Judge Sehlbrede Resigns. A Foul Murder at Portland. Roosevelt Favors Chinese Exclusion.

JUDGE C. A. SEHLBREDE RESIGNS. VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 21.—Judge C. A. Sehlbrede, Court Commissioner at Skagway, resigned his position on November 14, and will return to his home in Oregon about the end of the present month.

A FOUL PORTLAND MURDER. PORTLAND, Nov. 21.—Mysterious and tragic in the extreme was the taking off of James B. Morrow, a well-known East Side young man, who fell at the hands of an assassin at 12:50 o'clock this morning while on his way home, after having passed the evening in company of Miss Leah Illidge at the home of her family on East Sixteenth street.

COUNTY OFFERS $500 REWARD. By order of the County Court, a reward of $500 is made for apprehension and conviction of the person or persons guilty of the murder of James Morrow. The action was taken this morning by Judge Calkins and Commissioner Showers, and the reward will be paid out of the general fund if the murderer is captured and convicted.

GOOD FOR PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT. WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—In his message to Congress the President will not only recommend the re-enactment of the Chinese exclusion act, but will go further and recommend that it be strengthened to increase its efficiency.

KING EDWARD IN GOOD HEALTH. NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The London correspondent of the Tribune cables: "From the highest sources of information come the most reassuring accounts of the King's health. Those who have recently been driving and shooting with him assert that he laughs heartily over the reports about his failing health, and has proved the falsity of them by exposing himself recklessly in the hunting field and by shooting hour after hour in the wind and rain."

FAVOR ANNEXATION OF CUBA. NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Francisco Gamba, president of the Cuban Commission sent by the merchants, business men and agricultural associations of Cuba to the United States with petitions for the improvement of relations between the two countries.

GLIDE, Oregon, Nov. 20, 1901. In the controversy regarding the East Umpqua bridge, I noticed an article in a recent issue of the Review, written by one J. S. Garner, in which he makes a very feeble support of the matter under discussion, also in his reply to Judge Thompson and Mr. Jenison. In the first place he disputes Mr. Thompson's statement, as to the length of the main span of the bridge at the new site. Supposedly 10, 20, or even 50 feet longer than the old one was, does that indicate that it should be rebuilt at the same place? I will venture the assertion, that a suitable site could be found within 1 mile of the old site where a span two-third the length of the old bridge could be swung, and a bridge built at a considerable less expense than at either of the other sites, yet this does not signify that it should be built there. Mr. Garner says that Judge Thompson admits that a span of the old bridge will not reach at the present site and thus leave it exposed to the dangerous current. If Mr. Garner will please explain how it will be left endangered, the Honorable Judge and board of commissioners had better employ Mr. Garner to see the construction of the bridge, not probably be the cause of saving the entire structure from destruction by the first "freshet."

As to the section of the old site in 1897 I could probably mention the names of a few persons who could satisfy Mr. Garner's curiosity, that is, if they would. I would also like to ask Mr. Garner if he had a personal conversation with the "superintendent of a large bridge company," whom he mentioned in his last article? The old adage—"Talk is cheap, but it takes money to buy whistles." Almost any idiot, whether superintendent of a bridge company, or of a dairy farm, could make that assertion and be misleading unless based on scientific and accurate calculations. A very good reason why the old bridge was not repaired, is this: In the first place it wasn't worth repairing, unless they had gone through the same mechanical process they have now in view, in building a new one. But any one with common good sense, knows that the old site isn't the proper place for it, unless it is for private purposes, but all the old bridge was used for, and when it was impossible to ford on account of high water.

Of our site was very convenient for Mr. Garner in getting easy access to his farm across the river, and while it was very convenient for one taxpayer, (7) and a very insignificant one at that, it was rather inconvenient for an entire community of nearly 50 permanent residents, some who pay several times the amount of taxes Mr. Garner pays. I can, if called upon give the names of several, and for further reference, Mr. Garner can look up the assessment rolls, in the assessor's or county clerk's office. I suppose he understands the laws and customs of the United States by this time.

Mr. GRANTLEY: "Yes Mr. Thompson, I am directly interested in a bridge being built at the old site, as every one in the community is aware, but the location is of less importance than the startling statement made by Mr. Garner, that he will build it at the old site. Well Mr. Garner, what do you think of "no snickers" on the other side of the river that have to ford every time to make a trip to Roseburg or elsewhere to secure supplies, and how are we to get our mail when the stream is un navigable? Have you heard us grumble, kick and damn every other man in the county because it wasn't built? Not much! While no bridge at all is very inconvenient for us, we are of a more patient and satisfied class. Think of the difficulties our old pioneers had to contend with; they've had here several years before there was a bridge on the stream. And we are surely able to stand it one winter. Better let your farm across the river rest awhile, Mr. Garner, it will benefit it wonderfully. We'll not have any bridge at all, whether the bridge will be "swung" unless the first freshet wash away that material which is piled along the banks of the river where the new bridge is to be constructed. Now in regard to the 35 residents who pay little or no tax at all, have
