Twice-a-Week Plaindealer, per year, $2.00

OCTOBER 23, 1902

The greater portion of this issue of our paper is taken up with matter pertaining to the resources of our county and the country to be traversed by the Great Central Railroad. It is a splendid number to send to an Eastern relative or friend who may be interested in Southwestern Oregon. While giving all the news up-to-date the PLAINDEALER will put forth its best efforts to bring a full share of the Eastern immigration to this part of the state, by setting forth the great resources and opportunities afforded investors in this section of Oregon.

There are 1200 kegs or 300 barrels of beer consumed in Eugene every month, says a local paper. Eugene should sober up and reform.

The results in Vermont and Maine imply that the Democracy is still in the boneyard and doomed to remain in it.

This Fall Season.

Is a memorable one for this store. We are handling a larger volume of business than ever, and set an even higher standard of both merit and value in merchandise of quality.

We're working hard and you may expect the unusual of us as usual.

The laying of the corner stone and driving the first nail in the new headquarters building of the Great Central Railroad Co., will be attended by appropriate ceremonies this afternoon on the depot grounds, in North Roseburg. The mayor and prominent citizens and railway officials will participate.

Geo. Frater, who has been assisting his father in the postoffice at this place pending the installation of a new clerk, returned to his home at Riddle Tuesday. As soon as the fall rains set in, he will begin operations for the winter season in their fine place near the Cracker Jack—in the Cow Creek canyon, and they anticipate a good big clean up in the spring.

That odd fellow, Henry Beresford, who fairly bubbles over with humorism, will be seen in this city in George Broadhurst's delightful farce "The Wrong Mr. Wright" in which he portrays the part of an erratic, excited, absent-minded millionaire, who from being a defiant woman-hater becomes the adject slave of one of the female sex. In the development of the plot Mr. Beresford brings to bear his great personal magnetism, his play of facial expression and his charm of grotesque mannerism that add a little to the development of an exorcistically staged and gowned and cast in a manner befitting a production of this magnitude and we are promised that no attention to detail will be missed.

Neilsen-Nichols Wedding.

The social event of the season at Junction City was the wedding of Chas. Neilsen and Miss Georgie Pearl Nichols, in the Degree of Honor hall, Oct. 15, 1902, Rev. G. L. Lobdell officiating. The wedding was a brilliant affair, there being many attendants and a beautiful, impressive ceremony. Mr. Neilsen is a well known and justly popular S. P. fireman, who has a run out of Roseburg, while the bride is a charming and accomplished young lady of Lane county. Many friends in this city join the PLAINDEALER in extending congratulations and best wishes.

RAILROAD TOOLS ORDERED

Twelve Big Wheel Scrapers and Plows Combined.

READY FOR SPRING OPERATIONS

Major Kinney Pleased With Roseburg and Encouragement Received Here.

An order has been placed with S. K. Sykes, a local hardware dealer, for twelve large wheel scrapers and plows combined and several heavy wagons, by the Great Central Railroad people to be delivered and in readiness to push construction work out of this city as soon as the weather will permit in the spring. In the meantime, work on the depot and headquarters buildings in this city will be pushed to completion the preliminary survey and setting of grade stakes will move right along and everything will be in shape for lively construction work when the winter rains will have abated. Major Kinney, chief engineer, has just returned from Portland and reports matters at the head office in excellent shape. He is full of news regarding the progress of the railroad and kindred enterprises. He said contractor Small was getting ahead satisfactorily on the grade between Marshfield and Empire, and the contract for the long trestle between those two towns has just been awarded to Roseburg and Marshfield men. No other railroad construction is contemplated until next spring on any part of the line, but everything will be in readiness for rapid work then. Of the Major's visit to Portland the Oregonian said:

"Roseburg pleases Major Kinney greatly. He announces the decision to make a railroad junction there before securing land for any purpose. This, he says, was done in order that the railroad project might not suffer from real estate speculation or other incidental operations. Then an option was taken on 1000 acres of land that has been in litigation so long that the city has grown around two sides of it, 100 acres were donated to the Great Central Railroad for depot and yards, a local corporation was organized, with capital of $50,000, to handle the real estate, and Major Kinney has just bought the stock of the corporation at Par. Four Roseburg citizens, he says, have cleared up $8000 each by the transaction in four days.

Work has been begun on a depot and office building, but lack of lumber delays progress. Major Kinney says Roseburg is the best town he knows of for a good lumber yard. And the town is growing so fast that there is hardly shelter for the people.

Two passes across the Cascades have been examined for a railroad easterly from Roseburg, and Major Kinney says he will soon examine a third. The first two are pronounced feasible, but it is hoped a better one will be found.

At Bangor, the new Coos bay town site, Major Kinney says a commissary building to cost $5000 is about half completed, the townsite is largely cleared and preparations for other structures are being forward. "We are getting everything in shape for construction work on a large scale in the spring," said he. "I am absolutely sure of the Great Central Railroad now, and am planning the work for next season, which is certain to be a busy one. Roseburg people are manifesting deep interest in the railroad, and are doing what they can to help it along. They take hold of the construction, and will secure some of the benefits from that end of it. I must say, however, that Portland's people don't seem to care whether construction benefits come here or not. San Francisco is taking a great deal more interest, and I am afraid it will take the profit that Portland and Oregon ought to have. Enterprise along this line pays."

CIRCUIT COURT ADJOURNED.

Jury men Were All Discharged Monday Evening—More Orders made.

The work of the circuit court for the October term closed Wednesday. On Monday evening Judge Hamilton discharged the remaining jury men for the term. The other civil and equity cases were disposed of as follows:

The jury in the case of A. A. Fick vs Schmidt Hotel & Investment Co. disagreed and the case will be continued until the next term of court. The suit was brought for damages alleged to have been caused by the defendants placing a snailbox patient in a building owned by the plaintiff.

The injunction suit of B. Brockway against the City of Roseburg was continued until the January term of court. This action was brought to permanently enjoin the city council and other city officials from entering into a contract with the Roseburg Water & Light Co. to furnish the city with lights for a term of ten years. The alleged grounds are that such a contract would be a violation of the city charter, which provides that no current indebtedness in excess of $5,000 shall be incurred by the city.

In the case of F. B. Waite, executor of the estate of Fendal Sutherland, to recover certain cattle held by Sampson Sutherland, the jury decided that the cattle were the property of the latter, having been given to him by Fendal Sutherland before his death.

CASES ACTED UPON.

(A) Edwin A. Mack, plf, vs G. W. Thompson, def, action at law; O. P. Coshov atty for plf, and A. M. Crawford atty for def. Judgment on stipulation for $375.
