NOVEMBER 21, 1901.
Nebraska is republican for keeps, but we trust that will not cause her to lose one of her most widely advertised sons.

Senator Warren predicts that Wyoming will soon take rank with the greatest oil-producing States, and he isn't a "gusher."

The Prussian Minister of Commerce and Industry attributes the present industrial depression in Germany to undertaking too much.

Mr. Gorman succeeded so well in stealing the State of Maryland that he is laying plans to burglarize the democratic Presidential nomination.

In recognizing the fact that the U. S. is today the world's greatest power the German government shows an ability to recognize facts that is rarely found in a government.

A New York Democratic organ of standing says that its party has not recognized and trusted National leader. The election returns from N.braska echo the statement.

The man who wants to swap off our present blessed prosperity for a job of democratic wreckage and frazzled-edged foolery could eat a pole cat and never make a crooked face.—EX.

The Plaindealer solicits correspondence and discussions on all public matters, but owing to the crowded condition of our columns we must insist that such articles be brief and to the point.

"Our friends, the enemy" would do well to save their ammunition for the real thing instead of wasting it upon what they imagine President Roosevelt will say in his first message to Congress.

Public opinion strongly favors the establishment of the Department of Commerce as an executive branch of the Federal government and the present Congress will doubtless provide for it.

President Roosevelt favors Chinese exclusion under laws more stringent than the Geary act. Good for Roosevelt. His position on this question makes him solid with the people of the Pacific Coast.

M. L. Izor, editor of the Durand, (Mich.) Express has been cited for contempt of court for having the temerity to criticize the circuit court for a decision rendered. This doctrine that a court is above criticism—fair and candid criticism—is becoming altogether too general. It is time that newspaper men combine to annihilate it. When the time comes that courts are above just criticism the liberty of speech and of the press will be an anachronism.

etc., it is a deplorable fact that there has not been enough money provided by the state to finish and furnish the new barracks building which has recently been enclosed and neatly painted on the outside, hence it will remain of no service to the House or state for at least two years or until a small appropriation is made for the purpose of completing this much needed addition to the Oregon Soldiers' Home.

Persons are in readiness to bring suit against a certain Portland woman, who has written over twenty letters to different married women of that place, informing them of misbehavior of their husbands when the latter have played "the gallant" with other women, during their absences at the sea-shore or in the mountains. An effort will be made to punish her under a statute that makes the penalty imprisonment at the pleasure of the court.

The Washington Star after reviewing some of the great work Bookers Washington has done for the negro and his cause in an editorial, says in part: "Of what benefit to Booker Washington and his work is this empty, and arduous round of requests and parlor functions? Wherein does it profit him or the cause he has at heart that he figures in Hartford or Boston drawing rooms, sits at luxurious tables—even that of President Roosevelt himself—and gives his time to what we call 'society'?" These people really see nothing more in him than a caprice. They are merely putting him on exhibition, glorifying themselves by a patronage of one who is worth more to civilization and humanity than any dozen of them. He will attract his little hour on the fiscal stage and be cast away when the tide fancy shall have run its course.

A well known and highly respected citizen of Portland and his kitchen a basket containing some ribs of a fine buck deer, knowing that it was against the law to have venison in one's possession he hid it until next morning and then ate it to get rid of it. On investigation it was found that a friend which "bear" hunting had found a fine buck in the woods blessing to death and shot it to put it out of misery. Then to keep the meat from spoiling, he distributed it among his friends on the fly. Less than a year ago Roseburg had a case of this kind where some respected citizens had to eat venison to get it out of their possession. Fanny isn't it?

RAMBLER.
DOUGLAS COUNTY BANK.
New Stockholders Organize and Elect Officers.
Hon. R. A. Booth and the new stockholders of the Douglas County Bank, held their first meeting in the law office of F. W. Benson in this city this morning, effected organization and elected officers as follows:

DIRECTORS.
R. A. Booth, Eugene; A. C. Marston, Roseburg; J. F. Tullis, Grants Pass; K. L. Miller, Roseburg; J. F. Kelly, Eugene; J. T. Bridges, Roseburg; F. W. Benson, Roseburg.
President, R. A. Booth, of Eugene; Vice President, A. C. Marston, of Roseburg; Cashier, J. P. Marshall, of Astoria; Corporation Secretary, F. W. Benson, of Roseburg.

