CREAMERY AND DAIRY.

Address To the Patrons of Douglas County Creamery.

In presenting this little article to you, and being somewhat acquainted with all of you. I do so believing you will accept the suggestions herein contained in the same spirit in which they are offered. There is a need to improve ourselves along dairy lines, also the product brought to our Creamery.

You are aware, that unless the butter maker is supplied with a good article of cream--it is impossible for him to put out the best grade of butter.

You take pride in our Douglas County Creamery; I hope, and are deeply interested in having an excellent grade of butter manufactured. Such a spirit is commendable in any of our Creamery patrons. Of course there are those among you, who are familiar with the following suggestions.

Some are uninformed about the proper care of milk and cream, or else they do not use the knowledge they possess.

I do hope and trust that you may receive some inspiration from what I have to say.

You, as a "Creamery Patron," having delivered your cream in a good condition at the weighing room, have done well your part, but there are many things, however, I shall try to present a few suggestions about the proper care of milk and cream, cows, cans, milking utensils, etc.

The starting point is the cow. She should be kept clean, and treated as though she was a very useful instrument of our subsistence, and she really is.

When milking, should you produce pain in a sore teat, and her foot rises in answer to the hurt, up-setting your pail of milk or produces some other disastrous result, don't suddenly let her feel the heat of your milking stool, or the strength of your foot. Never let her hear harsh, angry words which tend to make her nervous and do not irritate the cause.

The udder should always be cleaned before milking, as there is always dirt and filth gathered while lying down. In Oregon, especially in the winter time, the cow does not need to lie down to get her udder soiled.

The best way to have good clean cows is to keep the stable clean. Throughout the year bed the cows well.

Many people think the milking set the dirtiest job on the farm. The only way to insure good clean milk is to employ clean methods.

Do you milk with wet hands. If so this should not be done, as there is danger of dirt and moisture dropping in the milk pail.

This filthy habit is never practiced by a clean milkster. The cow should be milked quick and regular; always milk dry as the last drops of milk are the richest.

Straining is the next important step. Do more than merely let the milk run through the strainer; use in addition to this two or three thickness of cotton flannel or several folds of cheese cloth.

The vessels into which the milk is strained should be kept out of the barn; as there are germs known as bacteria float in the air, which will cause the milk to sour.

A good plan is to have a stand or a small shed out side the cow barn, where the air is more pure; the odor of the barn having its effect on the milk.

In separating your milk--it should be done soon as drawn from the cows, and the cream put in a cool place. Set your can in a tub or trough of cold water; change water twice a day; stir your cream two or three times each day; never mix warm cream with cold until animal heat is all out of it, always leave the cover off the cream can, using instead a mosquito netting or something similar.

In washing your separator and milking utensils always use plenty of hot water and a good stiff brush. Scald all after washing them well. Turn your milk pails upside down on a bench or table out in the sunshine where they will have a chance to drain. The sun is a bitter enemy to filth.

You can not expect a butter maker to make a good grade of butter, out of cream you did not want to use on your own table.

We must have a good flavor, and this is impossible if your milk is allowed to stand in the barn. I hope none of the patrons are guilty of this.

In delivering your cream to the creamery cover your cans with canvas or blankets in order to protect the cream from the sun, and from dust and dirt. Fill your cans full as possible, this protects the cream from churning on the road and gives a better test.

I will give some rules, which may be useful to you.

1. Keep only good cows. In order to find which is the profitable cow, bring sample of each cows milk to the factory and have it tested.

2. Always feed good clean food. Such strong foods as cabbage, potatoes etc., never feed until just after milking.

3. Provide good warm barns for your milk cows in the winter. Give the cow good comfortable bedding. Keeping the cow in a comfortable condition as much as to do with making her profitable. Milk as near the same time each day as possible.

