A man traveled all around the world looking for a four leaf clover and on his return home found one growing at the door of his house. This illustrates the Myrtle Creek mining district, of Douglas County. Look at the sample ore from the Little Chietian, Alzora and Gold Brick mines on exhibition at the McClallen house and windows of various business places in this city and you will at once invest in stock while it is at its lowest price. For sale at room three, Marsters Building.

The entertainment given by Miss Francis Fulton, under the auspices of the Rebecca Lodge Tuesday evening, was very well attended and was as unique as it was interesting. All of the characters represented and literary and musical numbers rendered dated back to colonial times and all the participants, especially Walter Josephson, as the colonial musical director, acquitted themselves admirably. The drills music and entertainment throughout showed careful preparation and discipline and cleverly demonstrated the superior ability of Miss Fulton both as an instructor and an elocutionist.