The capital stock is stated at $50,000 and is all subscribed, the stockholders, besides the above mentioned parties comprising many of the most substantial citizens of Lane, Josephine and Douglas counties. It was the intention of the new management to assume charge of the Douglas County Bank on about Jan. 1, 1902, but owing to the ill health of the present proprietor or president, O. F. Godfrey, the new management will assume charge of the bank Dec. 1, 1901. All the officers of the new banking firm are too well known to need any introduction through our columns. They are substantial and thoroughly practical business men and will not doubt increase the popularity and business of it already well known and popular financial institution.

Douglas County Poultry Show.
The Douglas County Poultry Association has been holding several meetings recently, making preliminary arrangements for their second annual exhibition. The coming poultry show will be held in Roseburg on Dec. 27 and 28, 1901. The exact location is not yet known but negotiations for Slocum's hall are now in progress. The members of the association are enthusiastic and expect to make considerable improvement over the fine exhibition of last year. The preliminary list and formal announcement will be out about Dec. 1st. W. W. B. Owens, of Oquendo, Utah, who is recognized as one of the leading poultry experts of the Pacific Northwest, will again be on hand to judge the exhibit. He will also judge the exhibit at Eugene on Dec. 19, 20 and 21.

Gardiner and Scottsburg Notes.
O. Hacker of Scottsburg, spending a few days in the White City.
"Uncle" Job Hatfield, one of the pioneer residents of Scottsburg, spent a few days at Gardiner last week.
Henry Luckinger, one of the prosperous farmers in the vicinity of Scottsburg, was visiting in Gardiner Monday.
Miss Lucy Grubbe was a passenger on Thursday's stage and went to Roseburg the same evening to spend a few days.
The Gardiner Hotel has changed hands in the new proprietors, Perkins Bros., are renovating the building and fixing it up in first-class shape.
The Scottsburg Hotel has been newly painted, and presents a very clean and neat appearance. Landlord Major thoroughly understands the hotel business, and always keeps his table supplied with the best market affords.

The Gardiner Mills are now running right along without a hitch. This is certainly one of the best equipped and thoroughly up-to-date mills on the coast, and the company employ only first class men to take charge of their machinery.
The Gardiner school is progressing nicely, with Miss Maximilla Nicholas as principal, and Miss Eunice Stewart, assistant. Both are young ladies of experience and ability and are giving good satisfaction among the patrons of the school.
The members of the Young Men's Social Club gave the first social of the season to their lady friends Saturday evening Nov. 9, at their hall in Gardiner. The evening was very enjoyably spent with social games and light refreshments and the ladies all voted it a complete success.

W. P. Reed is running his creamery only every other day now, but turns out a fine grade of butter and cheese. The steamer Unquaga, which is still run by the general Capt. Earl and Engineer Lawhorn, makes the run up Smith river every other day.
Mrs. M. Sherrett, of Scottsburg, accompanied by her niece, Miss Grace Ricker, of Gardiner, last week for Clackamas, to spend the winter, the former's husband having bought farm property near that place. Mr. Sherrett is a man at the Gardiner Mill Co.'s logging camp near Scottsburg.

Capt. Jones, of the tug Hunter, recently invited a party of three ladies to take a ride out to the bar. The day was perfect and the trip down the river was delightful, but the bar was very rough and—well we won't say anything about the way the ladies looked when they returned to Gardiner. However, if you contemplate a trip of that kind as your first experience, you might ask the school "matrons" or the Plaindealer's city editor how they stood the trip.

Normal School Notes.
DRAIN, OR., Nov. 19, 1901
Mrs. W. Mason spent a very pleasant Saturday and Sunday in Roseburg, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Crawford.
The regular term examinations have just been completed, the classes organized and are now going ahead with the work of the second term.
The teachers' review class which has a large and growing membership of progressive teachers from different parts of the county is thoroughly organized and doing some substantial review work.