4. Drive them quietly home from pasture. Leave the dog at the house if he happens to be cross with the cows.

5. Never cause them to get over heated before milking.

6. Never use the milk from a cow before the ninth milking after calving.

7. Take two good dairy papers and read them. Would recommend, "Herd Dairy man" and "Pacific Homestead."

8. Observe your milking closely and do not milk any bloody milk in your milk bucket.

9. Have the cows stanchion convention (Concluded on fourth page.)

Governor Gage Turned Down--Big Railroad Strike Pending--Bad Bridge Accident

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 27.—After fighting one of the most bitter political battles in his public career, Governor Gage of California, suffered defeat in the Republican state convention in this city today. Amid the greatest confusion Dr. George C. Pardee, of Alameda County, was this morning nominated by the Republican State Convention for Governor on the sixth ballot, the third one of the day. It was with the greatest difficulty the chairman could announce the result of the vote. Delegates were on their feet cheering. Above all sounded the chairman's gavel, vainly rapping for order. The enthusiasm came to an end finally, when the chairman announced the result. Hayes moved the nomination of Pardee be made unanimous. It was seconded by Flint delegates and adopted by the convention. Dr. Pardee was called to the platform. He made a brief speech, expressing his gratification and predicted success at the polls.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 27.—Nominated for Congress, First California District. J. N. Gillett, Republican.

BIG RAILROAD STRIKE PENDING.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 27.—The Sentinel this morning says: By September 15 the large railway systems of the country will be confronted with a demand by 100,000 members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen for an increase of wages, which will mean an additional outlay of $1,000,000 a month for wages by railroads in the country or the alternative of a strike which will eclipse in its extent all previous strikes, including the demonstration of the American Railway Union in 1894. The demands which have been formulated are for an increase of 20 per cent in wages.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 27.—Assistant Grand Master Lee, of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, said today: "It is true that a concerted movement has been inaugurated by trainmen and conductors employed on railroads west of the Mississippi River to secure uniform rules and compensation."

TERRIBLE BRIDGE ACCIDENT.

CORVALLIS, Aug. 26.—An accident which nearly proved fatal occurred to Ed Andrews and wife, of Corvallis and the latter's sister, Mrs. L. N. Riley of Portland, Sunday. While passing over a slough bridge four miles east of Corvallis, the center span of the structure collapsed, precipitating the team, buggy and occupants a distance of 18 feet into three feet of water, and an unknown depth of mud. In the fall, the three persons were turned underneath the vehicle. Mr. Andrews was the first to emerge from the critical situation, and fortunately, he was enabled to promptly rescue his wife.

When she was safely on shore Mr. Andrews made a search for Mrs. Riley and presently saw a hand emerge from the muddy water, and in the face of much danger from the struggling horses plunged forward and successfully rescued her, but not before she was nearly drowned. She was unconscious but soon revived.

All received injuries, none serious except those of Mrs. Riley, whose spine was injured between the shoulders causing a partial paralysis of the arms.

BAD WIFE MUST BE KEPT.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Justice Spring, of the New York Supreme Court, sitting in the Appellate division, has handed down a decision in which he holds that gross extravagance and forgery committed by a wife to raise money do not in this state constitute a cause of action for a limited divorce, and he therefore refuses to reverse the action of the lower court, which dismissed the complaint in a suit brought on the grounds mentioned. In discussing the case Justice Spring is quoted as having said:

"A husband takes a wife for better or worse, and because she does not conform her expenditures to his notions of economy is not a ground for casting her from him."

ELKS FIND $16,000 IS MISSING.

OMAHA, Aug. 26.—It has just been learned that the auditing committee of the Elk's Grand Lodge found, during the inspection of the order's books, at the meeting of the organization held in Salt Lake City, that a shortage of $16,000 existed. The funds belonging to the lodge had been gradually misappropriated for a number of years. It is not likely that there will be any prosecution, at least until there has been a thorough investigation of the matter by the officers of the grand lodge.

PLANS FOR A GREAT TROLLEY LINE.

