STARVED TO DEATH.

Help That Came Too Late.

"The Carisbrooke Castle, arrived in from the West Indies, reports picking up a raft with the body of an elderly man who had evidently died of starvation. There was no clue to the man's identity, nor any marks to determine the origin

In those few lines another clueless mystery of old ocean was disposed of. There was nothing to marvel at that a man should die of starvation. Had he lived it would have been a real marvel indeed. Or had he died of starvation surrounded by abundant food, that would have been both a marvel and a mystery to the world at large. For the world at large does not know that a great many elderly people die of starvation in the midst of plenty. They have food enough, but the stomach is "weak" and the food cannot be digested and converted into nutrition. The body grows weak as every starved body does. And at last the life is destroyed by some common place malady, which would have been easily thrown off by a well nourished body.

It is because death in such cases is at tributed to the trivial malady and not to the true cause starvation—that there is no general appreciation of a common

When a medicine is offered as "bloodmaking" or "strength-giving," ask your-self: Out of what is blood made and what is the source of physical strength? Blood may properly be said to be only digested food. Food is the source of all strength food. Food is the source of all strength when, by the digestive processes, it is converted into blood, which is the life of the body. No medicine can make a drop of blood. No medicine can give an ounce of strength, Blood and strength must come from food, and the only sense in which Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is called a bloodmaking and strength-giving medicine is in that it cures the diseases of the stomach and other organs