The Normal school is steadily growing in membership. It has now just fifty-two per cent more students than the same time last year, while others are arriving almost daily. The following pupils have been enrolled within the past few days: Fred Bonbrake, Sadie H. H. Field, Lee Cannon, Truman Cannon, Eliza Cannon, Dorothy Dixon, Mayne Dixon, Roseburg; Leslie Miller, Haydn; Mildred and Blaine Haines, Elston; Eliza and William Ward, Loran; Hugh L. De Armond, Grants Pass.

The Zanzibar Literary Society is doing some excellent work. It is proving a valuable adjunct to the school work. The Society has adopted the plan of concentrating each program on some certain subject, topic, or author, thus the student gets a more sided view of the matter under discussion. At the last meeting the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: Albert E. Newby, president; Lester Powell, vice president; Zola Myers, secretary; Leslie Miller, treasurer; Glenn Wimberly, sergeant-at-arms.

The Students Boarding Hall is rapidly filling and will soon reach the limits of its capacity to accommodate students. Those now here are earnest, industrious, quiet and orderly, thus making the hall a pleasant home. STUDENT.

Looking Glass News.
Farming is the order of the day. Mr. Jackson is erecting a dwelling house on his farm this winter.
Why not have a Xmas tree in our little valley to amuse the children, and the old people, too.
James Goodman, the popular saw mill man of Heron, has moved his family into our burg once more.

Edward Morgan, who has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. H. D. P. Limer, at Drain, returned home a few days ago.
Our school is progressing nicely under the management of Miss Wixon, of Brookway, and Miss Badger, of Roseburg.
S. P. Brown, who has been living at Oakland, has purchased the farm of Wm. Gaskill, in our valley, and moved here to reside.

Wm. Cochran and family, of Roseburg, have moved back to our valley again, and Mr. Cochran has opened a general merchandise store.
There will be Thanksgiving services held at the church on Nov. 23. Two ministers will be present, Rev. Howard, of Dallas, and Rev. Reese, of Ten Mile. A. N. S.

not for a moment doubt one word that Mr. Scott's ability in his editorial, "A New Mare's Nest," and we cannot but recall the very strange co-incident that about the time Mr. Hanna is reported to have been honored with Mr. Scott's presence in Mr. Hanna's political closet, the editorial columns of the Oregonian seemed to lose its conspicuous yellow border. Yet after all, with a man of Mr. Scott's comprehensive ability, it is not necessary for him to see Mr. Hanna in private to realize that McKinley's administration was, comparatively speaking, very much like the man McKinley himself, faultless, for as it often happens in this world, a man of broad and grasping thought, sometimes fails to grasp a truth in its full force, until later, when his mentally inferior friend will perceive at a glance and weigh with a precision that is almost incredible. So it may be with our friend Harvey. He may have come to see, although at a very late date, without any aid from Mr. Hanna, the diamond a dash of diplomatic ability that was ever present during Mr. McKinley's entire public career.

There can be no question as to the great volume of Mr. Scott's ability even though we cannot at all times say so much as to the sincerity of purpose; however as it seems to be in order even at this early date, to place in prospective nomination the likely aspirants for senatorial and coming presidential honors and as Harvey Scott would be fine state timber out of which Oregon could build a most able senator, it might be well to concede the senatorship to Mr. Scott, and as we have another McKinley in John H. Mitchell, perhaps it would be well by the Praxians to put John H. Mitchell in nomination for first place on the coming presidential ticket, and as Mr. Scott's attitude politically toward our friend Senator Mitchell, seems lately to have undergone "A New Mare's Nest" twist, it may be that Mr. Scott will give your motion an able second and you will have taken the first step toward starting another McKinley administration and Mr. Mitchell, while yet in the Senate, could return Mr. Scott's courtesy in seconding Mr. Mitchell's presidential nomination through the able columns of the Oregonian by securing the honor of Mr. Scott's services on a senatorial committee presided over by himself, that is to say by Mr. John H. Mitchell. This would surely be that which seems imminent, namely, the great Scott would be nominally with the great Mitchell line throughout the political forests of Uncle Sam.—Oakland, Nov. 19, Escammas.

