

ANOTHER BRAND OF DEMOCRACY

The Democratic San Francisco Examiner is out with the following "Platform of National Policy" at its mast head, which, without a single exception, is in harmony with the policy of the administration, here it is:

"American expansion as opposed to imperial exploitation. Every possession over which our flag flies, to be an integral part of our Union, and governed according to American precedents and American principles.

Dig the Nicaragua canal (the bill for this purpose has been passed by congress) By a waterway bring our eastern and western coasts into free communication, our naval strength will be doubled and our commercial difficulties halved.

Annex Hawaii (accomplished). With the command of the Pacific we have opened the door from the far west to the far east.

A mighty navy (in progress). With the command of the sea, no foreign force can cross it to attack us.

Strategic bases in the West Indies (accomplished). National defense carried out to sea and our coasts relieved of danger.

Great national universities at West Point and Annapolis (in progress.) Trained officers for the reserves, creating an efficient citizen force for war. No huge and undemocratic standing army in time of peace."

The Willamette.

Once more beside the golden waters, Sweet river fair and bright, Where day declining fondly loiters I long to be tonight. I love to see thy waters flashing, At sunset bright and clear, I love to hear thy solemn dashing Resounding far and near. Memory of the mountains hoary, From whence thy waters flow, Around me bring the light and glory Of days of long ago. When I listened with sweet pleasure To the music of thy song, And thy stream in hours of leisure, Taught me lessons deep and long. Among the hills that often hide thee, In thy banks so green and gay, Long years ago I passed beside thee Many happy hours away. Oft in my dreams I see before Thy currents gently glide, A nameless longing oft comes o'er me To linger by thy side. Sweet river to thee I have listened, At midnight's solemn hour, Oft have I watched thy waters glisten In moonlight calm and pure. And tarried by thy wavelets merry Where danced the myriad stars, Till o'er the mountains high and airy, Shone morning's crimson bars. Reflecting ekes above thee glowing With the rosy light of dawn In fancy I can see thee flowing In lovely grandeur on. Willamette, though mine eyes may never Behold thy stream again, Yet thy mem'ry shall forever Within my heart remain. ALDON HARNES, Roseburg, Oregon.
