His Stepma.

I knowed a little codger once
As onery as could be;
He'd chaw and swear, run off from school,
And pester beast and tree;
Kept all the neighbors' dogs afeared
And half their winders broke;
There couldn't for that Tommy Tuff
One praisin' word be spoke.

But by and by—his ma was dead—
His pa met Widder Green
And courted her; she parleyed som
'Cause Tommy was so mean.
But last she said she'd give consent
If neighbors, friends, and kin
Would promise to let meddlin' ont
While she broke Tommy in.

These mentioned, knowin' things was bad,
Saw some thing must be done,
So all agreed to keep hands off
And let his stepma run
The youngster; well, she used the twig
A little, but not much;
But, gracious! How she used the ax
And 'tater hoe and such!

She keep that boy a choppin' wood
And doin' turn and chores,
And hoein' corn and garden sass
And scrubbin' steps an' floors
Till he was glad to go to school
To get a little rest;
Yet she was monstrous kind and good
Soon as he'd done his best.

His busy hands stirred up his wits,
And soon that boy at school
Was leadin' all his classes; him
They used to call a fool!
He studied doctorin,' got to be
A most uncommon man,
All 'cause his stepma worked the vim
That once to meanness ran.

The nerve that playin' hookey takes
Might turn a whole school down,
And that which breaks a winder light
Might sometimes build a town,
There's lots of onery little tykes
A loafin' 'round the streets
Need only work to make 'em men
Instead of trifflin' beats.
