's friends say Mitchell is the strongest man in the McBride group, while others say Fulton is. They who guess Mitchell say he is the only one in the group who can hold McBride's strength in the legislature of 1901 will not, as has been shown, be a rich legacy to bequeath to any one.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

SENATORIAL SITUATION.

McBride Has But Little Show of Re-Election.

and it in such a knowing way that many were led to believe that, but for McBride, Simon could not have been chosen. Others who, at that time, affected to believe that McBride had helped Simon, recalled that the night McBride was elected, Senator Simon, who was president of the joint convention, introduced the senator-elect as "my warm personal friend, George W. McBride." After his election to the senate in 1895, Senator Simon put reports of a combination to sleep by saying he had plucked victory on his own merits. This was as much as saying that he was under no obligations to Senator McBride, and was so interpreted by Simon's friends.

If Simon and McBride have made a deal, the question is, What is the consideration that passes between politicians of high repute? If Simon gives McBride support in 1901, how many votes can McBride assure Simon for 1903? This may be summed up in one little figure—the votes of the senators whom McBride may elect this year and who will hold over until 1903. Can Senator Simon incur the odium of a deal with McBride for four lonely votes? Not if he knows as much about politics as he did in 1895. However, four votes are not to be despised. One would have elected Senator Dolph in 1895, and one would have saved Senator Mitchell in 1897. Senator Simon is probably shrewd enough to realize that he is tempted by any bait that McBride may offer him. He knows the feeling throughout Oregon to Senator McBride, and the hostility to him, and he will not endanger his own ascendancy in the pursuit of a chimera.

McBRIDE A WEAK MAN.

The opposition to McBride is not based upon personal grounds. The senator is a pleasant, affable gentleman, but he is weak. It is well enough for the oldest states to send affable, genial fellows like Dr. Depece to the senate, but young and growing states like Oregon need strong men in the upper branch of congress. This need is more strongly emphasized now than at any time in the state's history. Oregon has passed the pastoral stage of its existence, and is entering upon an era of industrial and commercial development. Every section of the state is imbued with the spirit of progress. There is not a person in Oregon who does not look forward to increased trade with the Orient, with Alaska and with other Pacific states. Everybody wants the Nicaragua canal, a 30-foot channel to Astoria, a 40-foot channel at the mouth of the Columbia, an open river and many other things. These are problems for statesmen.

CANDIDATES FOR SENATOR.

Those prominently mentioned as possible successors of Senator McBride are: Ex United States Senator H. W. Corbett, State Senator C. W. Fulton, of Astoria; Bingor Hermann, commissioner of the general land office, and ex-Senator Mitchell. Senator Corbett has the largest following, and is everywhere regarded as the lead, but it has not been decided whether he will enter the contest. Senator Corbett knows Oregon from the Columbia river to the northern boundary and from the ocean to the Idaho line. There is not a section of the state nor an industry with which he is not intimately and technically acquainted. He has always been a staunch supporter of projects to improve the Columbia river. He was an original advocate of the gold standard. He would give Oregon a standing in the senate such as it has not had for several years.

Fulton, Hermann and Mitchell ostensibly favor McBride's re-election, and each realizes McBride's weakness, and would not object to standing for the senatorship. Senator Mitchell told a friend in Eastern Oregon recently that he was out of politics for good, and would devote himself to his law practice. Some of Senator Simon's friends say Mitchell is the strongest man in the McBride group, while others say Fulton is. They who guess Mitchell say he is the only one in the group who can hold McBride's strength in the legislature of 1901 will not, as has been shown, be a rich legacy to bequeath to any one.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

RECONSIDERED THE CANAL BILL.

House Committee Takes it up Again and Changes Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today reconsidered the Nicaragua canal bill, which had been reported with an appropriation of $140,000,000, and changed the appropriation section so as to contract for the entire excavation and completion of the canal at a total cost not exceeding $140,000,000.

J.F. BARKER & CO.

GROCERIES, Snow Flake, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE, MITCHELL WAGONS, J. I. CASE PLOWS.

Flake Oats. Snow Flake. CROCKERY, GLASSWARE. MITCHELL WAGONS, J. I. CASE PLOWS.

SHOE STYLE SHOE COMFORT.

Can be combined in the same pair of Shoes, if correctly fitted. We are prepared to show the most complete line of Shoes ever shown in our store, having succeeded in reaching the best and largest Shoe Factories in the east. We should like to have a chance to make you acquainted with our stock and prices as we feel assured that both will please you.

WOLLENBERG BROS.

A careful analysis of our Drugs and Chemicals will prove them to be of Full Standard Strength and Purity. Our Stock is unexcelled in Quality and Medicines are absolutely reliable.

Purity, Reliability, Accuracy.

A. C. MARSTERS & CO. Druggists.

SEIRECORC....

Name it? Why, spell it backwards and you have it. Nice fresh stock of Staple and Fancy GROCERIES constantly on hand. Fine Teas and Coffees a specialty. Canned goods, Flour and Feed. Fine fresh goods at reasonable prices. Give me a trial order.

MRS. A. C. KIDD.

Staple and Fancy Groceries. We have a complete line of FRESH GROCERIES, TABLE DELICACIES, TOBACCO AND CIGARS, CONFECTIONERIES, FRESH AND TROPICAL FRUITS, VEGETABLES, ETC., which will please you in both quality and Price. Give us a Call. KRUSE & SHAMBROOK.

Actions of the Just Smell Sweet.

The fragrance of life is vigor and strength, neither of which can be found in a person whose blood is impure, and whose every breath speaks of internal troubles. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies, vitalizes and enriches the blood, gives a good appetite and makes the weak strong.

Run Down—My husband was run down in health and all tired out. Those excellent medicines, Hood's Pills and Sarsaparilla, built him up again." Mrs. H. L. Moore, Toronto, Pa.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Never Disappoints.

Hood's Pills cure liver ills; the non-drowsing and only cathartic to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The young man laughed off all suggestions that McBride had helped Simon

A Complete line of GENERAL MERCHANDISE

now on hand. DRY GOODS. Ladies Dress Goods, Ribbons, Trimmings, Laces, Etc., Etc.

Also a fine line of BOOTS AND SHOES of the best quality and latest style. Staple and Fancy GROCERIES.

ood, Willow and Glassware, Crockery, Corgage, Etc, also on hand and at prices to suit the times.

An up-to-date line of CUSTOM-MADE CLOTHING.

H. C. STANTON.

EAST AND SOUTH

THE SHASTA ROUTE

Southern Pacific Co.

Express trains leave Portland daily.

7:30 P. M. Lv. Portland	Ar. 9:15 P.
-------------------------	-------------