

THANKS HIS FRIENDS,

George C. Brownell Bows to the Will of the Majority.

Hon. Geo. W. Brownell, who was a prominent candidate for congress before the McMinnville convention, publishes in the Oregon City Enterprise the following letter, which shows his loyalty to the party and his readiness to abide by the will of the majority:

"To my friends in Clackamas county:

"It is impossible for me to personally meet every one of you who stood by me in the primary and in our county convention, and assisted me in my desire to obtain the congressional nomination, and personally thank you and express to you my great gratitude for your friendship and help. I take this public way of reaching you all and expressing to you, and each of you, my heartfelt thanks for your loyal support. No man ever had truer or more loyal friends than you have shown yourselves to be to me, and I will always treasure up in memory this happy manifestation of it as long as life shall last.

At the congressional convention at McMinnville the 15 delegates from this county did all in their power for me, and were true and loyal to my candidacy to a man, they were in all ways faithful and true, and I thank them. The convention decreed that Hon. Thos. H. Tongue should carry the standard of our party to victory in this campaign. We are republican soldiers—we are private—we are not skulker or stragglers, we bow to the will of the majority—therefore let us follow our leader and our general, and crown the republican standard which he is to carry, with victory on the 4th day of June, 1900.

Our enemies would be pleased to have us skulk and betray our leader and our party. Let us disappoint them. The republican party is greater than anyone man. I ask every personal and political friend of mine to make the same effort, if anything, a greater effort to secure Mr. Tongue's election than you would have done if I had been the nominee. Let it be said for all time that when we go into a republican convention, and the majority decide against us, that we are big enough and true enough to come out of it republicans and not traitors to our party or to the victor. I ask you to join with me and our other friends in giving Mr. Tongue, and through him, our party such a loyal support that on the evening of June 4, 1900, we will redound to the lasting honor of ourselves and our county.

Again thanking you, I am,
Sincerely yours,
Geo. C. Brownell.

To Cut Oregon in Two.

"In a few years, a very few years, Oregon will no longer be the large state it now is, but will be divided, as was Dakota," said a man from Eastern Oregon. It is not because the present territory is too large for a single state government, but for entirely various other reasons.

"Two distinct classes of people compose Oregon's population, and their ideas and environment are entirely dissimilar. It is this diversity of interests and opinions that will result in a new state being carved out of historic Oregon.

"When the state is cut up the dividing line will run along the mountains. The Eastern Oregon people will demand a separate state, and will receive it. The Coast and Willamette Valley will comprise the other.

"Even now there is a strong feeling in Eastern Oregon in favor of a separate statehood. At the last session of the legislature Representative Fred Stanley, of LaGrande, made the proposition, but it was regarded more in the light of a joke than otherwise. Ere long people will discover that there is no joke about it, and I am informed that at the next session of the legislature a bill will be introduced as a sort of 'feeler.'

"In Eastern Oregon, the people are more of hustling kind than in the Willamette Valley. They are hard workers, and have reclaimed large sections of the sagebrush, covered land and made it blossom like the traditional rose. They are an enterprising lot, and are proud of their neck of the woods. In the Willamette valley the soil is more productive, or rather it yields large crops with comparatively no labor. An easy-going, un-energetic set of farmers, whose crops raise themselves, do not have to get out and work.

So you see there are two distinct classes of people in Oregon, particularly in Eastern Oregon, and it would give twice as many hands around as there are at present. About the only objection to the plan is that I know of is that there may be some people in Eastern Oregon who would be organized as a separate state. Telegram.

THOS. KAY'S WILL.

Executors Are Named Who Will Continue to Operate the Woolen Mills.

By a will made April 9, the late Thomas Kay, founder of the Salem Woolen Mills, disposes of his property. He directs that just debts and funeral expenses be paid first and then directs distribution as follows:

To his son, Thomas B. Kay, two notes given by him to deceased for $2500, but he shall pay all interest and $100 on principal.

To his daughter Fannie Bishop, note for $2500 given by C. P. Bishop, on same terms.

To his daughter Libbie Coshaw. Notes of O. P. Coshaw, Jr., for $1200, on payment of interest.

To Sarah Lenora Kay, note made by her to deceased for $2400, on payment of interest.

To Bertha L. Kay, same kind of note, same interest.

To his wife, Anna Kay, all the rest of his property, to have and to hold for her natural life, and then to be divided equally between his children above named.

Thos. B. Kay and Fannie Bishop are named as executors.

The will is witnessed by G. E. P. Coshaw and J. K. Weatherford.

The petition sets forth the above named as heirs and estimates value of property at $30,000.

The will was admitted to probate Monday before Judge Terrell, Attorney O. P. Coshaw, of Roseburg, acting as legal adviser. The will was published in the presence of Thos. B. Kay, C. P. Bishop and R. H. Coshaw. Suitable bonds were given.

The Woolen Mills started up Monday and will be operated by the executors.

The Jackson county democratic convention was held last Saturday at Jacksonville. The fusion populists were invited to fuse, and a little concession was made by giving them the commissioner and one of the representatives, but this not being satisfactory they will have a mass convention and probably present a ticket.

A Mother's Plain Words

"I suppose you will be astonished when I tell you that six years ago I was in a most dangerous condition with bronchitis and lung trouble, because you can see how well and strong I am now. The attack at that time caused terrible pain in my chest and lungs. I could hardly move, and to stoop caused intense suffering. Someone advised Ackler's English Remedy, and I thought I would try it, although I confess that down in my heart I had little faith in it. The first bottle gave great relief, and the second bottle made me the healthy woman I am today. My husband's lungs are weak also, and he cured himself with the same grand old remedy. Our boy and girl have both been saved by it from death by croup. I know this is so, for when they were attacked in the night I had a bottle in the closet, and by acting quickly that fatal malady was easily overcome. We always give it to the children when they have a cough or cold, and we would not be without it for anything. My sister will tell you also, if you ask her, that it is a medicine that can always be depended upon for all the troubles of the breathing organs. I tell all our neighbors about Ackler's English Remedy whenever I get a chance, and there are plenty of people around Mechanicsville, N. Y., where I live, who would no more think of going to bed at night without a bottle of it in the house than they would of leaving their doors wide open. As I look at it, parents are criminally responsible when they allow their children to die under their very eyes with croup, because here is a certain remedy that will conquer the terrible monster every time."

(Signed) Mrs. FLOYD FOWLER.
