According to the latest bulletin issued by the U. S. Geological Survey the loss of timber in Oregon by the recent fire is placed at 54,000,000 feet valued at $54,000,000. These figures are beyond doubt, largely exaggerated. There were hundreds of thousands of acres burned over incurring no damage whatever to timber and thousands of acres of slashings and old burns were swept by flames that did no harm other than to fill the air with smoke.

The Great Central Depot grounds in North Roseburg, on which the framework of the new headquarters building is all up, proved the center of attraction for our citizens Sunday. The new building is 30 by 100 feet, and is located on a slight incline overlooking the city and the beautiful new addition to Roseburg with its wide streets and attractive building lots. The main street in this tract running North and South and East and West is 100 feet in width, the other streets being 90 feet wide.

Edward A. Allen, editor of the Pacific Furniture Trades, of San Francisco and a representative of the San Francisco News Bureau, was in this city Thursday in the interests of his paper. He gathered data and information while here, for a write-up of Roseburg and Douglas county which is to appear in the December number of the Pacific Furniture Trades. Mr. Allen expressed himself as most highly pleased with the business-like appearance and the general activity of Roseburg. He predicts a prosperous future for this city.

Prof. Sanders, principal of the Roseburg Public Schools, made this office a pleasant call Friday evening. He reports school work progressing most satisfactorily, the attendance having exceeded 50. High School students have organized a strong football team and is being ably coached by Walter Faulkner. A series of games will soon be played with the Astoria, Cottage Grove and Eugene, High Schools. The continued upbuilding and progress of the Roseburg High School and Public Schools is most encouraging.

The family of Rev. F. S. Minshall arrived at Roseburg from Anderson, Indiana, on the overland Saturday morning. Rev. Minshall came last March to ascertain the desirability of the Umpqua valley for a home before leaving permanently. When asked his impression of Oregon, Mr. Minshall said, "I believe Roseburg will be a metropolitan city in the not distant future. The climate and a firm belief in the industrial future of the Pacific Coast are the reasons I am here. Even in the brief time I have been here, I have felt a quickening of the industrial pulse that indicates very clearly to me that Roseburg is just entering upon an era of unexampled prosperity. I believe there is untold mineral wealth within easy access of this city, while the priceless value of Oregon's timber is known to all. Of course the new railroad is the basis of my hopes and I believe in the enterprises with all my heart."

HOBOS SLAY AN OFFICER.

Body of Dunsmuir's Constable Found in a Power Ditch.

ASHLAND, Or., Oct. 25.—There is considerable excitement in Northern California today over the discovery of the remains of Constable J. N. White, of Dunsmuir, who it is believed was murdered on his way home yesterday by hobos. This morning, at 8 o'clock, H. Scherer, proprietor of the Electric Light Company, found White, who is 65 years old, lying in the ditch that serves the Company with power. There was an ugly gash over his left temple that looked as though it had been produced by a gunshot or blunt instrument, and the back of his head was terribly crushed, while the body had evidently been in water all night.

The Constable had been quite active of late trying to rid the town of desperate gangs of hobos, who have been infesting Dunsmuir. A few days since, he arrested two for burglary, who subsequently broke jail, and just previous to his death was searching for others who had burglarized a nearby store.

Constable White was last seen by his family Thursday night. He leaves three sons, all Southern Pacific Railroad men: Conductor G. A. White, of Ashland; Boyl White, of Bisbee, Ariz., and Will White, of Demar, and a daughter, Mrs. E. J. Casey, who is married to a Southern Pacific conductor running out of Tucson, Ariz.

"Big Red Cheeked Apples."

This office is in receipt of a box of apples, the kind that made Oregon famous years ago, for its fruit of this variety. They are big red cheeked Baldwins, free of worms, seeds or any blemish whatever, and measure 12 inches in circumference. They are the product of the fine orchard of Wm. Lawrence, at Millwood, and many such orchards are coming into bearing in this county, which is becoming celebrated far and near for its fine peaches, pears, plums and apples.

During the District Fair, Hon. I. B. Riddle, of Riddle, had the misfortune to lose his Elk tooth charm, which was found in a beer keg at the Albany brewery last week. How the charm came there is a mystery, but it is supposed that some one either stole or found it and as it had Mr. Riddle's name engraved on the mounting, placed it in an empty keg to dispose of it as he could not sell it.

Thos. Brown, of Coos county, arrived in this city Saturday evening on his way to Portland, where he will enter the Odd Fellows' Home. Mr. Brown is now 86 years old and has been a member of the order of Odd Fellows for the past 36 years, having joined the first lodge that was instituted on this coast at San Francisco in a tent in 1865. Mr. Brown is the first gentleman from Southern Oregon to be installed as an inmate of the home.

Everett B. Brown, of Grants Pass, was taken through Roseburg for the insane asylum last week. He was captain of the Grants Pass Co. O. N. G., and served in the Philippines. He was quite a lodge organizer and secured the appointment as postal clerk when the attraction of 23c in silver and 26c in stamps was traced to him and he was indicted. He claimed to have been out of his mind when doing it and he was not imprisoned. He was working in a grocery store when his mind went to pieces.

The northbound train, due here Friday night at 11:15 o'clock, did not reach Roseburg until 9:20 o'clock Saturday morning, being delayed by an accident to freight train No. 222 at Higo, Josephine county. A heavily laden car left the rails, tearing up about 50 yards of track before the train was brought to a stop. Pending repairs, traffic was delayed for about 8 hours. The northbound local train No. 12 was delayed about 22 hours Sunday, on account of a slide near Dunsquair Calif. No. 16 was also 8 hours late and this morning local four hours late.