EUGENE, Aug. 26.—An endeavor to purchase the Eugene light plant is being made by Eastern parties, who represent that it is their intention to put in an extensive system of electric power, running through Oregon and California. It is the intention to put in a trolley system connecting Portland and San Francisco.

MURDERER WHITE CAUGHT.

PORTLAND, Aug. 27.—Andrew White, the slayer of Peter Beachene, the Frenchman, who was found dead on the street the other night, was arrested at Vancouver, Wash., last night and brought to Portland today.

HEROES GALORE.

Buffalo Bill's Big Wild West Show - At Portland. Will be in Roseburg August 30

PORTLAND, Aug. 26.—The story of the early days on the Western plains was brought to mind in all its glory and reality by the great troupe of painted Indians, husky cowboys and warriors from all parts of the world that captured the hearts and eyes of Portland today. Col. Cody, tanned by the sun of the frontier, led a band of the reckless wonder workers who have made the West famous and men who saw their comrades melt down in battle's fire on every bloody field of recent history.

He was a sight to inspire the heart of every true patriot as the boys who followed the flag in the bloody fight at San Juan Hill rode to the sweet music of peace. The Cossaks who had fought the great fights on the fields of Europe, and Moorish warriors, tanned by the eternal sun, whose deeds of valor and heroism have given them a place in history so often that their story is an old repeated tale.

The German Cuirassiers, with their shining helmets, real pictures of their brothers who ride beneath the hammer of the Emperor, are to the eye a pleasing contrast to the rough and ready hero of the Western plains, but he can never win the American love as admiration from the boys who have seen rough life as it really is upon the wild and rolling prairie.

The past wars of England are brought again into review, as the troopers who won medals for gallantry in the African struggle galloped by. There were also the dervishes of the sands made famous by a long history that time can never efface. Closely following them were the Hansars of West Africa.

And then dearer to us than all were those who had added another chapter to American history, the rough riders whose names have spread throughout the entire world. There were Mexicans with their broad sombreros and the air of suppressed enthusiasm and recklessness. The dusky Indians, so common to us, have not the charms nor seem so wondrous as they do to those farther East, where the dusky tribes have been extinct for centuries. But they are real—the real demons, who but a few years back, stained the daisies with the blood of the settlers.

There were constant cheers and murmurs of applause as the line of strange and familiar heroes went by, but there was a responsive cord latched in every heart when the old Deadwood stage rolled by with its sole occupant, an Indian child, gaily painted and decked with gawdy feathers. Some how or other these living examples of the past are interesting to even those to whom this rough life is familiar.

An immense crowd lined the streets on the entire course of the parade and every one appreciated the different troops as they slowly passed—many realizing that, could the stories be told of each different detachment, it would be a sublime panorama of heroism and war. There is one thing noticeable in the parade, every horse looks well kept and groomed. They are fine specimens of the race, and one thing about the exhibition is that it is real—all true to life.

This great aggregation will be at Roseburg Saturday.

We have in stock several second hand bicycles which we will sell at very low prices or will trade for wood.

THE BALANCE OF HEALTH

Is often very much against the wife. Her strength is undiminished, she loses flesh and her energy and courage slowly leak away from her. Gradually the comradeship of husband and wife is broken up. At first he takes his solitary pleasures reluctantly, but later he hardly seems to remember the old days over which his wife in her weakness mourns daily.

Women who find their health failing, and womanly ailments fastening on them, should promptly begin the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It corrects irregularity, dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong, sick women well. Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence held as strictly private and guaranteed confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I had been a great sufferer from female weakness for about two years," writes Mrs. Emma Richardson, of Gooch Wayne Co., Ky. "Could not do any work part of the time. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and felt as well as I ever did. I have also used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for several years of the throat with good results and half of one bottle cured my throat when I could scarcely swallow."

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, free, on receipt of stamps for mailing only. Send 21 cent stamps for the paper-covered book, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
