A Lakeview bachelor said: "It takes an awful lot of faith to believe a woman is built like her clothes make her seem to be." Wednesday afternoon the body of Ed Johnson, the man who was shot and killed last Sunday night by Cal Griffin was disinterred and a post mortem examination held over the remains by Coroner Kremer at Grants Pass. A post-mortem examination was found necessary in order to elicit several important facts required by the District Attorney. These facts concerned the matter of whether or not Johnson was shot in the back. The examination and verdict rendered by the coroner's jury did not produce these facts. Griffin swears that he did not shoot Johnson in the back, but a number of witnesses state that he did, and that he was attempting to flee when Griffin shot him down. The case will be one of importance. The prisoner will be ably defended. An attorney from Portland will aid in the defense.

The PLAIN DEALER editor returned home Friday, Mrs. Connor and little son, prolonging their visit at Cottage Grove. We found quite an epidemic of Scarletina prevalent among the children at that place and with which the editor's little son was afflicted a few days ago, but from which he soon recovered as do all the children thus afflicted down there, after an illness of from two to four days. Two days were spent with the elder Connor out on the old home farm where an immense grain crop had been harvested. We might have remained longer, but arrangements were being made to begin the harvesting of a five acre tract of Burbank potatoes, which recalled unpleasant memories of our boyhood days and caused a sudden longing for the editorial sanctum to creep over us.

T. H. Supple and John Curran, of Cottage Grove, returned to Roseburg Friday from a tour of Coos county in the interest of a mining proposition in the Bohemia district in which they are interested. They seem highly elated over their prospect and have implicit confidence that this district will be one of the leading mining sections of the county in the very near future. They were still very skeptical and indifferent regarding the construction of the Great Central railroad and that nothing less than the commencement of actual construction work will inspire their confidence in the enterprise. Mr. Supple said every thing went well till they began to hang harness over there, when he and his friend were suddenly seized with a longing for home and began to retrace their footsteps.