IN THE OIL FIELDS.
Work at the Plant of the Southern Oregon Oil Well Going on. Struck a Volcano.
Ever since the new 1,200 pound steel jacks arrived from San Francisco and were placed in position at the drilling plant of the Southern Oregon Oil Co., the good work of penetrating the strata has been going on with increasing activity. The well is now down to a depth of 1,280 feet and all the excellent indications of successful tapping permanent oil sands have continued and in some ways have increased since drilling has been resumed. The management were never before more hopeful and expectant of a real reward of an abundant flow of the greasy liquid as a reward for their labor and expenditure of capital.

Manager R. M. Foster's log of operations at the Southern Oregon Oil Co.'s well shows the work of drilling as follows: 15 feet of gravel; 45 to 60 feet, sandstone; 60 to 80 feet, yellow shale; 80 to 110 feet, sandstone; broken up quartz; very hard; 115 to 200, thin strata of blue clay and shale; 200 to 500, blue shale, with a show of oil; 500 to 900, white sandstone of a crystalline nature; 900 to 1100, shale and sand, show of oil again, oil blossom.

News comes from Idaho of a most remarkable strike by the Riverside Oil Co. while drilling for petroleum at their plant 1 mile east of Volcano Springs. At a depth of 500 feet the bit penetrated a subterranean volcano which released a column of steam, hot mud, and a jet of rock that shot into the air for a height of over 100 feet. The drilling outfit was wrecked but fortunately no one operating was hurt. The volcano is now a miniature volcano, hurling steam, mud and molten stuff high into the air, the roaring noise from which can be heard for over a mile distant. Operations have been entirely abandoned, and the hole is constantly enlarging and fears are entertained that the well may turn into a volcano of large proportions. Considerable work has been done in the effort to draw them out had been broken off. For several weeks Superintendent Hardison has been trying to loosen and raise the broken bits and mud with grappling hooks. He has succeeded, and the hooks finally clutched firmly and the engine began to pull. The entire string of tools was raised thirty feet in the well before the broken socket let loose and was lifted out. A slip socket which was ready to be driven down to lift the tools proved to snap and must be taken to the Kewick machine shop to be enlarged. It appears that little difficulty will be experienced in getting the tools out now and the actual drilling may soon be recommenced.—Idaho.

High School Notes
The R. Townsend, Editor, Miss Bessie Kilder, Associate
Our school notes are scarce this week. The monthly examination have just been completed, and the roll of honor is an encouraging sign.
The new pupils this month are, Victor Miller, Maude Dumbleton, Bert Riddle, Fred Adams and Keith Belmont.
The basket ball team commenced their practice last Saturday in Slocum's hall. They have much lameness and many bruises after their first trial, yet their ardor is not dampened.
The foot ball team is also practicing every day as they will play Oakland on Saturday Nov. 23, the Eugene high school on Thanksgiving day Nov. 28, and also have received challenges from Cottage Grove and Ashland which have not yet been decided upon. This makes quite a good schedule of games and we hope in the near future to have a good match game in Roseburg.

ROLL OF HONOR.
The following pupils have earned a standing of one in each of their studies, and in department, and have been neither absent nor tardy during the month ending November 15, 1901: Bessie Kilder, Hanna Wollenberg, Pearl Beals, James Koon, Forrest Friley, Bert Bryant, Alice Maho, Mabel Leonard, Etta Mayhale, Ida Carrier, LeNoir Bagdala, Olivia Rinsley, Dollie Jackson, Dexter Jones, Volney Dixon, Millie Smith, Mildred Wate, Pauline Thompson, Edith Patterson, Merta Bales, Fred Wheaton, Lucy Bridges, Mandoline, Francis Rinsley, Grace Marsters, Archie Jackson, Kate Gordon, Ella Bryan, Lucile Ragsdale, Ray Marsters, Tommy Eaton, Mary Hodson, Laura Evarite, Hazel Cavillfield, Jennie Wharton, Aileen Townsend, Oriana Chobis, Beatie Cerion, Harold Smith, Andrew Mathews, Roscoe Marsters, P.
